DIEFENBAKER:

No Plan For Price Controls

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

MONCTON, N.B.—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated here Friday in an interview that he did not have price controls in mind when he issued a sharp warning to Canadian corporations not to boost prices and blame the devalued dollar.

This correspondent informed the prime minister that Liberal Leader Pearson at Windsor had suggested that the prime minister had price controls in mind to counter the impact of the devalued dollar.

ALL THEY KNOW

"Oh, no, no, you tell Mr. Pearson he is too close to the boys with the shiny controls, Messrs. Lamontagne and Kent. That's all they know is controls," reported the prime minister.

"I was ready. I have something in mind and business knows it. I worked. I was up early Thursday and I worked on this thing. I was ready," he said.

Asked if he had in mind an inquiry by the combines commission under the Combines Act, the prime minister replied: "I'm not prepared to say what I had in mind."

Major Firms Not Hiking Bread Price

Major bread manufacturers today indicated that they will hold the line on bread prices even though smaller bakeries insist that they will have to raise the price to meet expanded costs of flour.

George C. McCall, president of George Weston Limited, announced in the east Friday night that "Weston's will not increase the price of bread, as there is no justification for a price increase."

The Victoria manager of McGavin's Toastmaster Ltd., H. D. Mitchell, said today he has had no discussions with his head office about raising the price of bread.

"I don't know what it (the price) is going to do," he told the Times.

FLOUR PRICE UP

Other Victoria bakers, however, indicated that they might raise the price from one to two cents per loaf, because of the increased price of flour.

They were smaller, local bakeries, whose products retail at about three cents less than the current big-firm price of 19 cents a loaf.

"The price of flour has gone up, even if Diefenbaker does not like it," said a spokesman for Arnold's Bakeries.

"The last batch of flour we bought was quite a bit cheaper than the next one will be, and the price of flour has been creeping up steadily for over a year."

"Whether the price increase will be one or two cents, I don't know."

"The price certainly should go up," said A. & L. Bakeries.

"People in the interior are paying 20 cents a loaf, and the flour is cheaper there."

Fulton Warns Bread Firms

VANCOUVER (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Friday night any general increase in the price of bread will result in immediate investigation of bakery companies, involved under provisions of the Combines Act.

ELECTION UNDER WAY

One of the first to cast a ballot in the June 18 federal election is Mrs. T. C. Smith, 1258 Yates, watching as poll clerk Mrs. Myrtle Okell puts her ballot in the box at advance poll in the YMCA. Balloting was light at both Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich early today. Voters who will be absent from the city on election day may cast their votes until 8 tonight, and on Monday. — (Halkett Photo.)

IN SOUTH KOREA

Anti-U.S. Move Grows

SEOUL (AP)—Anti-American demonstrations spread in South Korea today. The U.S. Army ordered American military personnel in the Seoul area restricted to base except for official business.

A U.S. Army spokesman called the confinement order a "temporary measure to reduce the possibility of incidents" in view of the wave of demonstrations demanding the U.S. government sign a status-of-forces agreement giving South Korea court jurisdiction over American servicemen in some instances.

OAS Bombs U.S. Centre

ALGIERS (UPI)—The Secret Army Organization (OAS) bombed and set fire to the U.S. cultural centre today in a gesture of defiance at the state department which recently condemned the OAS campaign of terror and violence.

About 300 university students defying stern new warnings from South Korea's ruling military junta marched out of Taegu University today in the third demonstration in a week resulting from the alleged beating of a Korean civilian trespasser by two U.S. Army officers last month.

A solid wall of police halted the students about 100 yards from the main gate of the university in South Korea's third largest city, about 200 miles southeast of Seoul.

Refusing to withdraw, the students squatted in the street and turned their protest into a sit-down strike. There were no reports of violence.

The government announced Friday night that the U.S. has agreed in principle to resume negotiations toward a status-of-forces pact. But it said Washington had raised issues which South Korea "finds difficult to accept."

It did not elaborate on these points but said the U.S. has been asked to reconsider them.

DESPERATE RESCUE BID FAILS

Fly Spray Drink Kills Boy

KAMLOOPS (CP)—David McTague, 4, who was dramatically revived by his father after his heart stopped beating, died Friday night in hospital from a lethal dose of a poison-bus fly spray.

The accident happened at Clearwater, about 80 miles north of here.

Helicopter pilot Bill Harvey, working in the Clearwater area, undertook to fly the child to hospital here. The boy's father, Harry McTague, went with him.

Harvey landed at Blackpool, about 10 miles from Clearwater, when the boy turned blue. He got a salt solution from a nearby home and gave it to the child.

Shortly after the flight resumed, the boy's heart apparently stopped, the pilot reported.

Franco Takes Firmer Grip

Two Die In Hotel Blaze

FLIN FLON, Man (CP)—Two men died today in a fire that destroyed the 20-room Flin Flon Hotel Art Ball, night manager, said earlier 11 of the 32 guests at the hotel were missing, he said later that all have been accounted for.

Both victims were found in the hotel and taken to the town morgue in the adjacent Hudson Bay Mining Employees' hospital immediately behind the burning building.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Hospital officials were reported considering evacuating the frame hospital.

There were no other reported injuries although hotel patrons are reported to have escaped by jumping from second storey windows and sliding down sheets to safety.

WIRE BRIEFS

Five Die in Crash

CALGARY (CP)—Five persons, including four men in their 20s, were killed in a head-on collision 18 miles south of here early today.

U.S. Nuclear Blast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States detonated a nuclear explosion near Christmas Island today — the 16th announced test in the current Pacific series. The Atomic Energy Commission said the weapon was dropped from an airplane and was of intermediate yield — probably about 100,000 tons of TNT.

Shooting Protested

BERLIN (AP)—The United States sharply protested to the Russians today over shooting in connection with the escape of 14 East Germans Friday aboard an excursion boat in Berlin.

Red Asks Asylum

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—A Soviet sailor jumped ship here and asked for political asylum in West Germany, police reported today.

Hospital Chiefs Quit

MONTREAL (CP)—The resignations of two top officials of St. Michel Hospital, named in a provincial inquiry commission's report for accepting profitable contracts with the government-subsidized hospital, were announced today.

By HAROLD K. MILKS
MADRID (AP)—Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centres hit by a seven-week siege of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

The strikes—illegal in Spain—dropped off sharply late last month after the government promised some workers pay increases of up to 50 per cent.

Franco's cabinet approved the decree suspending a key clause in Spain's bill of rights a few hours after the second bomb incident in three days rocked the Banco Popular, a big financial institution in the heart of Madrid.

Police blamed the left-wing Popular Liberation Front for the bombings which shattered windows in the bank and caused other damage. They were linked to recent strikes.

Franco has charged that Soviet subversion and "hot-headed separatist" Catholic priests played a major role in the strikes which killed more than 60,000 workers in the provinces of Asturias, Leon, Bilbao, Barcelona and Madrid itself.

Some priests have supported the north Basque region's demands for independence. Others have openly backed the strikes for higher wages. (See page 22.)

Franco said, however, the attitude of some priests did not alter the fundamental harmony between the church and state. Roman Catholicism is the state religion in Spain.

Dozens Arrested

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP)—Police moved in quickly today on sit-down demonstrations trying to block supplies to the United States Polaris submarine depot ship Proteus, arresting them by the dozen.

WASTING OUR TIME

Sparrows Winning Despite RAF Blitz

DONCASTER, England (AP)—RAF members were locked in battle with hundreds of chattering sparrows over the visit of Princess Margaret to their base at Finningley, Notts, next Thursday.

So far the sparrows are winning.

The aim of Operation Sparrow is to drive out the birds nesting in No. 1 and No. 2 hangars—right over the spot where the princess, in summer frock and flowered hat, will present new colors to two of Britain's V-bomber squadrons.

The airmen have climbed to the attack with sticks and brooms and torn down scores of nests from the rafters.

"But it looks as if we are wasting our time," said a sergeant. "The sparrows wait a

CAMPUS PRODIGY

Despite his tender years, Lance Kerr, 13, has just finished his freshman year at the University of California at Los Angeles. Lance, who is less than five feet tall, figures he'll have a "B" average in his classes in anthropology, physics, maths and Russian. He plans to become a physicist. (AP Wirephoto.)

U.S. Senate Votes Record Arms Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate appropriations committee sided with the United States Air Force against President Kennedy and Defence Secretary McNamara Friday in voting the biggest military money bill in United States peacetime history.

The committee sent to the Senate a bill that would provide the full $491,000,000 requested by air force chief Gen. Curtis Lemay to speed development of the 2,000-mile-an-hour RS-70 reconnaissance strike airplane.

Kennedy's budget called for only $171,000,000 to continue development of a prototype or experimental plane and McNamara turned a deaf ear to Lemay's appeal for more funds to speed up the work.

The total appropriation approved by the Senate committee for the fiscal year starting July 1 was $48,429,221,000. This is $522,000,000 more than Kennedy requested for the armed services and nearly $2,000,000,000 more than Congress voted last year.

NEEDED HUSBAND

A 25-year-old mother of two said she set fire to her house because she needed her husband, a convicted Freedomite terrorist.

Asked why she had burned her home, a wedding present from her husband five years ago, Mrs. Kay Makortoff replied:

"Because I need my husband with me and my home is no use to me unless we can be together. The government has separated us and they might as well take everything."

Her husband was recently sentenced to 15 years after being convicted of helping to blow up a Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company power pylon. The destruction of the pylon put 1,000 men out of work.

Tory Urges 90c Dollar

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) Liberal Leader Pearson said today that Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton is going to get into a lot of trouble for saying the dollar should be devalued to 90 cents in terms of United States currency.

"How can people have confidence in the present value of the Canadian dollar when a minister of the Crown says that he and some of his colleagues want to reduce further the value of the dollar?" Mr. Pearson asked.

Mr. Hamilton said in Vancouver Friday he favors a further devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 90 cents.

Mr. Hamilton told a press conference that the present level of 92½ cents is in effect a compromise among Conservative government members.

The 90-cent level, he said, is a "natural peg which is defensible with our negative trade balance."

'House no Use Without Mate'

TRAIL (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors kindled fires in five more of their homes in the British Columbia Kootenay today, continuing a fire demonstration that started Friday.

Police said furniture was being moved from more of the Sons' homes at Glade, 40 miles north of here, and there apparently would be more burnings.

Friday at the villages of Krestova, Shoreacres and Gilpin, members of the radical sect burned more than 50 of their own homes, then paraded in the nude as the plywood and tarpaper shacks crackled.

Most of the Freedomite children were kept from school Friday, duplicating a past performance by the sect that resulted in the provincial government taking many children from their parents.

Police said there were no arrests because of the burnings but added if children are not back at school Monday action by truant officers will be necessary.

A reporter-photographer team from the Nelson News said some of the women at Krestova tossed buckets of water at police and reporters. About 10 of them stripped then started tossing stones.

"Get out, we're very upset today," they cried. "We can't be responsible for what we do."

"We'll pull your pants off. We'll throw rocks."

The women said "God told us to set their homes on fire." But authorities said the fires were likely in protest against Monday's preliminary hearing in New Westminster of 71 of the sect's fraternal council who are charged with conspiring to intimidate the legislature of B.C. and the Parliament of Canada with acts of violence. T. G. Bowen-Cole, the attorney-general's department said the hearing will go on as scheduled.

The communiqué made no mention of further talks. Following his talks Friday with Boun and pro-Communist Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphanouvong, Souvanna said an official session would be held Monday.

WOMAN KNIFES POLICEMAN

EDMONTON (CP)—An Edmonton policewoman suffered cuts on her face and legs in an attack today by a knife-wielding woman in a downtown cafe. Police said a special constable in the cafe apparently offered no assistance.

Sally Krowchynski, 28, was taken to hospital and was reported in good condition. One wound on her left cheek required 14 stitches to close. In all it required 32 stitches to close all the cuts.

Ruby Green, 37, was charged with wounding with intent.

Centennial Flashback ...

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

A special excursion to Nanaimo is planned tomorrow, to enable citizens to have a restful day at sea and to attend the opening of the new church. The steamer Enterprise will leave Victoria at noon, and return to Victoria noon Monday. Fare for the round-trip excursion is $3.

The schooner Explorer has been chartered by a group intending to sail around the Island, combining hunting and fishing with prospecting and exploring.

Three Victoria residents indignantly denied they have anything to do with the British Columbia Transit Co. of London (see June 5), although their names are listed as directors. They are K. Gamble, Edward Langley and Thomas Southgate, all of whom are convinced the so-called "transit company" is out to balk the public.

The section of the incorporation bill requiring the municipal authorities to keep the Esquimalt Road in repair was thrown out by the House of Assembly in committee of the whole.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A front-page picture of Her Majesty in the Times said that she was wearing the uniform of the Goldstream Guards. Sharp-eyed reader Bunny Holiday caught the boob and says it probably derived from the editorial page cartoon of the same day—a Bob Bierman satire on the $2 camping fee, set in Goldstream Park.

Government House has never been friendlier nor more informal than it is now, with Mr. and Mrs. George Parkes. And if there was ever any tendency toward the austere manner, a certain boxer by the name of Baron would warm things up in a hurry.

Allowed the run of the house, he's a boisterous and active friend of all the people, full of fun and affection.

Also, he likes to chew on bits of leather—a circumstance which caused Magistrate William Ostler a bit of inconvenience Friday.

A leather thong which the magistrate carries in his pocket fell unnoticed to the floor, and Baron gratefully munched on this unexpected treat. In fact, he swallowed it.

Which would have been alright, except that the key to the magistrate's car was on the end of it.

Mel Dennstedt of the Gordon Head Shell service station, who found five baby mice on the floor of a customer's car and their nest in the vehicle's heating system, said today he has found some unusual things underneath the hoods of cars.

Two years ago a truck driver stopped there and complained that his engine was making a strange noise. "We lifted the hood and found a live chicken there," he said. "It wasn't injured."

He said it is not uncommon to find nests of field mice in the heating systems.

As for Friday's incident, he praised the woman for remaining calm when she suspected mice in her car.

"If she had lost her head," he said, "there could have been a bad accident."

Asked how much she'd take for a lone pale green sheet that was mixed in with a host of other articles at a white elephant sale sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y-M-W-C-A on Thursday morning, Mrs. Bill Munro said: "Oh, you can have it for 50 cents."

Later, it turned out that the sheet belonged to Mrs. George Wheaton. She had carried it from home to cover the refreshment table for a coffee party the auxiliary sponsored at the same time as the sale. Mrs. Wheaton got her sheet back—but she had to pay 50 cents to redeem it.

The Canadian and U.S. Customs and immigration operations at Victoria is the "smoothest" anywhere.

This is the opinion of a perennial world traveller, as reported by Capt. O. J. Williams, manager of the B.C. Coast Steamship service.

And Capt. Williams adds, on his own: "It's wonderful the way they process from 1,100 to 1,800 passengers on the Princess Marguerite—all in a half-hour or less."

Victorians may be ardent gardeners but quite a few of them are obviously refusing to co-operate this summer. In response to a recent shopping column in the Times, well over 100 inquiries were received in one day only. The item—artificial flowers!

AT BLACK WATCH DINNER

Royalty Sniffs Without a Sneeze

By GEORGE FRAJKOR

MONTREAL (CP)—The Queen Mother and the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, of which she is colonel-in-chief, met intimately Friday.

She paid a visit to the regiment's armory on mid-town Bleury Street early in the day and attended the centennial dinner of the officers' mess in the evening. Both affairs were private, with the press and public excluded.

In between, she was feted by the province of Quebec at a luncheon, performed the customary visitor's task of signing the golden book at the city hall, and received numerous gifts for herself and her family.

Hayes Named Festival President

Profitable operation of the 1962 Greater Victoria Music Festival was revealed in the treasurer's report at the annual meeting of the association held recently.

Net profit was about $485 but nearly half of this was paid out in bursary awards to high-ranking competitors. Balance on the festival books as at May 17 was $923.11.

New president of the Festival Association is John Hayes. Harry Bigsby is immediate past president and Mrs. William Ellis honorary president.

Other officers elected were Walter Kitley, first vice-president; Lloyd Main, second; Dr. J. F. K. English, treasurer; Miss Joyce Butler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Betty McColl, recording secretary; Mrs. J. F. K. English, festival secretary.

On the board of directors are Dr. H. R. Anderson, Miss Nancy Ferguson, Mrs. G. W. Graham, Mrs. Helen Green, Miss Ulah Jacobson, Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, Mrs. R. T. Kipling, Mrs. F. P. Levis, Mrs. H. P. Michelson, Miss Mary Munn, Mrs. Hazel Sherratt, Miss Gladys Pearcey, Miss L. Smethurst, Miss Marjorie Tebo, Frank Tupman, James Roberto Wood and Mrs. Opal Campbell.

The Colwood PTA will meet on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Colwood Elementary School. Reports on the recent PTA convention will be given.

At the regimental dinner, the Queen Mother and two ladies-in-waiting were the only women allowed as 300 officers and former officers of the Black Watch sat down to nibble-haggis, applaud the bagpipe band and sniff snuff.

The snuff was served from the traditional ram's head carrier, and the colonel-in-chief sniffed at her's delicately, without even a sneeze.

WEARS WHITE GOWN

The dinner featured mock turtle soup, cheese straws, filet of dore bonne femme in a white wine and mushroom sauce, roast crown of spring lamb, mint sauce, green beans au gratin, rissole Parisienne potatoes, haggis, tart a la Farlouche Chantilly, and home-style French-Canadian bread.

The Queen Mother wore a white sequined floor-length gown, diamond tiara and earrings, and the blue sash of the Order of the Garter.

The regiment presented her with a silver quach cup—a two-handled bowl-like device traditionally used in Scotland for drinking toasts—with a wood and silver engraved base commemorating the dinner.

Earlier in the day, at the provincial luncheon, she had been presented with a brooch of an agate mined in the Gaspé Peninsula, set in gold and decorated with a spray of diamonds. The brooch was presented by Premier Jean Lesage. Speaking in French, the Queen Mother said the jewel "proved in a unique way your taste and generosity."

MacDonald's Furniture & Appliances Ltd. wish to announce the appointment of Mr. Joe Shauerte as Sales Representative at the Fort St. store.

Joe has lived in Victoria for 12 years. Formerly in the Navy, member of several business clubs, active in community work, Joe comes originally from Calgary and Pincher Creek.

BREAK for Lee Remick came Friday when she took over starring role from Marilyn Monroe in film, "Something's Got to Give." Twentieth Century-Fox studio officials announced that Miss Monroe had been ousted due to her repeated absences during production.

CRIME PROBE FIGURES ARRESTED

TORONTO (CP)—Two key figures in Ontario's royal commission crime inquiry were arrested unexpectedly Friday on a fraud charge that apparently had nothing to do with the investigation of the provincial underworld.

Joseph McDermott and Vincent Feeley, dabblers in mining ventures as well as reputed co-zars of Ontario gambling, were charged with defrauding a mining concern of $25,000 in a transaction involving mineral claims they owned in northwestern Ontario.

The move came as a surprise to officials of the royal commission, whose hearings since March 21 have been largely centred around McDermott-Feeley operations and who currently have hit a temporary block in Feeley's unwillingness to testify about his personal finances.

First China Refugees Expected in Mid-July

OTTAWA (UPI)—The government has set the wheels in motion to bring 100 Chinese families to this country from Hong Kong's over-crowded refugee colony.

The first arrivals are expected by mid-July, probably in Windsor, Ont.

The federal government, through a plan announced last month by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, will pay for the refugees' air transportation from Hong Kong to Canada. Once here, they will either be sponsored by private citizens or taken care of by the government until they can establish themselves in their new surroundings.

FEW INQUIRIES A government appeal for private sponsors so far has netted only nine inquiries from across Canada, but Immigration department officials say it is unfair to brand the campaign a failure.

Any private citizen sponsoring a family can do so without assuming any formal obligation, but he is expected to assist the Chinese newcomers "in every way possible." Officials said some sponsors will provide employment for the refugees; others won't.

Any of the 100 families left to government care will be treated the same as the Hungarian refugees of 1956-57. They will be sent to centres across the country where officials feel they may best be able to find work and become generally acclimatized.

Vancouver Groups Planning to Help VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver's Chinese community, at a mass meeting today, will map plans to help 100 refugee families from Hong Kong make new homes in Canada.

Prominent Chinese-Canadian and representatives of some 60 Chinese societies in Greater Vancouver will attend the meeting, said Quon Wong, secretary of Chinese Benevolent Association.

Wong said Chinese citizens here will be asked to volunteer as sponsors for the families being brought to Canada under a federal government refugee plan.

Victoria Liberal candidate Foster Isherwood will close his campaign with a meeting in St. Louis College, Saturday. Socred James Audain will speak with Labor Minister Leslie Peterson in Oak Bay Junior High Thursday at 8 p.m.

Berry Pickers In Short Supply As Season Opens

The number of applications for strawberry picking in Saanich is still far below the 1,700 required to harvest the main crop, National Employment Service officials reported today.

They hoped that registration of pickers at the NES farm labor unit would pick up next week as the main crop is expected to be ready for picking by next Saturday.

"From then on many pickers will be required for placement on farms," they said.

The President is Winning

THE PROGRESS OF PRESIDENT Kennedy's bold tariff initiative through the United States Congress is a bright glimmer of light in a gloomy world.

Less than a year ago probably no politician on Capitol Hill would have supposed that the President could dare to propose a general and deep cut in the American tariff. Six months ago, when Mr. Kennedy proposed it, most of his lieutenants feared that his legislation would be rejected or emasculated.

But in the last few days his trade bill has surmounted the hurdles of the Congressional committees where most of the vital decisions are made. The President is winning by his education of public opinion and by his masterly management of politics.

As he well knows, however, the fight is not yet won. Undoubtedly his opponents will mount a final attack on his policy as soon as it reaches the floor of the Senate and the House. The attack is more likely to be oblique than frontal. Since they can hardly dare to oppose his general objectives, the protectionist forces will attempt to amend them by innocent-looking but fatal changes of detail.

If he can repel these indirect assaults, the President has still to meet the much more serious threats of recent events in Europe.

His whole program of tariff reductions throughout the free world depends vitally on Britain's adherence to the European Common Market and on the Common Market's willingness to reduce its external tariff.

If Britain finally refuses to join Europe and if the Common Market then increases its restrictions on imports the President's entire design will be in disarray. So will the affairs of the free world.

That is Mr. Khrushchev's great hope, as his latest statements indicate. He is attacking the Common Market and the United States' support of it as another capitalists' plot against the Communist world revolution. He knows that if the free world is economically united by ever-increasing trade and rising prosperity it will certainly out-compete Communism.

The best proof of his fears is his latest plan to erect some kind of Communist common market in imitation of the European original. He also advocates a world agreement on fair trade, though Russia has always been free to join GATT if it would accept the rules of that tariff contract.

Communism, even in Russia, has lately encountered grave economic troubles, especially in the field of agriculture, while it watches a free-enterprise Europe prospering abundantly by abundant trade. Worse still, from the Communists' point of view, is Mr. Kennedy's attempt to expand the general principles of the Common Market across the Atlantic.

In Moscow and Peking the best hope is that Britain and Europe will fail in their present negotiations, that this failure will disrupt the policies of the American government.

All this could happen during the next few months, some of the most critical of modern times. But in Washington at least the President is making steady progress and it will have its effect on the governments of Britain and Europe. For in all their plans, military as well as economic, they must count on strong American leadership. They are getting it from Mr. Kennedy.

Mr. Smallwood and the Rotary Club

IN A SILLY AND INEXCUSABLE breach of good behaviour, Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland has shrunk the Canadian image of his own stature by the Rotary Club episode in St. John's.

All sorts of reasons can be given why the Rotary Club should not have invited a political figure to make a speech at the height of an election campaign on an issue of hot contention — the devalued dollar. The Rotary Club's own constitution forbids such political intrusion in a club program.

But no argument can justify the Smallwood performance. When he threatened to cancel a government-financed function promised to the Rotary Club unless the club prevented Mr. Fleming from delivering his speech, he was guilty of unpardonably bad manners.

Bleeding Away From Canada

THE ECONOMICS AND RESEARCH Branch of Ottawa's Department of Labor has drawn sharp attention to the tide of opportunity which is carrying good Canadian brains and skills across the border to the United States.

"Looking at the outflow of Canadian professionals to the U.S., there is no denying that this movement constitutes a severe loss of Canadian talent and ability," says an official report. "The loss of a Canadian professional is not necessarily offset by the gain of a qualified professional from Europe or elsewhere since we are losing a worker who is acclimatized to this country and who is familiar with Canadian industrial techniques and ways of doing things."

This, unfortunately, is only part of a currently unhappy picture. The fact is that the influx of professionally competent people from Europe and elsewhere is a waning movement. From 1950 to 1960 our loss to the United States of Canadian professional people was more than compensated, numerically, by qualified immigrants. That stream is drying up. The one flowing south is swelling.

There are commendable efforts being made by Canada to ensure a recovery of talented people who study abroad on Canadian subsidies. They are required, or expected, to work here for a certain period of years after their studies are completed. Nothing, however, stops them from moving to the United States when that set period is over.

As statistics now reveal, they are moving south and in increasing numbers because they find work there more attractive. The attraction may arise from higher pay scales, working conditions which they consider superior, or from other reasons personally important to them.

The fact remains that Canada is not magnetic enough to hold them for one basic reason: Our economy is not expanding sufficiently to provide the opportunities that many skilled and educated professionals want. In total, of course, the Canadian economy has been growing, though very slowly. In per capita terms the nation is producing less wealth than it did in 1956.

Many of these emigrating professional people are the very ones who, were they kept here, would stimulate the growth we need. But until Canada can offer them more attractive opportunities for their special skills and training they will drift away, drawn by conditions closer to their liking.

What's Behind the Scenes?

WHILE REPORTS TELL OF A build-up of Indonesian forces in Dutch New Guinea, the Dutch are being urged by United Nations secretary-general U Thant and the United States to negotiate with Indonesia on the basis of the Ellsworth Bunker plan.

This plan proposed by an American diplomat calls for the Dutch to relinquish control of the country to the Indonesians over the next two or three years, with the native Papuans voting at some later date on whether they will stay under Indonesian rule or become independent.

The Dutch see a number of flaws in this idea, particularly that which presupposes a fairly conducted plebiscite. They call instead for United Nations control of the country, with a plebiscite to follow.

The Bunker plan seems to be so heavily weighted in favor of the Indonesians that its support by the U.S. and the U.N. is surprising. The uninformed observer looks for some ulterior motive in this attempt to placate Indonesia at the expense of the Netherlands and no doubt also of the Papuans. Holland has indicated its willingness to retire from New Guinea as a colonial power; it has shown readiness to discuss the problem with Indonesia; it has been slow to call in reinforcements to conduct a full-scale war in the jungle, and offers the Papuans a free choice as to their future.

Indonesia, on the other hand, has rejected most offers of negotiation, has categorically claimed its right to take over in New Guinea—even though the Papuans are racially unrelated to the Indonesians—and has landed some hundreds of armed troops on the island.

This appears to be nothing less than military aggression. Whatever power politics are being played with President Sukarno of Indonesia, too great a price could be paid for appeasement which might be difficult to explain to other southeast Asian lands.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

A DRIVE out to Whitty's Lagoon, Metehosin, at this time of the year will give you a chance to see many interesting things.

Between the sea and the lagoon you can find the creeping Buttercup that sends out its tendrils as the strawberry does, until it shows a golden carpet.

Growing among the tall grasses is one of the many Vetches with its purple flowers brightening the various shades of green.

Amongst the open patches of sand you can find the Sand Verbena with its sticky stems and yellow flowers.

There is also the Glasswort with its brittle stems in great clusters that seem to defy the salt water and the hot sun. Close by the tall spikes of the Sea Plantain with its narrow leaves sends up its nodding head to the bright sun.

You may be lucky and see a kingfisher hovering over the water ready to dive and catch his prey.

Watch the antics of the killdeer as they dart along the sand with their lifting run. Perhaps they will put on the broken-wing act if you move. Overhead a gull will lazily wheel then sweep to the edge of the sea and preen itself.

On the mud flats there is sure to be a crow or two noisily searching for some stranded sea creature.

Wonderful patterns are left by the receding tide in the clean sand, each wavelet making a different outline. See where some crab or other tiny sea creature has left a trail in the wet sand.

Perhaps you will see one or more seals playing in the shallows.

There is a story in each sight if we stop to watch and think.

FROM WASHINGTON

Have the Polls Affected Nixon's Confidence and Nerve

FOR the student of politics, the California primary won by former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has one very special feature.

Public opinion polls have never before had so much influence upon the course, and even on the reporting, of any political fight.

To begin with a most recent example, the reports from the West Coast credit Nixon with a "triumph" because he won the Republican gubernatorial nomination from a rich but previously obscure John Birchite, Joseph Shell, by a two to one margin. This is puzzling. If you think about it in cold blood, it is not exactly a triumph for the titular leader of the Republican party to get this kind of a majority in his own state against a novice politician.

The answer to the puzzle is simple, however. Nixon, a great poll-user, discovered from his pollsters that Shell was likely to get just about the vote he did. With considerable prescience, the Nixon camp therefore put the word out, even in Washington, that Nixon would be doing very well if he held the Shell vote below 35 per cent of the Republican total.

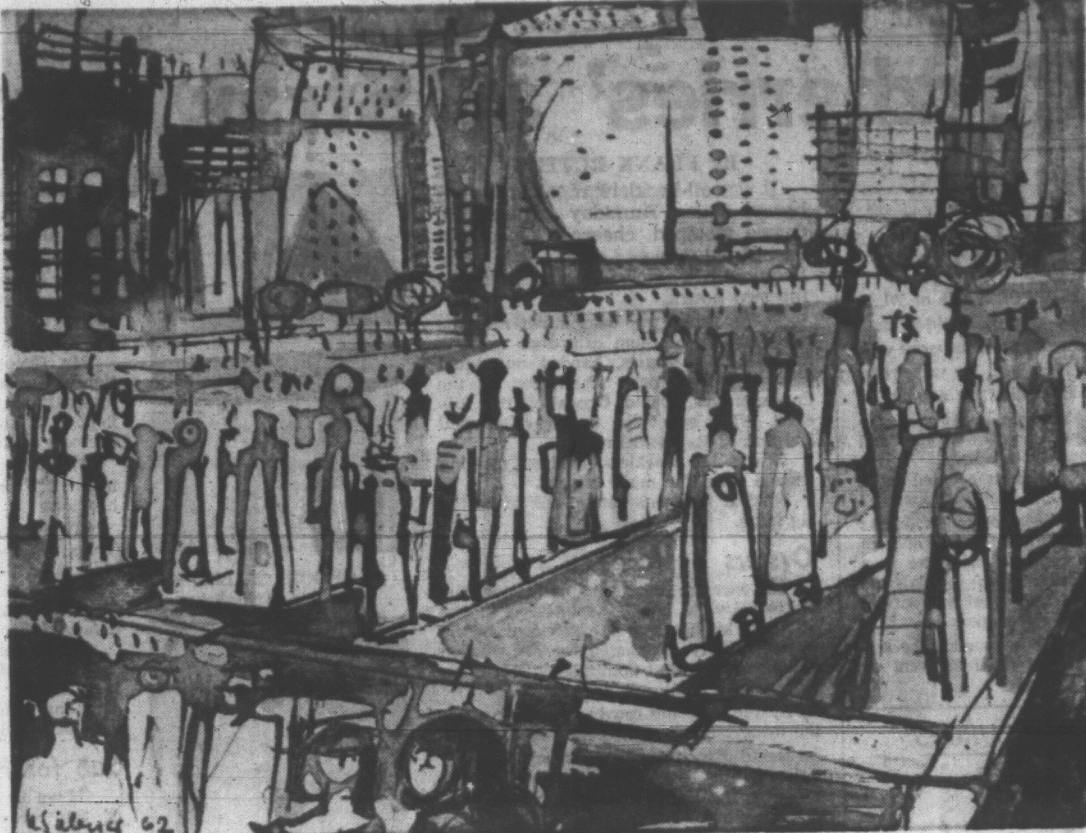

Shell was duly held to below 35 per cent. Hence Nixon is now credited with doing very well. But has he in fact done so well?

In the impartial and usually dependable California-based Field Poll, Shell began the primary fight with only about 7 per cent of the Republican votes. He rose to 14 per cent only a month ago. He has now got over twice that percentage.

Shell clearly has done well. But it is not at all clear how Nixon is now going to deal with the one Republican in every three this primary has revealed as Birch-intoxicated or Birch-leaning.

This problem Nixon now has to face is also, in some measure, a poll-created problem. Originally, the former Vice-President hoped to avoid an open run with the extreme right of his own party. But President Kennedy's pollster, Louise Harris, intervened with soundings showing that the great majority of California voters both disapproved of the Birchite approach to the Communist problem and very sharply disapproved of the whole extreme right-wing movement.

On the basis of the Harris sound-

Victoria artist Herbert Siebner has left for a year's study in Europe. En route he made this sketch, of which he writes: "Driving in to New York from the airport, the cemeteries along the way looked like people standing in stone. Seeing behind them the stone quarters of the living, I got the impression that there is not enough room here to lie down."

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ings, President Kennedy himself pressed Nixon's Democratic opponent, California Gov. Pat Brown, to challenge Nixon briskly to disavow the Birch Society. Gov. Brown, though not normally given to briskeness, thereupon proceeded to say Nixon would wear the Birch label unless he disavowed Birch.

The sounding by Harris were confirmed by Nixon's own pollsters—which meant to the former vice-president that he must either get rid of the Birch label or go into the fight against Brown with a heavy handicap.

Therefore Nixon reluctantly took on the Birchites at the California Republican convention. This convention fight, which Nixon won by a far from impressive majority, in turn put a lot of steam into the Shell candidacy against Nixon.

In addition, the polls have done much to deprive the Nixon candidacy of the aura of confidence and coming success that a candidate like Nixon needs.

It even seems a reasonable guess that the polls have affected Nixon's own confidence and nerve, leading him into such missteps as his attack on the President of the United States as a carpetbagger—a doubly foolish move, because of Kennedy's great current popularity, and because of the unhappy choice of language.

Nixon has the bad luck, in the Field poll, the Harris private polls, and in all the other soundings, to start out enormously far ahead of Brown, and then to slip slowly but inexorably until the last Field poll actually gave Brown a slight edge.

A close race was always the kind of race to expect in California. Despite his national stature, Nixon has innate weaknesses in this contest for the governorship, and Brown has certain solid advantages.

Brown has made his mistakes, but by all accounts he has given California a much better than average state administration. He is also the sort of politician, moderate in views and tone, almost aggressively amiable, with a personality totally lacking sharp angles, that California voters seem to like best.

Nixon, complex and moody, has also been absent from the state during most of his political life. He lacks any very good issue to use against Brown. He has never been at home, anyway, with the kind of issues that are important in state politics.

A Stage When Britain Must Play Her Part Within Europe

WHETHER or not Prime Minister Macmillan can chalk up a victory in his negotiations with the European Common Market is not likely to become clear until the talks reach the crucial and most difficult stage of trying to conciliate Britain's plunge into Europe with the interests of Commonwealth producers of temperate food-stuffs.

The French are showing considerable satisfaction over the way the talks went at the 17-century Chateau de Champs, a few miles east of Paris. The atmosphere was very good, and Mr. Macmillan's frankness and determination that the United Kingdom should play an effective role in Europe impressed General de Gaulle.

This, from the French point of view, is the crux of the political problem involved in bringing in the British.

How far does Mr. Macmillan think Britain could keep up special relationship with the United States and the Commonwealth if it joined in the movement towards European unity? French officials talk worriedly of what they call "Britain's multiple solidarities."

Mr. Macmillan apparently made it clear that he did not support the General's conception of Europe as a "third force" between the United States and the Soviet Union. At the same time, he left the strong impression that he did not want to take refuge in evasiveness and equivocation. He insisted that Britain had now reached the stage in history when she had to play her part within Europe.

In the course of the talks, which dealt with technical economic problems more than had been expected, Mr. Macmillan also sought to convince his host that safeguarding Commonwealth interests would not endanger the Common Market.

He returned to London feeling he had corrected some of General de Gaulle's misconceptions on this topic and had persuaded him that the technical difficulties were less forbidding than the President appeared to believe.

The talks, according to French sources, "dissipated misunderstandings" but no answer has yet emerged to the fundamental question of whether General de Gaulle really wants the British inside Europe. He may merely have been convinced that it will be harder than he thought to keep them out, and may change his tactics accordingly.

The communique issued after the talks threw little light on this subject, although it talked, in the French version, of the "community of interests which unites France and Great Britain." The statement was cleverly worded from the point of view of both sides.

As one French commentator points out, it helps Mr. Macmillan to answer critics at home, while strengthening General de Gaulle's ability to ward off accusations that he is immovably hostile to British membership of the Common Market.

The communique does not rule out a failure in the Brussels negotiations. But, if they do fail, the French are anxious not to take all the blame. Reference to the "Chateau de Champs spirit" would be useful to them in answering charges of sabotaging the negotiations.

Unless General de Gaulle has revised his basic philosophy over the weekend, which would be unlikely, there is little place for Britain in a united Europe as he sees it—that is, independent of the United States.

It is, nevertheless, evident that a

French veto on British entry would do serious, perhaps fatal, damage to the Common Market itself. Hence the official French policy of admitting Britain, provided she is prepared to abide by established European Community rules.

The outcome at Brussels will, therefore, depend on how far maximum British concessions on Commonwealth trade coincide with the maximum conditions the French can insist on without appearing the only no-man in the Six.

General de Gaulle cannot simply stake out his limits and stick to them. He has to take into account a complicated mesh of factors, of which the most important perhaps is the attitude of his main European ally, West Germany, and the extent of American influence over Germany's view of Britain's application for Common Market membership.

Whatever else he obtained from his weekend in France, Mr. Macmillan at least took comfort from the knowledge that General de Gaulle is conscious of the limitations to France's freedom of action.

IGNORANCE AND APATHY ARE RESPONSIBLE

'Lush Scene Awaits Bulldozer' Was the Grim Caption

MY practical experience of architecture is confined to some early work along the beaches of the south coast of England, and even that was rather narrow. I mean doing nothing but castles inevitably tends to produce a rather specialised approach to the architectural field; and the technique, too, was unvarying: rammed earth, or pise, to use the technical term. I had not realised that I had attained any particular celebrity as an architect-builder-hydraulic engineer (I should have mentioned that all my castles had moats filled by tide-water) but among the thousands of passers-by there must have been someone who recognized my innate gifts. How else explain an invitation to address the 55th Annual Convention of the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada, held recently in Vancouver?

I didn't talk to them about castles, actually, since most of them were too young to remember when the last decent castle was built in Canada, and I didn't think castles were what you would call a live issue.

What I was on about, you may not be surprised to hear, was the gradual erosion of all the scenic amenities around us in this very beautiful corner of the globe. This erosion we owe to Man, and not to Nature; and more particularly to three rather unlovable attributes of Man, namely greed, ignorance, and apathy.

Emery

It is the greedy eye of the speculator that makes him look upon all land that does not already bear the burden of an office-block, a high-rise apartment, or a sub-division crammed with near-idle houses, as fallow, awaiting only his fertilizing hand in order to produce a golden harvest.

It is a special kind of eye, a peculiar sort of hand, but there is no doubting the remarkable co-ordination of this eye and this hand.

In a way the speculator sees himself, I suppose, as a kind of pioneer. Where the early pioneers looked on the wilderness and pictured in their minds the fields and farms and homesteads that their efforts would eventually call into being, the speculator looks upon the fields and farms and homesteads and imagines the number of minimum-size lots that can, by the exercise of fiendish mathematical ingenuity, be squeezed into the same area.

It is ignorance and apathy that are responsible for the fact that so far the speculator, by piously invoking the powerful slogan of "free enterprise," seems to be getting his way. The ignorance and the apathy are shared in large measure by the people at large, and are brilliantly reflected, as is our democratic right, by our elected representatives at most levels, with a few notable and rare exceptions.

The apathy one can do little enough about: it seems to be built firmly in to the present generation of taxpayers, and one can only wait patiently for the rising generation which, I am happy to say, gives promise of being a great deal more concerned with the world they are going to have to inhabit.

Ignorance, however, is another matter entirely, and one on which, after years of subjective and objective study, I am moderately qualified to pass an opinion on.

I believe that the majority of people could be taught the importance of looking on the land we live in as a trust rather than as a get-rich-quick-and-to-heck-with-the-consequences proposition. I am sure that the greater number of the children and young adults now in high school and university are capable of cultivating a greater visual awareness than that possessed by their blinkered progenitors; and that they will grow up with a fair notion of what can be done to preserve and improve the environment in which we all desire to live.

I am not a medievalist; I don't want to go back to the days of oil-lamps and horse-and-buggy transportation, even; and I am well aware that an expanding population is bound to take up more and more room with the advancing years.

But I am convinced that the decision we are faced with is not a simple "either-or" proposition. I do not think it is widely enough realized that by the exercise of some restraint and a great deal of planning ingenuity, we can, in fact, have most of our cake, and eat it too.

The real crux of the matter is that we don't, as a community, have sufficient confidence in the planners we employ. Whenever their recommendations clash with our own private interests we make sure that their plans are nullified, or modified out of all recognition. Nor do we care enough about the future to impose very tight restrictions on new development.

Surely we should not allow a square foot of our increasingly-precious open space to be "developed" unless the developer can make a watertight case for the necessity of the development.

Recently, like many of you, I am sure, I was shocked to see a picture in the paper of one of the few open spaces still remaining on the outskirts of our city. "Lush scene awaits bulldozer" was the grim caption, which went on to inform us that this farm was going to be turned into the site of a motel.

Do we need motels more than we need the open space? It seems to me I read not six months ago that the motel owners were worried that there was not enough trade for the number already operating in this area, so that it looks like plain imbecility to add another to the total.

The Capital District Improvement Commission and Major Cuthbert Holmes have already deserved our warm support for their recent efforts in buying up a similar parcel of land along the Island Highway. Could not funds, perhaps, be scraped up from somewhere to preserve this other smiling tract of land for posterity?

Let us also get behind Saanich Municipal Council in their praiseworthy attempts to keep certain areas from the "dozing blade. Never forget that it costs ten times as much to "redevelop" an urban wasteland than to preserve the amenity in the first place.

Better Never Than Late

Following last week's treatise on the reviving art of heckling politicians, several useful and interesting observations from gentle readers have come this way.

Is it not singular, they say, that while the heckle itself gets the play in the daily press, it is the repartee which survives in the hard covers? Come to think of it, the sharp riposte does survive; as a matter of fact, it often outlasts the reputation of the politician who delivered it.

It is a pity that the original heckles are so often lost in the general oblivion which is the shadow of politics; but it is in the nature of things that this should be so. Political meetings generally contain many friends and supporters of the politician, all of them anxious to record and treasure his best retorts. The heckler, on the other hand, is strictly alone. He is obliged by the nature of his catcalling to rely on the attentive ears of the newspaper reporters present.

Some of them survive to write books, but not many. Those who do generally lean heavily on the Big Man's bon mots.

Mind you, these bon mots are usually of higher quality than the carping criticism from the floor. Charles James Fox, a towering figure in the parliaments of George IV and William IV, is but a name in history now. And it looks as if his repartee will outlive his fame even yet. Once he was speaking to a turbulent crowd of electors; one of them threw a hangman's noose at him. He returned it with a courteous bow, saying he hated to deprive his friend of what was obviously an old family relic.

There are more Fox retorts disconcerting still current today that you can shake a stick at. One of them was even used recently by the late Senator Taft of Ohio.

Some one at a meeting threw a cabbage at the good senator, which drew from him the observation that one of his opponents seemed to have lost his head.

Such a chance rarely comes the way of a politician in Canada. Cabbages are too expensive.

ONE MORE MAY MEAN DISASTER FOR U.S.

Will Ecuador be Next To Take Road of Cuba?

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MEXICO CITY (AP)—What are the chances for a new Castro-style revolution in Latin America?

Communists and their Castroist allies work throughout the Western Hemisphere to bring about a new explosion. They operate on the theory that one more such upheaval would wreck U.S. hopes for the area.

Many Latin leaders believe another Cuba would set off a chain reaction whose effects would indeed spell disaster for the United States.

A special consultative committee of the Organization of American States has warned that "prominent persons in the hemisphere... persist in underestimating the Communist danger."

The committee says the number of Communists might not seem large, but their efforts are dangerous because of Communist operations among mass groups: students, workers, farmers, intellectuals, even political leaders.

Recently, the left-extremists seemed to have chosen two prime targets for their efforts: Venezuela and Ecuador. In Venezuela they met two successive defeats in attempted military uprisings. Such blunders set them back. They may now find themselves required to mark time in Venezuela for another two years.

That could make little Ecuador, a land of perplexing paradoxes, a promising theatre for the Communists. A country of towering mountains and fertile soil, it is rich in possibilities but poor in social and economic development.

Ecuador's president, Carlos Julio Arosemena, 42, will visit the U.S. in July for talks with President Kennedy. Arosemena has indicated he is no admirer of the U.S.—that, in fact, he has an anti-Yankee complex.

Arosemena has publicly proclaimed himself the "good friend" of Pedro Saa, Ecuador's Communist party boss. The president has been under army pressure to oust Communists and left-extremists from high places, but has not done so. And he appears to have outmanoeuvred the military, for the time being.

BEGAN IN 1961

Ecuador's current situation had its beginnings in 1961. Arosemena, then vice-president, led a delegation on a junket to the Soviet Union and satellite countries. To some in Quito it seemed an odd coincidence that President Jose Velasco Ibarra came violently under attack shortly after Arosemena returned from Moscow.

The spark was a new tax decree. Students demonstrated. Ibarra tried to put down the rioting, but people were killed and the pressure grew. The worried army pushed Ibarra aside and tried to install a provisional president pending new elections, but rioting broke out once again. This time it was with demands for Arosemena's constitutional accession to the presidency. The army bowed.

Later, flushed with victory, the Communists began demanding an armed student militia. That may have scared Arosemena.

In April, the army command gave Arosemena an ultimatum to break with Cuba and the Soviet bloc and to kick Communists out of high places.

Arosemena bowed to the rupture in relations, but the Communists and extremists remained in influential positions. In the university, in the government-run "house of culture," in information and communications spots, in the student federation.

Despite the break with Cuba, Prensa Latina, Castro's own press agency, continued operations in Ecuador, a potential transmission belt for the trappings of revolution.

Taking Cue from ECM, Red Bloc Links Trade

MOSCOW (Reuters)—The Soviet bloc nations today called for stepped-up integration of their economies in what appeared to be Moscow's answer to the growing challenge from the bustling European Economic Community.

The proposal was contained in a communique published in the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda following a two-day meeting of Comecon, the Communist Council for Economic Mutual Assistance.

The communique also issued another Communist appeal for an international trade conference to set up an international trade agency with the aim of increasing world trade.

A similar appeal was issued nine days ago by Soviet Premier Khrushchev in a speech attacking the economic policies of the six-nation Common Market.

The meeting was attended by Communist party leaders from Bulgaria, Hungary, East Germany, Poland, Romania, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Mongolia.

Mongolia was not previously a member of Comecon but was admitted at this session, the 15th since the organization was formed. The session closed Thursday.

Legislative Chamber Gets $9,000 Scrub

The B.C. legislative chamber has had a $9,000 face-lifting—first big clean-up in many years.

A public works department crew was putting the finishing touches to the job Friday.

Walls and ceiling have been repainted, marble columns polished, the big red carpet cleaned, and a new flooring installed in the public galleries.

It will be ready in time for an official welcoming ceremony June 15 for the Princess Royal.

A works department spokesman said the job cost about $9,000 and was done entirely by government employees. He said it has been at least four years since the last spring cleaning, probably much longer since the lofty chamber was painted.

B.C. High Schools 'Not Doing Job'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Registrar J. E. Parnall of the University of B.C. said here British Columbia high schools are not doing their job.

They fail both to train students ending their education at the secondary level, and the group going to university, he said in an interview.

He was commenting on a statement Monday by assistant schools superintendent D. B. MacKenzie, who said universities have too much influence on the secondary school curriculum.

Mr. Parnall said university officials look forward to reorganization of the school system as recommended by the province's Chant commission on education.

FLEMING PICKED TOPIC SAYS NFLD. ROTARY CLUB

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland said today Finance Minister Fleming told "a brazen lie" in claiming he did not suggest the topic for a speech to the St. John's Rotary Club.

The premier issued a statement saying: "Who is telling the truth, the Rotary or Mr. Fleming? I say the Rotary is telling the truth and Mr. Fleming told a brazen lie."

The issue revolves around who suggested the pegging of the Canadian dollar as topic for a speech Mr. Fleming was scheduled to make to the club Thursday.

The speech was called off after the premier issued an ultimatum to the club saying the province would withdraw its sponsorship of a Rotary convention dinner next week if Mr. Fleming spoke.

Mr. Fleming has said the Rotary Club invited him to speak and specifically asked that the subject be evaluation of the dollar.

The Rotary Club issued a statement Friday night saying it had invited the minister but that he chose his own topic. It added that the club has declined the province's invitation to sponsor the dinner.

Two-Artist Show at Point Reveals Fine Development

One of the finest shows in a long time to be seen at the Point, is an exhibit by two local artists, Flemming Jorgensen and Nita Forrest. Mr. Jorgensen, in particular, has produced some real "gems," and this recent work places him as a leader in his field.

The color and composition of "Table and Chair," I found arresting and by far one of the finest paintings in the show. "Harvest," an abstract, like the view from 3,000 feet up, has a warmth and mellowness which can be felt as well as seen.

Corry

Another outstanding creation, I feel, is the ink monotype "Still Life." Here the antique frame forms an intricate part of the composition, although the design of the monotype can stand on its own merit.

Various small sketches by Jorgensen, like "Swiftsure," "Fields" and "Victoria," are delightful and require little imagination to fully appreciate them.

"The Owner," in shades of green, black and orange, I found to be the most outstanding abstract, and a true representation of Flemming Jorgensen.

Nita Forrest, although not as prolific as the former artist, has created some tremendous compositions. Her "Nude," in ink and water color, is one of the finest, and certainly a peak in her recent work.

Two ink and temperas, "After Dark" and "Rainy Eve," are excellent studies and warrant close examination.

In the same media, using black and white, I found such compositions as "Couple" most uninteresting and uninspiring.

In fact practically the whole series in this technique left me cold.

On the other hand, the complete monotype "Torso," in brown, black and an off-white, I found pulsating with imagination and life. Here, Mrs. Forrest has reached yet another high crest in her battle as a painter.

An interesting collection of monotypes by Robert Steele can be seen at the Provincial Library over the next few weeks.

Mr. Steele is on the faculty of the Vancouver School of Art, and brings to this city an exhibit of his more recent work.

With oriental feeling and understanding, Mr. Steele has complete mastery over his craft, and he can accomplish more with black and white than many artists can with a full palette.

I found "Mountain Landscape" and "Towards Landscape," in the black and white series, most interesting. The few color monotypes were striking, but certainly lacked the force of pure design, seen in the former.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

When I had whooping cough at the age of six, I passed my hours playing the family Victrola, and I can recall, in the ear of memory, every record I heard then. From one of them — a Victor Red Seal — emerged a thin, cold voice which uttered the notes, though not in any recognizable form the words, of "Home Sweet Home," a tune I hated then and hate still; on the other side the voice performed, still almost wordlessly, Tos-ti's "Good-Bye." This was the voice of Dame Nellie Melba.

That memory has colored my notion of Melba to this day. The voices I liked (which I suppose means the voices that were best suited to the recording apparatus of that time) were the contraltos — Schumann-Heink, Alma Gluck and

Better Writing Has Achieved Less

It was with some prejudice, then, that I picked up "Red Flush and Black Velvet," in which Joseph Wechsberg tells the story of Melba and her times.

Nor was my prejudice disarmed by Mr. Wechsberg's casual way of dealing with his material; he cannot make up his mind whether Melba's accompanist was Landon Ronald or Ronald Landon, and he does not seem perfectly sure where Melbourne is, to name but two details.

But he is very good at recreating the great moments of Melba's career, and he made it plain why so many people adored her. Better written biographies have achieved less.

It is Melba's character which commands admiration. She was very much the Scottish-Australian — independent, courageous and direct. There was nothing about her of the Italian opera star, who traditionally fights her way up from ignorance, poverty and a poor inheritance.

Nellie Mitchell had an excellent start in life in 1861, and was always on the best of terms with her father, who died a millionaire.

Her one great mistake was her marriage to Charles Armstrong, and she resolved that by leaving him to go to England, and subsequently to Paris, to study.

In England, Sir Arthur Sullivan was unimpressed, but thought that if she studied for a year he might be able to give her a small part in one of his operettas. But in Paris, Madame Marchesi, one of the greatest teachers of the day, heard Nellie sing, and rushed from the room to tell her husband, "Salvatore, I've found a star!"

After that it was one success after another. Melba retained her voice, almost undimmed, until 1926. Its range was from B flat below middle C to the F above high C, and it was perfectly even throughout its range; her runs were described as "strings of pearls" and her trill (which she could perform even as a child) was like the trilling of a bird.

Obviously the record I recall gave no idea of what Melba sounded like. "Home, Sweet Home," however, was her favorite encore.

At the end of an opera — "Faust," for instance — Jean de Reske as Faust and his brother Edouard as Mephistopheles were not above showing a piano onto the stage of Covent Garden, or the Metropolitan, and the great Nellie would sit down and sing that dismal air, playing her own accompaniment. The audience was enraptured.

Melba's only defect — if it may be called a defect in an opera singer — was that she could not act. She made a few carefully considered gestures of joy or despair in all her roles; she had a queenly beauty, and was a mistress of theatrical makeup; this was enough, for the glorious voice did all the rest.

Her private life, if not puri-

FOR JUVENILES

History Without Yawns

CANADA IN NORTH AMERICA, 1800-1901. By George W. Brown and others, Toronto, Copp, Clark Publishing Co., Ltd., 1962. Indexed. Illustrated. $3.75.

Reviewed by R. H. Roy
Dr. Brown, a professor of history at the University of Toronto, has the happy facility of making Canadian history interesting while remaining historically accurate. His Reading in Canadian History, aimed at the high school student, was a delightful book, and this present volume, a companion of Canada in North America to 1800, will add to his reading public.

His latest volume is designed for children from nine to 14 years of age. It is well illustrated with both black and white as well as colored sketches and, praise be, there are ample maps throughout the text so that the reader can place the contents in their geographical context.

Many of the sketches are drawn from old photographs, some are imaginative, and some are based on first hand observation of artifacts in Canadian museums.

All are designed to instruct as well as to attract, and in most cases (an imaginative sketch of early Victoria is a notable exception) they do just that.

If the young teen-ager has any interest in or feeling for Canadian history, this book should stimulate him to peer more keenly behind the social studies curtain.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Despite the many counter-attractions offered this summer, Vancouver International Festival is certain to attract a good share of nation-wide attention. Some exciting importations are highlights of the five-week festival.

There will be no great prestige orchestra this time, no international star conductor, although Zubin Mehta, Montreal Symphony conductor who will lead the Festival Symphony Orchestra in a "Homage to Stravinsky" program, is rapidly achieving that status.

Nevertheless, "something for everyone" could be more than ever the motto for this festival—everyone that is, except the jazz buffs.

Off all aspects of the first festival in 1958, jazz received the poorest support and has not been included since.

For those who seek the rare and exotic, the appearances of Japan's Bunraku Theatre and the Bayanihan, the kaleidoscopic dancers and musicians of the Philippines, will provide enough excitement to outlast the summer.

The Bunraku Theatre is making its first visit to North America specifically to perform at the Seattle World's Fair and Vancouver Festival. Bunraku brings new, glamorous and amazing virtuosity to the art of puppetry.

Dolls, half life-size, are used with three handlers for each doll.

Written By King's Command

A theatrical wonder of the Western World, France's great national theatre, Le Comedie Francaise, will also make a premiere appearance, presenting four performances of Moliere's "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" at the Queen Elizabeth Theatre.

Nearly 300 years of tradition lies behind this classic group which was founded in 1680. Once known as The King's Comedians, Moliere's comedy ballet was written for the group at the command of King Louis XIV.

For theatrical stylists this will be almost a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to see one of the most stylistically perfect theatres in the world in action.

Festival opera is Mozart's splendid fantasy, "The Magic Flute." Much local talent has been used for this but its stars are of top magnitude.

Mattiwilda Dobbs, reigning coloratura of the Hamburg State Opera, a Metropolitan favorite and a recent guest star at the Royal Opera House in Copenhagen, will sing "Pamina" and Maria Kallitsi of the Cologne Opera House, considered the greatest "Queen of the Night" in the world today, will appear in that role.

Canadian baritone Bernard Turgeon from Sadler's Wells has been engaged to sing "Papageno." Turgeon, a Toronto Royal Conservatory graduate, was featured at Butchart Gardens with the Victoria Symphony a few years ago.

In 1959 a Canada Council grant permitted him to go abroad for study in Vienna. Appearances at the British Glyndebourne Festival, at Stratford-upon-Avon and on BBC television have culminated in his being engaged as principal baritone with the Sadler's Wells Opera Company for a second successive season.

Covent Garden tenor William McAlpine will make his North American debut as "Tamino." All other parts are being taken by British Columbia singers.

Vancouver Islanders in the cast include Victoria's June Gruber and Duncan's Peter Yelland. The opera will be conducted by Otto Werner Mueller, known to coast opera fans for his conducting of the Vancouver Opera Association's "La Boheme" and "La Traviata." The Mozart opus will be sung in English.

and former Victorian, John Sparks.

From the rich, epicurean delights of "Music at Six"—a series of early-evening concerts that will feature a complete cycle of Beethoven Piano Sonatas played by foremost interpreter Louis Kentner and Bartok and Beethoven recitals by the Juilliard Quartet—we swing all the way over to the charms of comic operetta.

The Stratford Festival, Gilbert and Sullivan Company will bring their Tyrone Guthrie-styled pair of operas to the coast in August direct from their greatly successful London run.

Vancouver actors in the cast include Ted Stidder, formerly of Victoria, Myra Benson, Peter Haworth, Wally March

Mary Munn, Suite 5, 741 Fort Street.

The event is being held in honor of the team of examiners from the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto. A moderate charge will be made in aid of the scholarship fund of the local branch of the RMTA.

Anyone wishing to attend should phone Miss G. Mahaffy, GR 9-1903.

Popular Performers Return For Centenary 'Smile Show'

A reprise of numbers that have been most popular throughout 11 years of Smile Show summer seasons will be a feature of the centennial summer edition which opens July 2 at Langham Court Theatre.

Assisting Jerry Gosley in nostalgic backward glances will be Irene Henderson, the "Lassie from Lancashire." A singer with a champagne personality, Miss Henderson returns to the Smile Show after an absence of two years.

Keynoting the centennial theme will be the opening number, written, composed and arranged by the show's choreographer, Bebe Eversfield of the Victoria School of Theatrical Arts.

London-born Janet Norman-Walker, now living in Nyasaland and at present visiting her parents in Victoria, brings a filip of sophistication to the production with "The Art Gallery."

Another homing star will be "Miss Canada" Nina Holden and also taking part in the show for its first two weeks will be Synnove Petersen, this year's "Miss Victoria."

IRENE HENDERSON ... happy return

Others in the cast, well known to Smile Show audiences, are Bill and Dorothy Hosie, Sylvia Mobey, Nancy Maynard, Peter Kelch, Ron Korman and Pam Crawford.

A newcomer from Saskatoon is Yorkshire-born Ken Peaker. He is musical director and will provide organ and accompaniment. Staging and lighting are in the hands of Tony Maynard and Jack Trueman.

There will be 36 performances of the Centennial Summer Smile Show, running nightly, except Sundays, through to Aug. 25 with two shows on Saturdays.

Council Supports Canadian Opera

OTTAWA (CP) — Grants totalling $165,000 have been made for the encouragement of music, the Canada Council announced Wednesday.

The largest grant, $71,000, goes to the Canadian Opera Company of Toronto. The company will tour the country, performing Mozart's "Così fan tutte" in the east and Puccini's "La Bohème" in the west.

The Federation of Canadian Music Festivals, Winnipeg, was granted $6,000.

OPENING RECITAL on the new "Grand Casavant" organ at St. John's Anglican Church next Saturday afternoon, will be given by Dr. Charles Peaker, noted organist of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Toronto. The recital will take place from 4 to 5 p.m. Dr. Peaker, who has played recitals in the cathedrals of Lincoln, Glasgow, Norwich and at King's College, Cambridge, has selected a splendid program for the occasion. He will include an Adagio composed by Frederick Chubb, organist and choir master of St. John's Church.

(BB) "THE BIG GAMBLE" (Capitol)—Chief ingredient to recommend 20th Century-Fox's "The Big Gamble," that makes up the top half of the Capitol's double bill, is the color photograph.

At least this removes it from the competition of black and white television.

The Screen play by Irwin Shaw is loaded with action as Stephen Boyd, his bride Juliette Greco and cousin David Wayne try to establish a trucking business on the Ivory Coast in Africa.

One scene alone, of them trying to ford a roaring river with their huge truck loaded down with beer destined for thirsty interior dwellers, is worth the price of admission.

However, while watching, patrons should reserve their sense of balance and not try to take things too seriously. "Are you hurt?" inquires the heroine anxiously. "Oh, it's nothing," replies our hero while the blood pours from his arm like vat-cleaning time at Heinz' ketchup factory.

(BB) "PIRATES OF TORTUGA"—This is also a 20th Century-Fox entry and should amuse those who feel as though they have been too long denied a good, old-fashioned story about piracy on the high seas.

Peopled by such relatively unknowns as Ken Scott, Leticia Roman, Dave King and John Richardson "Pirates of Tortuga" sometimes seems not unlike "Pygmalion" and at other times smacks of Rosamund Marshall's "Kitty."

Be that as it may, as the British privateer goes after the wretched pirate Sir Henry Morgan, who has turned to gnaw at the hand that freed him, Captain Scott picks up gunsner Roman—who is being chased by a knife-wielding butcher from whom she has stolen a purse. Later she stows away in his ship.

In between sea and land battles the boys try to make a lady out of Leticia. But many, at the end, will prefer her as the dirty-faced, hot-blooded hoyden of the first part.

Fine Arts Gambol Starts July 11

"Pinafore" and "Pirates of Penzance" both feature contralto Irene Byatt among the principals. I would like to underscore at this point, that Miss Byatt, so often referred to in other newspapers and on wire services as a Vancouver singer, owes a much stronger allegiance to Victoria.

She grew up in this city, was educated at Sir James Douglas and Victoria High Schools, received some vocal training here and a great deal of encouragement in the way of bursaries and other forms of sponsorship from local organizations, including the Musical Art Society.

The Mormon Tabernacle Choir and duo pianists Vronsky and Babin are among additional events in the festival lineup.

Opening date of the festival is Wednesday, July 11, and first nine days are mostly taken up with an international film festival which will represent the cream of the crop of 300 entries from 28 different countries.

Anyone interested in specific dates can write the VIP office, 570 Dunsmuir Street, Vancouver 2, or for any particular information call me at the Times.

U.S. Pressure 'Forced' Hike In Oil Prices

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Protestations by the Diefenbaker government that devaluation of the Canadian dollar had nothing to do with crude oil price increases which, in turn, triggered higher gasoline prices, cannot be sustained.

Petroleum industry sources in Calgary claim the government was directly responsible for the move; ordered it in fact, as a result of irresistible pressure from the U.S. government.

Following the further devaluation and pegging of the dollar at 92½ cents on May 2, informants say, there was this direct sequence of events:

Within the next two or three days U.S. government officials in Washington told Canadian trade officials in Ottawa that the price of Canadian crude oil had to be increased.

This was necessary, they said, in order to prevent Canadian crude—then at a 25-cent barrel discount—from flooding into the politically sensitive U.S. Midwest Chicago and Toledo refining areas.

The lower-priced Canadian crude, the U.S. said, would be irresistible to the refiners. On the other hand, any heavy increase in imports to the Midwest would result in U.S. producers increasing their pressure—already strong—to have Canadian oil put on a quota system.

U.S. officials reminded Canadian trade officials that a quota on Canadian oil would wreck all chances of the Diefenbaker national oil policy succeeding.

Canadian reaction to the U.S. order was immediate, the industry sources claim.

Make Imports Less Attractive

Imperial Oil Ltd., leader in price setting policy in Canada, was told that some upward revision of crude prices had to be made in order to make imports to the U.S. somewhat less attractive to the Midwest refiners.

Within a week of devaluation, Imperial Oil announced increases in posted prices averaging 10 cents a barrel throughout the Western Canadian oil fields.

So far as Imperial is concerned the increase is only a matter of bookkeeping. This largest Canadian oil company produces virtually all its own crude oil and is, in effect, independent in its oil pricing policies.

The same is not true of the other big companies such as British American Oil Co., Texaco Canada Ltd., or Shell Oil of Canada Ltd.

They must buy a large part of their crude supplies, for refining throughout Canada everywhere west of the Ottawa Valley, from a variety of producers, including Imperial Oil.

In public statements they bitterly protested the Imperial move and declared it was unnecessary from the standpoint of the Canadian economy.

In the end, however, they were forced by pressure of the oil producers to capitulate. Within two weeks of the Imperial crude price boost, the other companies announced they would pay the 10-cent-a-barrel price increase.

At the same time that Imperial raised its crude prices, a company spokesman reminded the public that this was the second increase in eight months with no corresponding increase in prices of consumer products.

Caught In Cost-Price Squeeze

Caught in a cost-price squeeze, and apparently believing that Imperial was signalling an imminent retail price increase, B.A. and Texaco this week boosted their prices for gasoline.

Then Thursday, coinciding with Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Magog, Que., "hold the price line" speech, Imperial Oil announced that it would not boost gasoline prices on the grounds that an increase "cannot be sustained in view of the competitive situation in the market."

While no direct relationship can be established between the Diefenbaker speech and the Imperial announcement, Ottawa correspondents noted that the prime minister made and received an unusually high number of long-distance telephone calls prior to the Magog address.

There is no confidence within the oil industry that the Imperial decision not to raise general retail gasoline prices will last much beyond the June 18 general election.

It is cynically noted that the Imperial announcement specifically stated the company had "no present intention" of boosting prices.

That, along with frequent recent Imperial declarations that consumer price increases were necessary in the industry, should make consumers wary of expecting anything but a slight delay in higher prices for petroleum products.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Car Firms Pace U.S. Industry

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP)—President Kennedy promised this week to recommend an income tax cut, and pressed Congress for action to keep the U.S. economy from faltering.

He conceded that his hope of attaining a 1962 economic output of $370,000,000,000 probably will not be realized, and put some of the blame on the stock market decline.

The across-the-board tax reduction for individuals and corporations would, if enacted by Congress, be effective next Jan. 1.

Kennedy declined to say how big the tax reductions may be. But he did say the cuts would not be completely offset by other provisions designed to recover some of the lost revenue.

Some of the new tax measures, he said, would:

Give business a $1,300,000,000 incentive to acquire new plant and equipment; establish a standby authority to cut income taxes by five per cent if a recession appears likely; repeal the 10-per-cent transportation tax on train and bus travel.

Currently U.S. output is running between $350,000,000,000 and $360,000,000,000, but recent developments, including those in the stock market, are holding back production, he said under questioning at a press conference.

TRADING FALLS
Volume of trading, which had reached near-record proportions in the previous hectic week, fell off this week. Some brokers saw in this a hope for market stabilization which may be followed by an advance.

Others, in a pessimistic attitude, warned that this wasn't necessarily the end of the sharp decline which began in mid-March.

Some said the factors which were widely blamed for the panicky sell-off of May 28 lingered—realization that stock prices had gone too high, lack of confidence in the business outlook, a growing belief that inflation has been halted, and upset over the price battle between the government and the steel industry.

The automobile industry zoomed along at the head of the industrial parade. In May it sold 656,837 U.S.-made passenger cars, the highest since September of record 1955.

For General Motors, with sales of 381,644 units, it was the biggest month in its history. Production this week was estimated at 151,434 against 121,321 last week and 127,385 a year ago.

Steel production fell last week for the ninth straight week. Output of 1,586,000 tons was 3.6 per cent below the previous week.

U.S. railroads and 11 unions representing 450,000 non-operating workers agreed to recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board which provide a wage increase of 10.28 cents an hour.

SOVIET TRADE GROUP—Shaded countries are the seven European Communist nations that have pledged closer economic co-operation among themselves and stepped up production, according to a communique issued Friday after a summit meeting of the nations in Moscow. Meeting was aimed at producing an answer to the European Common Market. The communique said Outer Mongolia was also voted into the group.—(AP Wirephoto Map.)

WEEK ON MARKETS

Small Investor Bides His Time

By PETER DUNN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The stock market this week gave early indications that it was in for another stormy period, but by mid-week it had settled down to routine trading.

Industrials, still wobbly from the convulsions of a week ago, took another beating Monday when the index—a cross-section compiled from 20 key issues—dropped more than 10 points.

The slump didn't last long, however, as the index levelled off Tuesday. The following day, buyers regained the initiative and sent the index ahead more than nine points. Industrials spent the rest of the week drifting moderately lower.

Brokers said the small investor appeared to be steering clear of the market, with most buying coming from institutions such as mutual funds and insurance companies which felt some blue chip stocks had reached bargain levels.

BANKS DECLINE
Among industrials, banks were down in a solid line, as Nova Scotia, Toronto, Dominion, Royal, Montreal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all showed declines ranging to $2.50.

Utilities and steels were mixed to lower on average but price changes were mostly fractional. Losses of $1.00 or more went to Algoma Steel and Power Corporation. Consumers' Gas showed a modest gain after announcing a dividend increase.

Refining oils, pipelines and papers were uninspiring with gains and losses about equally divided. B.A. Oil, Superpet, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Consolidated Paper and Minnesota and Ontario Paper all slipped slightly. Abitibi showed one of the few significant gains, rising $1.

In the senior base metals list, International Nickel provided a slight spark of enthusiasm, rising almost $1. Noranda, trading in its first week on a two-for-one split basis, dipped fractionally.

Other fractional losses went to Consolidated Mining and Smelting, Falconbridge, Hudson Bay Mining and Labrador, Opemiska and Quemet both rose modestly.

Most active in the speculative market were Peerless, Delhi Pacific, Northgate and Zenmac. Northgate had the sharpest rise, gaining 90 cents to $8.10. Friday it struck $8.25—highest it has ever gone.

GOLDS RISE
Best gains among the golds went to Dome and Campbell Red Lake—each ahead slightly more than $1. Giant Yellowknife and Consolidated Discovery both rose fractionally.

Calgary and Edmonton paced western oils with a gain of $3.75 to $24. Dome, Home B and Pacific Petroleum all had rises ranging to $1.

Total volume was 9,763,084 shares compared with last week's 17,626,082. Dollar value was $35,750,106 compared with $73,626,120.

Toronto Ex Suspends Member, Firm

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange announced this week it has suspended R. H. Scarlett, a member, and R. H. Scarlett & Co. Ltd., a member corporation, under an exchange bylaw concerning financial conditions of member firms.

Howard D. Graham, president of the exchange, said the action was taken under the provisions of the audit bylaw of the exchange and was not a disciplinary action.

"The provision... requires that member firms, unlike many other businesses or organizations, must maintain free capital of a certain sum in excess of the amount required to meet its commitments from time to time."

VISITOR FROM SEATTLE is confined to a hospital bed today from injuries suffered when his car was almost bent double in a grinding double collision at Quadra near Tolmie. Witnesses said the car first struck a road sign then spun round and smashed into a power pole. Driver Stanley Owens is reported in fair condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital with severe face, arm and leg lacerations.

88 Face 'Firing' From Hillcrest

DUNCAN — Rejection of a because of a log shortage, thus proposal to end a five-month work stoppage at Hillcrest of work.

Lumber Co. Ltd. Mesachie Lake operations may mean that 88 company loggers will be discharged.

A government-supervised vote here Friday on a proposal to reinstitute a free Duncan bus on a temporary basis was rejected by a vote of 61-11.

Peter Stone, a director of the company, said today that rejection of the proposal leaves the company very few courses of action and one of them is to discharge the men.

"We've gone as far as we can," he said. "If the men don't turn up for work Monday morning we will have to consider terminating our relationship with them."

The company's big sawmill at Mesachie Lake will be forced to shut down Friday

Deputy Labor Minister William H. Sands, who devised the formula under which the men would work, and which was agreed to by both the company and IWA headquarters in Vancouver, said today there is nothing more the government can do in the dispute.

"I'm at the end of my tether," he said.

Weldon C. Jubenville, president of Local 180, International Woodworkers of America, which represents the men, said today the offer for settlement of the dispute was "completely acceptable," except that it did not provide transportation for 20 Lake Cowichan loggers.

"I advised them only to vote as you please," but obviously they want the Lake Cowichan bus reinstated," Mr. Jubenville said.

Cowichan Holds Training Trials

DUNCAN — D. MacGuire was the only athlete to win three events as the Cowichan Branch 53, Royal Canadian Legion, held district eliminations in the Legion's junior Olympic training program.

Competing in the middle boys' division, MacGuire won the 220 yards, shot put and discus throw.

Jeremy Long captured the juvenile boys' mile and half-mile events.

Millionth Passenger Gets Feted

Harold Patrick, of Centerville, Ohio, on Friday was acclaimed as the millionth passenger travelling to Swartz Bay from Tsawwassen aboard the B.C. government ferries.

Mr. Patrick, his wife, and two daughters were treated to a free trip, dinner on board, a visit to Butchart Gardens, and dinner in Victoria Friday night.

Ald. Millard Mooney, complete with centennial tie and dashing grey topper, presented compliments of the city to the family.

Mrs. Bruce Moon, Cut Bank, Montana, was honored Thursday as the millionth passenger travelling in the opposite direction.

AROUND THE ISLAND

Sky-Jumpers at Strawberry Fair

BRENTWOOD — Three Victoria Flying Club parachute jumpers are scheduled to put on a display at the first annual Brentwood Strawberry Festival June 23.

Director Jerry Walker and jumpers Bob Volkman and Barry Leonard will appear in the sky over the West Saanich-Wallace Drive grounds between 2 and 4 p.m.

Brentwood Women's Institute will sponsor an afternoon baby show, and 4-H clubs in the district have arranged displays and demonstrations.

Afternoon program will be from 1 to 6 p.m., and there will be a dance from 9 to midnight. Arrangements now are being made for a 6 to 9 p.m. "sock hop" for teenagers.

Two separate contests for posters advertising the festival are under way in Mount Newton Junior High School and three Central Saanich elementary schools.

Mrs. Frank Littlewood, telephone GR 4-1308, is convener of the baby show, and will have information for entries.

COLWOOD — A beach fire near Albert Head was extinguished Friday by Colwood volunteer firemen who lowered themselves and their equipment down a 100-foot cliff to the blaze.

It actually started Saturday when an abandoned picnic fire went out of control. Both Colwood and B.C. Forest Service crews worked on it during the week.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Six members of Admiral DeWolf sea cadet corps leave June 30 for a seven-week course at HMCS Naden. All leading since the summer of 1961 for cadets, they are Ken Palmer, Brian Christensen, Leonard well is three feet wide and four Turner Bruce Fell, James feet deep, he said.

COURTENAY — The city's 'fresh water' mooring has been invaded by teredos.

Ald. George Hobson reported that pilings in the Courtenay River marina have been badly honeycombed by the salt water worms.

The marina basin, which was thought to be an ideal fresh water mooring, has been found to contain a layer of salt water at the bottom which has harbored the teredos.

The city parks committee will investigate and recommend corrective action.

The Village Commission will purchase three citizens' band shortwave radio units for the fire department at a total cost of $750.

Need for the equipment has been urged by the fire department for some time because of the need for quick communication should a second fire break out while the men are fighting a blaze.

The units will be supplied and installed by Don Robertson, local television radio repairman who also is a volunteer fireman.

That's how Ian and I like to think of it—as our good-neighbor policy. It's an interesting and valuable extra that Wawanesa has included in their Comprehensive Personal Liability policy without charge. Say your son knocks a home run through your neighbor's window. Legally, you're not obligated to pay the repairs, but of course you'd like to. The Voluntary Property Damage clause in the policy covers you... pays for damage up to $250. And this extra coverage doesn't cost you a thing. It's just one of the many nice extra benefits you enjoy with Wawanesa. # Scandinavia's Friendliness Impresses Tourists

MONTREAL — What do Canadian visitors like most about Scandinavia? The report is based on a survey recently conducted by the Scandinavian Travel Commission. The purpose of the survey, which was in the form of a questionnaire mailed to several thousand persons who had requested literature about Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden over a two-year period, was to determine how many of these persons followed their requests by actually visiting Scandinavia, what had made them decide to visit Scandinavia and what they liked most about the four countries.

Surprisingly, the things that these people enjoyed most in Scandinavia differed substantially from what had influenced their trips. For example, although 68 per cent of the visitors listed "friendly, hospitable people" as the feature that impressed them most favorably about Scandinavia, interest in the Scandinavian people originally had influenced only 10 per cent in choosing the Viking lands for a vacation. The reason for this seeming discrepancy, the Scandinavian Travel Commission suggests, is that tourists tend to look at promises of friendliness with some skepticism and, despite all the advance publicity on the subject, famed Scandinavian hospitality has to be experienced to be believed.

Famed Hotel Closed

LONDON (AP) — The Cavendish Hotel — a colorful and musty link with Edwardian London — shut its familiar doors for the last time recently.

Located on narrow Jermyn Street, in the heart of London's clubland, the old hostelry will be torn down and in its place a new building will rise.

For years, it was presided over by the fabled Rosa Lewis, known to her many and influential friends as the duchess of Jermyn Street.

Her friends included King Edward VII, the Duke of Windsor and Sir Winston Churchill.

When Disturbed Go Colonial

WILLIAMSBURG, VA. — Fetch me down my breeches and my buckle shoes; Hezekiah, for I am off to have the head fitted for a wig. When clouds become atomic and modern life moronic, it is comforting to get thee to Williamsburg and be a colonial.

Men vault not around the world in space, nor buzz about in whirly birds guns at the ready. There are no ICBs in these colonial parts, the biggest artillery being a Queen Ann siege piece which explodes with a respectable enough each morning at nine to start the colonial day. And twice a week the 24-man militia which is the whole blasted army, lopes down Duke of Gloucester St., occasionally biting the powder charge, ramming it into the muskets and letting loose a volley of joy.

Show me no drug stores where the beach balls are mixed in with the bicarb and the druggist knows more about fixing a tongue on a rye than a tourniquet. The colonial apothecary sells licorice sticks and slippery elm and wintergreen-flavored toothbrushes that cost a nickel. The slippery elm stick is dandy for sore throats, and if you chew and fray the end of the wintergreen stick you've got a toothbrush with built-in flavor.

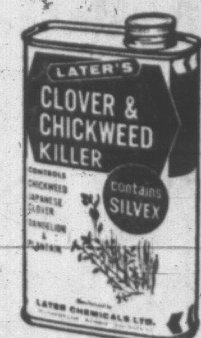

Apothecaries hereabouts sell balls of pomanders "for foul and stinking closets" an item that will double as a plague-chaser if worn about the neck. Handmade clods of bayberry soap, are fashioned on the premises and are guaranteed "not to injure the skin even if applied daily." Pepper salve is the thing for peachy complexions, and anyone troubled with lice need merely apply oil of lavender in the evening. There won't be a louse in the house by morning.

and spiced sweet potato pudding. The waiters are got up in breeches and knee socks and frilly blouses and are college men, no less, from the nearby establishment of William and Mary. And when they tie a napkin around your neck, the size of a modern tablecloth, it doesn't mean you are having a lobster or getting a tooth pulled. It was just the pleasant custom of the Colonial day.

EXPERT TIPS

How to Make Train Trip Lot Easier

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP) — A child excited about a train ride isn't likely to sit still for the duration of the trip so it is best to dress him in comfortable play clothes, says Jackie Tapp of the CNR's public relations office here.

"A child who doesn't have to sit stiff and formal, in Sunday best clothes will arrive in better humor."

Mrs. Tapp adds this advice to persons travelling with young children: Take along a favorite toy, book or blanket. A familiar object helps overcome any fears the child may have.

"To keep excitement at a minimum, keep the trip matter-of-fact by taking along biscuits and other mid-day treats usually given the child."

If special diet foods are necessary, take along a good supply in case the train is delayed for some reason. The kitchen staff will aid in preparing formula and pabulum and will heat tinned foods, bottles and prepare soft-boiled eggs. They'll also keep baby food or special dietetic foods on ice.

Mothers with young babies are advised to carry disposal diapers.

GOOD TRAVELLERS

Children adapt quickly and easily to train travel and the natural rhythm easily induces sleep, Mrs. Tapp says.

"In fact, children are the best travellers."

When reservations are made it is important to give the ages of the children to determine which ones are eligible for children's rates.

Young passengers who travel alone may be left in the care of the conductor. If the railway is notified in advance, arrangements are made to have the child met by a passenger representative who will ensure the child gets to his connecting train and arrange for the child to eat if the stopover is lengthy.

Although the railway stipulates no age limit, Mrs. Tapp said she personally thinks a child should be 10 or 12 before travelling alone.

SPECIAL SERVICES

She stresses the need for notifying the railway in advance if special services are required.

Stretcher cases can be put through some windows of sleeping cars but it is necessary to make arrangements ahead of time since not all windows are adaptable.

Wheel chairs are available at main stations for the use of passengers.

Passenger representatives will meet elderly or infirm persons and direct them to restaurants, washroom facilities and other trains.

"I can't think of anything within reason that we wouldn't, couldn't or haven't done for people."

BEASTALL ADVISES

Fine Garden Showpiece Result of Hard Pruning

By JACK BEASTALL

A sweet little shrub which is just finishing its period of bloom is known to most gardeners as the Flowering almond. There are forms with single flowers, but it is the double flowered form which is usually chosen for garden decoration.

Botanically it is Prunus triloba, flora plena, although of recent years Prunus glandulosa has been available and it is a matter of personal preference which one is chosen. Both are good, both have double blossoms of a pleasing pink color.

A week to 10 days ago, these shrubs were being admired by all who saw them, but it is a different story this week. The flowers have faded and the foliage has lost all semblance of life.

So forlorn-looking are these shrubs that gardeners have become alarmed, and most of the recent telephone calls have been to know whether watering, or fertilizing is needed, or whether some insect or disease has killed the little shrubs.

Fortunately, nothing of a dire nature has happened and the only treatment needed is pruning.

The dying-back of the growths which have flowered is an annual occurrence, but it seems to be more pronounced and more rapid in some seasons than in others. This year it is markedly so.

CUT-AND-COME-AGAIN

Pruning instructions for the double-flowered almond are to cut back hard after flowering, and when this is done every year the shrubs soon become a showpiece in the spring garden.

Where these pruning instructions are not regularly carried out the shrubs seem to eke out a meagre existence and never amount to very much.

HOUSING HINTS

Q. Are there any special features aimed at in designing a house?

A. Yes there are. A house design should be simple, functional and compact, but not to the point where comfort is sacrificed. Circulation should not be impeded. Every part of the house should be within easy reach. Lighting and ventilation are also important.

One of the architect's main concerns is the question of aesthetics—how the house will look in its surroundings when it's completed. This question of harmony, form and color, is just as important to the architect as it is to the discriminating homeowner. The house he designs bears his name as well as that of the occupant.

Q. What steps should you take after you've decided to build a house?

A. Engage an architect. At least that would be the ideal procedure. With his experience, an architect would not only design a house to fit your family's needs, but would also ensure that the price was within the amount you wished to invest in the property. He would prepare the necessary specifications and also select the contractor and supervise construction of the house for you.

Another method, of course, is to select a suitable building site, select stock house plans—such as those available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation—and have a contractor build from these plans.

No matter how sorry a sight the plant may be at the moment, careful examination will reveal some leaves in good condition and new side growths quite low down on the dead looking branches.

Therefore pruning is not a difficult matter, for we cut away each branch at a point above where a new shoot is developing, or where the good leaves end.

In the case of young plants there may be only four inches or so of growth left above soil level, and this nearly causes heart failure at pruning so drastically.

But "hard pruning" is called for and "hard pruning" it is, harder on the gardener than on the shrub.

As you examine the bush to determine where and what to prune, you may notice some husky young shoots coming through the soil around the base.

LOW GROWTHS

These must not be mistaken for undesirable sucker growths, for this plant is not grafted. The more new growths it puts up from below soil level the happier it is in the garden, and you will be assured of a good sized specimen in a year or so. The height rarely exceeds three feet in the average garden in this general area.

This flowering almond belongs to the same family as the peach and the apricot, and like its relatives, enjoys sufficient water for its needs throughout the dry months. Even now, it is worth making sure the soil at the roots contains enough moisture, and if in doubt, or the soil is definitely dry, give it a gentle trickle from the hose for an hour.

Whether water is needed or not, a little agricultural (hydrated) lime dusted over the root area will be much appreciated, and this may be carefully scratched into the surface without doing damage to the surface roots.

The gentle trickle of water from the hose will wash the lime down to the root area at the same time as the general watering of the shrub takes place.

Next year's blossoms will be carried on the growths made during this year, and the more growths we can encourage to develop the better will be next year's display.

As with so many of our plants, it is the treatment given after blooming that determines the following year's pleasures.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Remove faded and wilted blooms from rhododendrons, azaleas and lilacs. Nip off only the flower heads, not cutting any stem since the new growths for next year's blooms are already starting at the base of the old flower heads.

After the tulip leaves have wilted a bit and been removed, sow some quick growing annual seed such as candytuft, mignonette, linum and sweet alyssum. If plants of these are not available at the time.

Patio and porch tubs should be well furnished with flowering plants ready for summer enjoyment. See that they receive enough water.

Ferns in the shady corner will benefit from feeding with weak liquid fertilizer.

Rhubarb and asparagus should be kept well supplied with water as long as the leaves are in good condition.

Architects Must Look To Laurels

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sir William Holford, world-renowned British architect, said recently architects must set new, higher standards for training future architects.

He said at the annual meeting of the Canadian Royal Architectural Institute that architects are highly vulnerable. Anyone from a do-it-yourself householder to a contractor could dispense with architects and still retain efficiency, cheapness and speed.

Whether architects could top this depended on the quality of the service they provided.

In another speech Torao Saito of Tokyo said Japan has built almost 100 new "ancient castles" to accommodate tourists who want to see castles. Many of the castles had ancient-looking wood exteriors but basic structures of reinforced concrete and steel.

To clean underneath a refrigerator, cover a yardstick with a nylon stocking. Use this duster to reach the hard-to-get-at spots.

RELUCTANT QUEEN SAYS:

Winning Isn't Easy to Take

Shirley Naysmith is the reluctant ruler of Victoria's women golfers today.

Considering the circumstances, she wishes she wasn't.

One swing of an iron on the eighth fairway at Uplands transformed what promised to be an interesting playoff for the city championship into bitter disappointment.

Defending champion Marg Todd, bidding for her 11th title, suffered a back injury and was forced to default.

Three up playing the eighth, Mrs. Todd attempted to "half-swing" her way through the remaining distance, but finally had to call it quits at the 12th.

It was Mrs. Naysmith's third city title, but she didn't relish the manner in which it came.

"Losing," she said later, "would have been much easier to take."

(See Hal Malone's column below.)

Friday's flight finals:

Constitution Flight — Mrs. G. Harris defeated Mrs. C. Humber 1 up.
Second Flight — Mrs. F. Green defeated Mrs. G. Davis 1 up.
Third Flight — Mrs. C. Vale defeated Mrs. M. White 2 up.
Fourth Flight — Mrs. F. Biss defeated Mrs. J. Skilling 5 and 3.
Fifth Flight — Mrs. E. Blunt defeated Mrs. K. Wildman 1 up.
Sixth Flight — Mrs. C. Locatelli defeated Mrs. J. Clear 4 and 3.
Seventh Flight — Mrs. J. Riddell defeated Mrs. R. Merryweather 1 up.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Exactly at 11 a.m. Friday the squawk box in the pro shop at Uplands blared: "Margaret Todd and Shirley Naysmith to the first tee, please."

About 30 people stood in small groups, clutching multi-hued umbrellas and snuggled inside wind-breakers as if in doubt that winter was ready to take a summer vacation.

Around the pro shop came Margaret Todd, 10 times winner of the city women's golf championship. She is tall and long-striding and the mother of three boys. The years and raising a family and a back injury have taken something off her game. But on any given day she can be rough.

She walked resolutely to the tee, set up the ball, took a few practice swings and then laced it. If golf balls could weep after being spanked hard, this one would have cried a flood.

Shirley Naysmith, a two-time winner of the tournament but the challenger Friday, took a look at her opponent's ball rolling gently far down the fairway and set her lips.

She is shorter than Margaret Todd though not tiny. She has red cheeks and freckles and a sort of puckish grin. Her swing is tight and compact, and she plays the game like Bill Wakeham—she never surrenders.

She hit her drive solidly but it did the Twist and went into the rough. Her second shot was weak and her third dived to the other side of the fairway. By the time she holed out with her sixth shot, Mrs. Todd was down in four and it looked like it might be a short game.

On the second hole Mrs. Todd needed a 12-foot putt for a par four. She stroked the ball softly, saw it begin to veer away from the cup and said aloud: "Oh, hit it." The ball didn't get the message. Needing a six-footer for a half, Mrs. Naysmith was too strong—and two down.

Iron to Green Was Thing of Beauty

They were both on the green in three on the third with Mrs. Todd first to putt. Her putt lacked enough vitamins to reach the cup. Mrs. Naysmith had an eight-foot pressure shot. She deliberated longer than usual, then tapped the ball. It seemed to dawdle and get weary with every spin but it finally reached the hole and fell in as if exhausted. One down.

Mrs. Naysmith was wide with her drive on the short (203 yards) fourth. Mrs. Todd put her ball 20 yards from the pin, a beautiful drive which drew the first applause of the match.

Anxious to wrap up the hole, Mrs. Todd studied the grass, bent over and just as suddenly straightened up. A robin, taking his daily constitution across the green, had caught her eye. She said something to it but the bird maintained its wheelchair pace. Finally she chased it, yelling, "Shoo-shoo," and it took off.

She two-putted for a par three, while Mrs. Naysmith, nudging rather than stroking cleanly, took three putts. They split the fifth and sixth, leaving Mrs. Todd two up.

The seventh at Uplands is 516 yards. The stately oak trees stand well back, leaving a golfer a wide-open vista. "Going for the downs" is Margaret Todd's meat and she made the most of it. Using an iron, she took the gallery's breath away with her third shot, a floating thing of beauty which left her eight feet from the pin.

'It Wouldn't Be Fair to Shirley'

Her husband Jack tucked the umbrella he had been carrying under his arms and said: "Even I have to clap for that one."—Jack's father, Ernie, walking behind, nodded: "Worth coming out to see," he said.

She sank her putt for a birdie four. Mrs. Naysmith took a bogey six. She was three down and her normal cheerfulness was wearing a little thin.

On the eighth Mrs. Todd's drive was a sports writer's special. It soared high and wide to the right, bounced off a tree and headed for the ditch. Obviously disturbed, she teed up a second ball and socked it straight and true. Mrs. Naysmith outshot her for the first time and they marched up the fairway. Mrs. Todd took a practice swing, stiffened, and a look of pain flashed across her face.

"Her back," said Jack Todd. "She hurt her back on the last drive."

She lifted her arms above her head as if trying to lose the discomfort by stretching. Then she tried to bend. She couldn't. Very slowly she picked up her ball and defaulted the hole.

As she walked to the ninth tee, Jack Todd gently massaged his wife's back and tried to talk her out of continuing. "I think it will be alright," she said. "I don't want to quit now. It wouldn't be fair to Shirley."

They halved the ninth, but Mrs. Todd had to putt almost standing straight up, and her fourth shot, barely went in. She bit her lips trying to tee up the ball on the 10th and took only a three-quarter swing. They both two-putted to halve the hole but it was obvious that Mrs. Todd couldn't go on much longer.

Could Prove Nothing By Continuing

On the short (180 yards) 11th Mrs. Todd's drive landed snug against a tree, while Mrs. Naysmith hit the green with a crisp blow. Mrs. Todd took a putter and left-handed it out. "Funny," she said, "hitting left-handed doesn't make it (her back) hurt so much. Maybe I should play all my shots from that side." She lost the hole with a bogey four to Mrs. Naysmith's easy par.

For the third straight hole Mrs. Naysmith outdrove Mrs. Todd on the 12th. Mrs. Todd approached the ball, took a swing, and then walked slowly to Mrs. Naysmith.

"I'm sorry, Shirley," she said. "I just can't play any more."

"I'm sorry you hurt yourself," Mrs. Naysmith said. "I hope it isn't serious."

Then Margaret Todd, tears running down her face, walked slowly to the clubhouse.

Later she said: "I didn't want to quit—more for Shirley's sake than mine. But what would it have proven if I had gone on? Shirley wouldn't like to win that way. And all I might have done is hurt my back more. How did it happen? I don't know. Back on the eighth—just as I was getting into the ball—I felt something go. We were having a good game. I wish it didn't have to end this way."

Up ahead, pulling her cart slowly toward the clubhouse, walked the winner of this test for the third time. But you could tell by the look on Shirley Naysmith's face that this wasn't the way she wanted it either.

'I'VE GOT IT...NO, YOU TAKE IT'

End of long losing streak finally came for New York Mets Friday, but they had some anxious moments before taking 4-3 National League decision from Chicago Cubs. One of them came in fourth inning as high fly ball hit in front of plate by Ernie Banks popped out of glove of New York third baseman Felix Mantilla (left), bounces in air (centre), is finally caught by catcher Sammy Taylor. Mets had lost 17 straight games. — (AP Wirephoto.)

LEGIONNAIRES' TURN TO TEST JUNIOR ROCKS

The next few are busy days for Victoria lacrosse teams.

Victoria Shamrocks visit Nanaimo tonight in an effort to strengthen their claim on third place in the Inter-City League, but senior "B" clubs and the Junior Rocks will save their strutting for the home fans.

The baby Rocks, leaders of the Junior Inter-City League with a 3-1 record, meet Vancouver Legion for the first time in a Memorial Arena encounter scheduled to start at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Senior "B" squads take over Monday and Tuesday. Jokers entertain Nanaimo at the Arena on Monday and then step over to Esquimalt's Sports Centre for a Tuesday date with Tugmen.

Hot Putter Makes Snead Look Slick

CLIFTON, N.J. (AP)—Sam Snead, who has been winning tournaments for a quarter of a century, found a formula of youth in his brass-headed putter Friday and shot into the halfway lead of the $100,000 golf classic with a 36-hole score of 136, eight under par.

He had a two-stroke lead over the field and 11 over the distressed pre-tournament favorite, Arnold Palmer, a picture of gloom after adding a 74 to a previous 73 over the par-72 Montclair course.

Snead—just turned 50—fired a six-under-par 66 on his second round of the 7,055-yard layout by one-putting 11 greens and chipping in from off the green on another. He used only 24 putts in his fabulous round.

In second place at 138 were Gene Littler, who shot 71; 28-year-old Dave Marr, with a pair of 69s, and Earl Stewart with a 71 Friday.

Of the four Canadian pros in the tournament, Al Johnston shot the day's best round—a 71 that just qualified him for the third round. Johnston had a 78 Thursday. The cutoff point was 149 or better. Al Balding didn't make it, adding a 73 Friday to his first-round 77, but George Knudson and Stan Leonard qualified easily. Knudson fired a 73 Friday for a 143 total and Leonard shot his second straight 72 for 144.

CITY AMATEUR WINDUP

Gorge Golfers Challenge Kerr

Three Gorge Vale challengers are ready to apply greatest pressure, and the Colwood course will supply a challenge of its own Sunday when Laurie Kerr steps out to try and claim his sixth city golf championship.

Kerr, a former provincial titleholder who operates out of Colwood, fired rounds of 71 and 75 last week for a 36-hole total of 146.

Mike Kolb is one stroke behind, followed by clubmates John Merriman, at 149, and Bill Wakeham, 150.

Sunday's threesomes, teeing off at six-minute intervals, are made up of only the low 24 scorers (and ties) from last week.

Calgary Lineman Claimed By Lions

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions have drafted guard Bill Graham of the Calgary Stampeders as their second choice in the Western Football Conference equalization pool operations.

Lions earlier obtained half-back Baz Nagle from Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the first round of the equalization draft.

Lions also have signed half-back Paul Gustafson, 24-year-old Vancouver native who has been attending Montana State University.

WINS MAJOR MATCH

Fyvie is Fond Of Rifle Now

VANCOUVER — Sharpshooters from Vancouver Island, who had 18 contestants on the line this morning as final firing started for the biggest prize of the annual B.C. Rifle Association meeting—the Lieutenant-Governor's Medal—continued to pick up awards Friday.

Victoria's Dave Fyvie, who says "it took me two years to get my rifle shooting the way I want it," came home in front in Friday's major competition, winning a four-way-shootout to capture the Duff Stewart Match.

Shooting for the RCME, Lieut. Fyvie won both events and aggregate honors in the Victoria Rifle Association centennial shoot two weeks back. He was right on target again Friday at Blair Range, firing 73 of a possible 75 to finish in a deadlock with three other snipers.

After the first shootout, Fyvie and Sgt. Mary Robinson of Victoria, representing the Canadian Intelligence Corps, were still tied. They each fired another six shots with Fyvie taking the top spot.

Mrs. Robinson paced all Island shooters in the All-Comers' Aggregate, finishing in third place. She was eight points behind Earl Jamieson of the Westminster Regiment and two back of runner-up Gunnar Westling, Seafarths.

Frannie Morse of Victoria's Canadian Scottish Rifle Association won a six-way shootout to gain the last place in today's final stage of shooting for the Lieutenant-Governor's Medal. He was the 18th Islander to qualify for the final stage.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Is this going to be a summer that brings an improvement in salmon fishing, after a couple of years that had the salt-chuck boys singing the blues?

Nobody is really expecting that it's going to be anything like the "good old days" and predictions don't mean a thing where fish are concerned. But there are some optimistic omens and a few of the people who rate more than casual respect for their piscatorial knowledge are cautiously suggesting that it could be a better summer.

Certainly more salmon fishermen have been wearing smiles in the past two weeks than were in evidence in the same period a year ago. And this morning it appears that both fresh and salt-water line-dunkers who drop lures in the right places could be bringing back good catches this weekend.

Hard to beat in salmon circles recently is reliable Saanich Inlet, where the big drawback is that heavy tackle is often needed to hook heavy fish.

Reports from Inlet boathouses have been good this week as bluebacks and jack springs continue to hit light tackle and an apparently new run of big white springs is cruising deeper waters.

The larger springs seem to have followed herring towards the Goldstream end. It was down that way Friday morning that the Jack Bernard family of Kimball, Utah, hauled in half a dozen, including a pair near 15 pounds, while fishing with guide Jim Gilbert.

J. Spencer boated a 17-pounder Thursday, but the best catches of the week from the Misery Bay-Chesterfield Rock area were taken Wednesday. Bert Wright and Sam Lane picked up 19% and 16% pounders and several smaller fish. Bill Turner and Gwilliam Evans boated three around 16 pounds in three hours.

Checking through his record book on inlet fishing, Gilbert commented Friday: "The book is very similar to 1959, our last good year. It's shaping up to be a good summer."

Warmer Weather Helps Fly Fishermen

For numbers of fish, the Porlier Pass area may be the most productive. Recent catches around Porlier have averaged better than three bluebacks per boat, running close to three pounds. Blueback fishing has also been hot in the Campbell River waters, where big springs are occasionally taking passes at lures. California visitor M. A. Brown boated one of the big ones—a 23-pounder—and filled his limit with blues.

Big springs, up to 30 pounds, are moving in waters from Sooke to Oak Bay, but the trick is to get them to bite. Mickey McInnis managed it at Pedder Bay Wednesday evening, hooking 22 and 19-pounders. Oak Bay regulars drew blanks Friday evening, but they know there are salmon around and were back out in force this morning, most of them trolling in "The Gap."

Warmer weather has brought on increased insect hatches and fly fishermen are starting to take good trout catches in several lakes and streams. Sea-run cutthroats at river mouths are providing a good portion of the sport.

Experienced bait-users and trollers are continuing to net good-sized trout from most of the larger lakes and rivers, including Cowichan, Shawnigan, Prospect, Quinsom, Upper and Lower Campbell and Sprout Lakes.

Campbell River has been jumping with sea-runs in the past week. Good catches have been reported from around the river mouth and in the "fly fishing only" section of the river, where Cahill-colored flies have been getting action.

Certainly worth a try for close-to-home anglers are waters from the Inner Harbor to Craigflower Bridge. The fish are sea-run cutthroats, which occasionally go close to five pounds. Try for them with silver-bodied bucktail flies, small spoons or spinner-and-worm.

Shotguns will be barking at Victoria Gun Club Sunday in the Victoria City Centennial Trapshooting Championships. Port Alberni's Bernie McLellan is expected to step to the firing line to defend the Ernie Todd Trophy he won last year in the handicap event.

Spectators are invited to attend the shoot, which will include a Calcutta auction. Events start at 10 a.m. The grounds are on the Albert Head Road.

Barry Wrecks Bid To End Win Habit

Warmest topic in conversation around the Heywood Avenue Senior Men's Softball League continues to be speculation on which team will be the first to snap the winning habit of Gorge Hotel.

Sooke tried to turn the trick Friday night, but ended up victim of the 10th straight Gorge victory. Barry Jackson, hot on the mound and at the plate, was the big man as the league leaders trimmed Sooke 11-3. Jackson pitched a three-hitter and poled a two-run homer. Glen Bullen, who gave up eight hits, was also a hitting hurler, slamming a home run for two of the Sooke tallies.

15-YEAR-OLD MARK

Pros' 'Big Top' Packing 'Em in

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League set an attendance record of 2,436,000 during the 1961-62 regular season, president Clarence Campbell said Friday.

The total was about five per cent—or around 116,000—higher than the 1960-61 season and topped the previous all-time record of 2,397,000 by about 39,000. The former record was made 15 years ago, in the 1946-47 season.

Campbell said New York Rangers showed the greatest attendance increase, about 87,000 more than in 1960-61. The increase in Chicago was 60,000.

Montreal and Toronto have long had virtual sellouts for each game—variations usually depending upon the number of standees—but the Toronto figure last season showed a slight increase of about 1,500. Montreal remained practically unchanged.

"Attendance was lower by about four per cent, in Boston and Detroit, said Campbell, with each club down by about 14,000.

Over-all attendance for the Stanley Cup playoffs also reached a high of 277,000 for the 18 games. There was not an unsold ticket throughout the playoffs.

Campbell said comparisons with previous playoffs would not be a fair indication as to records, since the playoffs this spring were played in the league's largest rinks.

The number of games would also have a bearing in trying to compute comparative records. The average, for semi-finals and final, is 16; the maximum is 21.

Leafs Deal Five For Defenceman

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto assume practically the complete stocking of the club. Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions in the National Hockey League, Friday signed Kent Douglas, 26-year-old defenceman, in a five-for-one trade with Springfield Indians of the American League.

The Leafs sent four defencemen—Roger Cote, 23; Bill White, 22; Jim Wilcox, 21; and Dick Mattioli, 24—and centre Wally Boyer, 24, to the Indians for Douglas.

Cote, White and Boyer played for Rochester last season, Wilcox for San Francisco of the Western League, and Mattioli for Pittsburgh of the AHL.

"Punch Imlach, Leafs' general manager, said, 'We're tickled pink to get Douglas. Every club in the NHL was after him and Eddie Shore had a $50,000 price tag on him.'"

In Detroit, the Red Wings announced that they have added Pittsburgh of the American Hockey League to their farm system and that they will

PALM READING FORMULA

As an "icebreaker," when things are slow in your group at a party, ask a person to take an odd number of coins in one hand, an even number in the other. He is not to tell you which is which. You are going to astound him by telling him which hand holds which number without any guesswork.

Simply have him multiply the number of coins in the right hand by seven and the number in the left hand by six. Then have him add the products and give you the result. You then immediately identify which hand has the odd number of coins.

Why does this formula always produce the correct answer? The solution is given in detail below and as you will note the whole trick hinges on the magic number seven.

ARE YOU UP ON MARS TRIP?

A rocket flight to the planet Mars is envisioned within 20 years. At its closest approach to the Earth, Mars is how many million miles away? Travelling at a speed of 25,000 miles per hour, a one-way trip would take how many days?

For your information, a trip to the moon at the same rate would take 10 hours.

Answers: At its closest, Mars is 35 million miles away. A one-way trip would take 365 days.

Why is a rooster on a perch like a penny?

Answers: Because its back is on one side and tail on the other.

What should you keep even when you give it to some one?

FUNNY FACES FOR LAUGHS

Putting Humpty-Dumpty together again is a funny stunt for a party. Host or hostess provides sheets of paper bearing Humpty's outline (see scaled down version at left). Guests are asked to fold sheets into four sections so that top section only is in sight (to fold, turn paper over and fold from bottom up). At the leader's command, guests draw Humpty's hat or head of hair in top section. Papers are refolded and passed on. Eyes and eyebrows are added next; nose in following round, and finally mouth.

Sideburns, whiskers, mustache, pipe—and any and all original embellishments are permissible so that Humpty's final appearance will be a complete surprise.

For a variation, later, try completing other faces or figures—fish, birds, animals, space faces, etc.

MONEY MAKER

Joseph had earned a considerable amount of money doing various errands and chores after school. For each job Joseph has been paid a silver coin of one of four denominations. This weekend, when Joseph counted up his total, he found that three denominations of the coins amount to the same number of dollars each. He has twice as many 50-cent pieces as dollar coins, and twice as many dimes as quarters.

How many of each of the four coins does Joseph have?

Answers: Seven silver dollars; 14 dimes; 28 quarters; 56 cents.

Why is the inside of everything mysterious?

Answers: Because we can't make it out.

Henry welcomes letters from readers and awards each week a best-selling book for the most interesting letter he receives. This week's winner is Edward Roy, Chicope Falls, Mass.

Dear Henry:

My daughter likes to put her shoes on standing up, therefore she tramps the backs down. As a result her shoes are worn out long before they should be.

Should I buy her shoes soon as she tramps them down, or make her wear her cousin's shoes which are slightly too big, or have you a better solution? She is almost 11.

HELP

She is probably lazy. (But maybe she is crazy); Buy her a ramp (shoe spoon). So... her toes won't cramp; So... she won't look like a tramp; So... on her shoes she won't stamp!

Dear Henry:

I am a girl of 11. Every time I go to the show on Saturday my brother's boy friend comes with me; I can't get rid of him. Whatever I try, it doesn't work. What shall I do?

Dear Cheryl:

Judging by the behavior of your brother's boy friend, it seems he wants to become yours; (but you know that 11 is too tender an age for a boy friend and you are going to let him go his way.)

So tell him: "I am afraid I am not inclined to you, so could we stop seeing each other?" or in other words: "Look Bud, I don't dig your face, so scram."

Dear Henry:

There is this boy in my room at school whom I love very much. He used to love me too but I don't know whether he still likes me as much.

He smiles at me quite a bit at school, but we used to go out every night and we don't anymore. Do you think he still likes me?

Dear Loving:

I think he is in the hands of another girl and is just keeping you warm in case he needs you.

FOR LAND'S SAKE

Green has two rectangular gardens on his land, one in the rear of his house and the other in front. Each of the gardens is 200 square yards in area.

Green discovered in walking around both gardens that he travelled six more yards in completing a circuit of the garden in back as around the one in front. What are their dimensions?

Answers: One is 20 yards by 10 yards. The other is 25 yards by 8 yards.

TRY FOLDING UP

Hand someone a small sheet of paper — writing or tabloid paper will do — and ask him or her to fold it eight times.

Maximum number of folds the sheet of paper will take is six or seven; then the person doing it will be stuck, for the paper simply won't be manageable. On the eighth fold, the paper will reach 128 thicknesses.

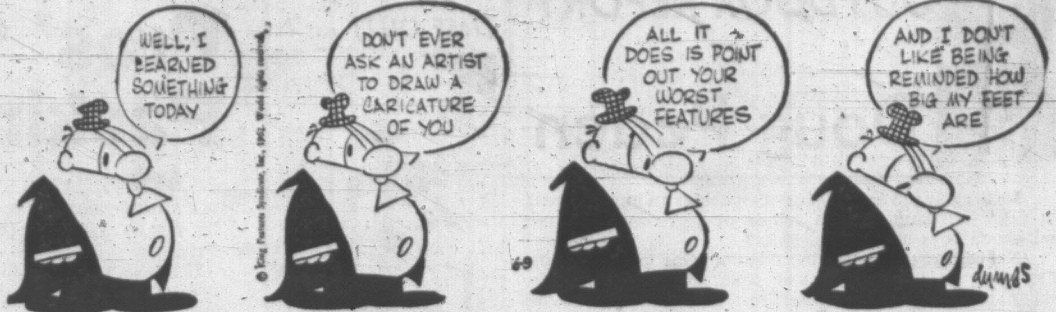

No matter how large a piece of paper is used, it cannot be folded as many as eight times — even seven is difficult.

Try it with this sheet of newspaper if you are skeptical.

Why is a pair of skates like an apple?

Julie, Carol Romp In Hour-Long Spec At 9 p.m. Sunday

Thunderbird Golf 2 P.M. Sunday on 5; Indianapolis Highlights Sunday at 5

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

It's the No. 1 highlight for most TV viewers this weekend will be the hour-long musical, "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall," billed for 9 Sunday night on Channels 6 and 2.

Julie and Carol, of course, are Broadway's Julie Andrews and Carol Channing. The musical is a sequel to the 1967 film "Julie, Julie, Julie," which starred Julie Andrews and Carol Channing. The musical is a sequel to the 1967 film "Julie, Julie, Julie," which starred Julie Andrews and Carol Channing.

JULIE AND CAROL AT CARNEGIE HALL

DOUBLE-TAKE FOR JULIE AND CAROL—It will be a double-take for viewers wishing to see Julie Andrews and Carol Channing whoop it up in their hour-long musical, "Julie and Carol at Carnegie Hall." The CBS will air the show Sunday night at 9 on Channels 6 and 2, while CBS-TV will show it Monday night at 10 on Channels 7, 11 and 12. Above the two are pictured in their western duet number that was such a hit on the Garry Moore Show in 1961.

Two weeks ago, the auto race was run through the streets of Monte Carlo.

Fall Session To Get Study On Transport

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

MONCTON — Recommendations of the MacPherson Royal Commission on Transportation will "receive appropriate attention" at the next session of Parliament, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker promised an audience of about 1,000 in the Moncton High School here Friday.

Pounding hard at his Liberal opponents in this election campaign he accused them of following a policy of "rule or ruin." He claimed the Liberals were now becoming desperate because they believed they were losing the election and they were determined either to "rule" Canada or "ruin" faith in Canada abroad with "reckless irresponsible" charges about the government financial and other policies.

for close to one hour and was applauded frequently. On the platform with him was Hon. Hugh John Fleming, forestry minister who said Mr. Diefenbaker should get every seat in the Atlantic provinces because of what he had done for the Maritimes.

He described the previous Liberal governments record in that regard as barren as last year's bird nest.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the recommendations of the MacPherson Royal Commission now being studied.

Shrinking Subsidies for Railways

Presented to the government earlier this year the transportation commissions report recommended several far-reaching changes in transport policies and regulations. It proposed shrinking subsidies for the railways commencing in the first year at about $100,000,000 and declining to about $22,000,000 in 15 years.

Purpose of the subsidies was to aid the railways as they implemented the reports recommendations slashing unprofitable branch lines and eliminating uneconomic passenger trains. The subsidies would also compensate the railways for hauling western grain for export at a loss under the Crowsnest Pass agreement.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a Conservative government through its new national development program would equalize opportunities in the Maritimes.

He accused the Liberals of turning their backs on the Atlantic provinces. He scoffed at Walter Gordon who said he was a close adviser to Liberal leader L. B. Pearson. He claimed that Mr. Gordon had advocated that the people of the Maritime provinces be given one-way tickets out of the area.

The Conservative government had "acted to restore hope to the Maritimes."

He said that consideration would be given to special aid to universities in the Atlantic provinces because of their special circumstances.

Whistle-Stop Campaign Revived

The election tour with the prime minister Friday was reminiscent of the old-style campaigning by train with whistlestops. Mr. Diefenbaker and party Thursday night left Lewis, Quebec, aboard a private car attached to the Canadian National Railways Ocean Limited.

There were whistle stops throughout Friday at Campbellton, Bathurst, Newcastle and Harcourt in New Brunswick. At each stop the prime minister delayed the scheduled departure of the Ocean Limited by mingling with crowds made up of adults and pushing, shoving children on the railway platforms. At Newcastle he was almost pushed off the platform and narrowly missed a bad fall. They were friendly crowds anxious to get a close-up view of the prime minister.

A press conference scheduled in Moncton at 4:30 p.m. was called off with the explanation the prime minister was too busy.

Correspondents had been anxious to ask him about his warning to business against price increases.

This correspondent had the opportunity to ask him what action he was planning during a reception for prominent Conservatives. He informed the prime minister of Mr. Pearson's suggestion that the prime minister must have price controls in mind. Mr. Diefenbaker indicated that he was not thinking in terms of controls.

The alternative probably would be an inquiry by the combines commissioner.

At the Moncton rally Mr. Diefenbaker told his audience of the difficulties he had encountered at Vancouver and later in Chelmsford. He said that not only the New Democratic Party and the Communists were responsible for the trouble but also the Liberals.

"That meeting at Vancouver made us tens of thousands of votes in every part of Canada," he declared.

He claimed that he had learned that a financial adviser of Liberal party had sent out registered letters to all party candidates warning them not to do anything against the prime minister.

Shawnigan-Cowichan Edge Victoria Schools

DUNCAN — The slender margin of one point gave a combined Shawnigan Lake School-Cowichan High School track and field squad possession of the Leslie-Roberts Rose Bowl in competition against an Oak Bay High-University School team.

Final tally for the annual meet was 66 for the Shawnigan-Cowichan team to 65 for the Victoria visitors.

Nine records were broken in 13 events and Oak Bay's Bob McLaren won the individual aggregate with a first, two seconds and a third.

Runners-up were Shawnigan mates Jeremy Long and Pat Gray, each winner of two events.

Minor Revision For Sign Bylaw

A special city council committee Friday approved minor revisions and alterations to its 1960 sign display bylaw.

The committee, set up last month to review various aspects of the bylaw, also instructed city solicitor T. P. O'Grady to re-draft the bylaw with the revisions before submitting it to council.

THESE ARE THE ISSUES!

485,000 CANADIANS ARE LOOKING FOR JOBS THAT DON'T EXIST

THE PRICES OF THINGS YOU BUY FROM OTHER COUNTRIES ARE GOING UP

Do Canadians have to put up with unemployment? Do Canadians have to put up with rising prices for the things we import, because of the devaluation of the dollar? These are the vital issues for the people of Canada to decide on June 18th. That's why we invite you to Take a Stand for Government with Purpose... A Government that is pledged to solve these important problems.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

First Fibreglass Yacht Seen Here

Believed to be the first fibreglass sailing vessel to be registered here is Cliff Woodcock's new Miramar II, now berthed at Shoal Harbor.

The sloop was designed by John Brandimayr, well-known Vancouver marine architect, and was built by Spencer Boats Ltd. of Mitchell Island, in the Fraser River between Vancouver and Richmond.

The owner said he resorted to fibreglass mainly to have more fun and less work in his sailing.

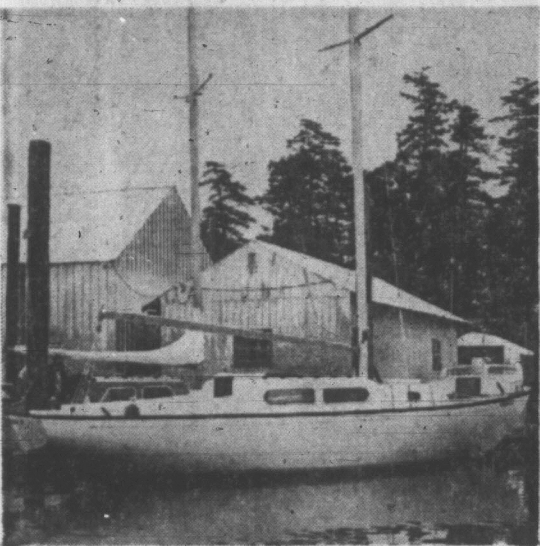

"The last boat I had was mahogany. Everywhere I looked there was brightwork. This one has a teak rub-stroke and handrail to be kept polished, and the rest needs only soap and water."

There are other advantages to fibreglass construction, he said, which act as "frosting-on-the-cake."

Space, naturally is at a premium in a vessel such as this, although at 35 feet L.O.A. she is no midget.

Water and fuel tanks often bite into that precious space, but with the fibreglass boat they are formed simply by putting the required partitions in the deep keel.

"To put tanks in that portion of a wooden hull would be tricky," Mr. Woodcock said. "With fibreglass it presents no problem. Another advantage is that this extra weight is carried far down in the hull—where you want it—to give better sailing characteristics."

Miramar II rests snugly at her Shoal Harbor berth.

Each tank is of about 30 gallons. Main ballast is 4,000 pounds of lead along the bottom of the keel. Auxiliary power is provided by a 30-horsepower gas engine.

Miramar, a sloop, has a beam of 9½ feet and draft of 5½ feet. She has berths for five, space for two more in berths in the cockpit, and flies terylene sails from her 39-foot aluminum mast.

Terylene is a wonderful fabric for sails, being light, quick-drying, and mildew resistant, but it has one unusual quality that can be a bit confounding on a small vessel.

"The sails require about 50 per cent more stowage space," Mr. Woodcock said. "I think it is because the weave is so tight that air becomes trapped in the folds."

The mast is stepped on deck, but its weight and thrust are carried below by a pillar which forms part of a bulkhead.

She gave proof of her ability to sail on her first Gulf crossing, when she showed excellent balance and "good speed considering the little wind we had."

A fuller demonstration of her ability was given by her sister ship, Coho, in the recent Swiftsure race. Coho started strongly, and although she slid back later when the old hands began to make their experience felt in the race, she crossed the finish line a creditable fifth out of 12 entries in B class.

Coho was hull number one out of the Spencer mold for this class, and Miramar was number two.

The owner's sailing experience began in Vancouver, with dinghies. After discharge from the RCAF at the end of the Second World War he moved to Victoria, soon resumed sailing, and has never stopped.

O.C. CRICKET

Pakistan Triumphs

LONDON (Reuters) — The Pakistani cricket tourists snatched a thrilling victory against Surrey—their first tour against a county—by 92 runs at The Oval here Friday with only three minutes to spare.

Surrey lost its last seven wickets for 25 runs in less than an hour and the Pakistani fielders leaped in the air with glee when skipper Javed Burki caught wicket-keeper Arnold Long to end the match.

Earlier the Pakistanis' second innings had been dominated by Faed's first century of the summer. He made 106 not out in three hours, with a six and 14 fours among his strokes.

Results of other cricket matches:

At Oxford: Hampshire beat Oxford University by 140 runs. Hampshire 415 for 9 declared and 99 for 2 declared; Oxford University 130 and 234.

At Cardiff: Glamorgan beat Yorkshire by 5 wickets. Yorkshire 276 and 274 for 7 declared; Glamorgan 334 and 224 for 5.

At Hinkley: Warwickshire beat Leicestershire by 8 wickets. Leicestershire 281 and 257; Warwickshire 351 for 2 declared and 140 for 2.

At Worcester: Match drawn. Worcestershire 411 for 5 declared and 182 for 7 declared; Middlesex 228 and 132 for 4.

At Northampton: Match drawn. Northamptonshire 312 for 6 declared and 234 for 4 declared; Lancashire 285 and 183 for 5.

At Bristol: Match drawn. Derbyshire 328 for 5 declared and 233 for 3 declared; Somerset 281 and 258 for 4.

At Ramford: Essex beat Kent by 1 wicket. Kent 174 and 328; Essex 351 and 150 for 9.

STRATEGY IN WIND

Playing golf in a strong wind can cause problems on a shot whether the shot is made with the wind, into the wind, or with a cross wind.

1. Hitting into the wind—Keep the ball as low as possible and tee the ball a bit lower on drives into the wind.

2. Tee shots with the wind—Tee your ball up a bit higher so you can get it up to where the wind can help it along.

3. If there is a cross wind—Be sure to allow for the distance you think the wind will blow the ball off its course, and aim accordingly either to the right or left of your target.

Hitting to the green when there is a strong wind is tricky. When hitting into the wind, you'll want to keep the ball low in a sort of "punch shot," so oncoming wind has least effect on the ball.

WATER SAFETY PROGRAM

Kinette Swim Classes Set

Expert swimming instruction will be made available again this summer to children over eight years old by Victoria Kinette Club's annual Red Cross Water Safety Program.

Qualified Red Cross water safety instructors will give greater individual instruction this year to classes limited to 12 children each, at Kinsmen Gorge Park.

Two sets of instruction of a half-hour lesson daily, Monday to Friday, for two weeks will be held at "beginner" and "junior" levels.

Lacrosse Schedule

Next week's Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association schedule:

Monday: 1:15—Flyweights and midjets; 6:30—Juvenile B, Butlers vs. City (Stevenson Park).
Tuesday: 3:15 — Pee-wee, City vs. Saanich; 6:30 — Juvenile A (Stevenson Park).
Wednesday: 7:00—Bantams (Memorial Arena).
Thursday: Flyweights and midjets; 6:30 — Juvenile B, Butlers vs. City (Stevenson Park).
Saturday: 9:00—Pee-wee; 10:30—Bantams (Stevenson Park).

The sets will run from Tuesday, July 3, to Friday, July 13, and from Monday, July 16, to Friday, July 28. Test days will be held on July 14 and July 28. Registration at the park's concession booth will be held on Saturday, June 16, for the first set, and on Saturday, June 23, for the second, at 10 a.m. Further information can be obtained at GR 9-5235 or EV 6-5309.

ASTIGMATISM

Nearly nine out of ten people have astigmatism, many without knowing it. Astigmatism causes an uneven focusing of the light rays that enter your eye. The rays of light in one section of a beam are focused at one point, but the rays of a section at right angles to this are focused at a different point. Thus, a blurred picture or image results. In many cases, the image can be made quite clear by a constant focusing of the lens in the eye. This, however, usually causes a great deal of strain, fatigue, soreness of the eyes and frequent headaches. To have comfortable vision and to protect the only pair of eyes you will ever have, be sure they are free from this common defect, or that they are properly corrected for it. It is advisable to have your eyes examined at least once every two years.

Bennett Defends Split on Dollar

WINNIPEG (CP)—W. A. C. Bennett, premier of British Columbia, today said Social Credit was "down to earth among the people while the old-line party leaders are 60,000 feet above the people."

GREEN BUCKS HECKLERS IN MANITOBA

SELKIRK, Man. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green bucked the severest heckling yet met by a federal cabinet minister in the Manitoba campaign at a Conservative rally here Friday night.

More than 200 partisan voters sided with Mr. Green to shout down persistent heckling from 10 young persons, two of them women. The often noisy demonstration heard the minister call the group "hoodlums" and one of the hecklers threaten to punch a Conservative supporter in the nose.

Several times, Mr. Green was booed. But each time, the friendly audience clapped and shouted to drown out the taunts. Shouts of "Go back to Russia" reverberated through the hall as Conservatives tried to control the heckling.

LONDON (Reuters)—Trinidad and its small sister island of Tobago will become an independent nation Aug. 31, it was announced Friday night. The decision ends 160 years of British rule over a territory which has become the Commonwealth's second-biggest oil producer after Canada.

'Pay-As-You-Go' Plan For Crown Companies

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia said Friday that a federal Social Credit government would run Crown corporations on a pay-as-you-go and profit-making basis.

(In its account of a speech by Mr. Bennett at Truro, N.S., Wednesday, The Canadian Press erroneously reported him as saying government-owned corporations should be given back to private control.)

BALANCED BUDGET

There is room for Crown corporations, Mr. Bennett said, in a telephone interview with CP Friday. However, they should be run on a balanced-budget basis.

If, in the case of such corporations as the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, subsidies were required, necessary funds should be included in the federal budget and voted each year.

In the case of such firms, some capital costs should be written off as they were in the case of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway taken over by the Social Credit government of British Columbia. However, after that they should be run on a business basis.

ATTEMPTING TO COPY JFK, SAYS DOUGLAS

Dief's Threat on Prices 'Just Election Gimmick'

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Consumer prices in Canada are in the hands of a small group of "economic czars," New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas said Friday night, and neither of the old-line political parties intends to do a thing about it.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's threat to clamp down on the new round of price boosts was an "election gimmick" without an iota of sincerity behind it. "Yesterday Mr. Diefenbaker said some greedy corporations were putting up prices and blaming them on the dollar devaluation. He said that if they don't stop, some drastic action will be taken."

Mr. Douglas, speaking to 1,500 at an election rally in the Kelowna Arena, said Mr. Diefenbaker should have taken this kind of action two years ago.

"For the last two years he has had on his desk two reports, one from the royal commission on price spreads in food products and the other from the restrictive trade practices commission on the meat-packing industry."

Both reports showed "that the consumer is being fleeced, and fleeced unmercifully."

WOULD TAKE ACTION

He said the NDP would take the kind of action needed to bear down on the profiteering corporations. It would put "real teeth" into the Combines Act to bring the companies into line.

Mr. Douglas heads today for a meeting at Edmonton.

During a press conference earlier, he said Mr. Diefenbaker is trying to appear "like a knight on a white charger" by talking of action against price boosts.

It was an obvious attempt to copy President Kennedy, but had turned out to be "a pretty pathetic performance."

Mr. Douglas said the United States president acted, but Mr. Diefenbaker only talked.

RECALLS JFK'S ACTIONS

He recalled how "a few weeks ago Mr. Kennedy caught the U.S. steel companies with the cream still wet on their whiskers" and stepped in to wipe out a steel price boost. That was the kind of action Mr. Diefenbaker never would attempt.

Mr. Douglas made a strong pitch for the election of Owen Jones, 72, NDP candidate in Okanagan - Boundary riding where four former members of Parliament are fighting for the seat. The others are David Pugh, Conservative who held it in the last Parliament, Liberal Elmore Philpott and Social Crediter F. D. Shaw.

PROTEST CONTINUES

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Committee for Non-violent Action announced today that demonstrations against U.S. nuclear testing would continue despite the arrest of 29 pickets.

The arrest of the pickets Friday capped a week-long protest sponsored by the committee and followed a U.S. district court verdict against the three-man crew of the protest boat Everyman I. The three crewmen were sentenced to 30 days in jail for attempting to sail into the Pacific testing zone in defiance of a federal court order.

Let them know:

We're the third province in Canada... not the last!

Why is it that more often than not the smaller provinces of Canada receive proportionately greater Federal aid and recognition than British Columbia? The answer is plain. While Members of Parliament from the other provinces have spoken out aggressively on behalf of their constituents, your MPs have failed to win effective support for British Columbia's legitimate interests. Obstruction of the Peace and Columbia power projects; unfair treatment of our great highways and bridges programme, inadequate share of defense contracts, and the refusal to grant a subsidy to the PGE comprise just a few examples. Without strong voices in Ottawa, British Columbia's progress in the creation of new industry, new jobs and a better environment in which you can work and live will be slowed down. Now's the time for a change. As Canada's third province in population and manufacturing production, British Columbia demands to be heard. Vote for your Social Credit candidate — the one man who will really speak out on your behalf!

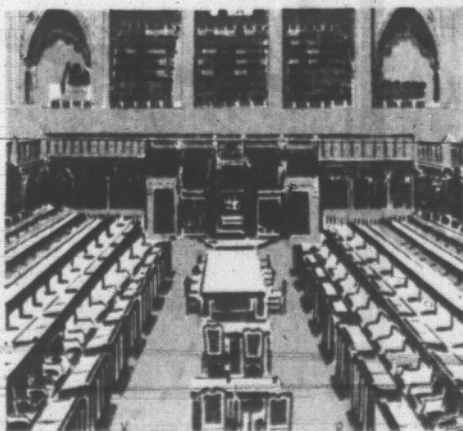

Dramatic evidence of the continuing unfair treatment British Columbia has received from Liberals and Conservatives in Ottawa: in 1961, Federal Government tax revenue collections from British Columbia amounted to $597,600,000, but that Government's total expenditures were only $143,600,000; the excess of the Federal Government's collections over expenditures was $454,000,000!

Dance Off; Tories Make PM 'Martyr'

HAMILTON (CP)—A Liberal dance that was to be held in Hamilton June 15 has been postponed because Prime Minister Diefenbaker will be speaking at an election rally across the street on the same evening.

"We were told to cancel our affair—arranged before Mr. Diefenbaker's meeting was announced—by headquarters in Toronto," said George Mills, campaign manager for John Morison, Liberal candidate in Wentworth riding.

"I was told that the Progressive Conservatives, following trouble at their meetings in Vancouver and Sudbury, are presenting Mr. Diefenbaker as a martyr and blaming Liberals for the incidents," he said.

"We realize that any trouble at the Progressive Conservative rally blamed on us could cost the Liberals thousands of votes."

1949 DEVALUATION OF DOLLAR DEFENDED

'Liberals Did It Differently'—Pearson

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

HALIFAX—Liberal Leader Lester Pearson Friday kept dollar devaluation at the forefront of his election argument, claiming there was a major difference between the way the former Liberal government did it in 1949 and the way it was done this year by the Diefenbaker government.

Before an election rally attended by an overflow crowd of 2,000 here, a Tory stronghold, Mr. Pearson for the first time came out with a detailed and vigorous defence of devaluation as practised by the Liberals.

The Conservatives, he said, brought about devaluation as the result of panic. They were having difficulty keeping up to 92.5 cents and the result would be a "dangerous" increase in the cost of living.

But in 1949, when the Liberals devalued the dollar to 90 cents, it was done "in a planned way and, within a year later, the dollar began to rise and it went higher and higher."

Others First

The reason for the devaluation in 1949, Mr. Pearson said, was that France had devalued its currency by 30 per cent and Britain had devalued its currency by 20 per cent. Canada had to follow suit ("and I know because I was in the government then") to retain her markets in those countries.

The Liberal leader was speaking at a major rally in Halifax on the same evening as Finance Minister Fleming had a rally staged.

Much-Travelled Wildlife Film To Be Seen Here

Film of Vancouver Island wildlife which has been shown as far afield as New York and Australia, will be shown in Victoria for three nights this month.

Well-known native wildlife photographer Wilmer H. Gold will show a two-hour colour film entitled "Search for Adventure on Vancouver Island" at the Langham Court Theatre on June 14, 15 and 16 at 8 p.m.

The film was taken primarily in the Forbidden Plateau area and includes aerial shots of Strathcona Park, bird and animal life, wildflowers and logging operations in the rugged Island country.

Mr. Gold has been five years making the film, travelling all over the Island by plane or on foot or horseback, and is still adding to it.

Tickets for each performance will be available at the door.

Bank Bandits Slain

DETROIT (UPI)—Two bank robbers were shot to death Friday night when they tried to battle their way out of a police cordon after they robbed a suburban Taylor, Mich., bank of some $22,000.

Mr. Pearson chuckled at the Fleming meeting, declaring he thought he could "almost repeat word for word what he is saying."

"He is saying that it was done to help the Canadian economy—after having resisted it for months and months and having lost $600 million from our exchange fund to avoid devaluation," said Mr. Pearson.

Heaped Abuse

"But when we asked about his manipulations earlier in the Commons—all he did was heap abuse and scorn on us and say devaluation was a terrible thing."

"Then they did it. And the prime minister, when he was out this way a while ago, said they said it couldn't be done."

This was greeted by applause and laughter as Mr. Pearson, in his best election form, warmed to a capacity audience his workers didn't expect to get in this main city of Tory Nova Scotia.

"And they did it in an election time," he continued, "a time when a government doesn't usually tinker with its currency, especially after having lost $600 million at it."

Mr. Pearson described Fleming as one of those members of the federal cabinet had "botched" Canada's relations with Britain in trade matters by crying havoc at Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

"Three or four years ago," he said, "Britain offered us free trade but nothing happened. It was brushed under the table. Then, rebuffed, Britain looked at the exciting things happening in Europe, promising to bind Europe into a strong bulwark against Communism."

Motorists Mad

As the motorcade drove through Halifax, during the five o'clock rush hour, many people on the streets and in cars seemed to resent the traffic jams created, some of them waving in disgust, very few waving any encouragement.

This atmosphere was reversed, however, at the Pearson rally, where the mood of the crowd was entirely sympathetic. There were about 800 people turned away after the theatre was filled to the capacity set by the fire department.

Early in his speech, Mr. Pearson hotly denied Conservative charges that the Liberal party was behind violent demonstrations against the Prime Minister at Vancouver and Chelmsford, Ont.

"Those who say this are characteristic of politicians of Tammany Hall and of New York's East Side," he said. One of these people had been the minister of trade and commerce, George Hees.

Mr. Pearson said he could use a similar type of language to refute the charge, but would not.

'Completely False'

"I will say only that it is completely false," he said. "Liberalism doesn't stand for that kind of thing. But it is sometimes said that when a Pearson said a Liberal government is behind on points he starts swinging wildly in hopes of a knockout."

On another maritime issue—which also involves B.C.—Mr. ment would bring about a 12-mile fishing limit for Canada's coastal waters.

Canada could do it alone; the Conservatives might quake about U.S. irritation at such a development, but a Liberal government, through diplomatic means, could do it without any clash with the U.S.

"Iceland and Norway have done it and they're not at war with the U.S. yet," said Mr. Pearson.

FINAL TOUCHES TO QUEEN IN BRONZE

Bronze bust of Queen Elizabeth, Times' Centennial gift to city, is nearing completion in Ottawa studio of sculptor Arthur Price. Original bust was executed in clay by Peggy Walton Packard of Victoria, who made original bust which was damaged by vandals in Beacon Hill Park. On left Mr. Price is seen assembling mold before pouring bronze.

Lying face up is rough core which will form inner surface of bronze, while he holds portion of face taken from original by Mrs. Packard. In centre is finished product in bronze, fresh from casting. Burrs on cheek and chin line are caused by joints in mold, which is made in segments to avoid undercuts and simplify taking apart after casting. Careful work by sculptor with cold chisel removes most of burr. Some idea of final appearance is given in picture at right, after initial scrubbing with wire brush. It is hoped to have bust completed by end of this month for placing in Beacon Hill Park, probably in rose garden. (Photos by Dominion-Wide, Ottawa.)

FORT RODD HILL BECOMES MONUMENT

Early Work on Historic Site Urged

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Above: the sparkling blue waters of Esquimalt Harbor, Fort Rodd Hill and Fisgard lighthouse today became an historic national park and monument to Canada's past.

From a red, blue and white dais overlooking the harbor, it was opened by George Chaffey, Progressive Conservative MP in the last federal government, and dedicated to "the glory of God" by Capt. Horatio Todd, chaplain to the Royal Canadian Navy at Belmont Park.

The ceremony was completed with the formal signing over of the 44-acre site to the historic sites division of the department of northern affairs by Major R. B. Mainprize on behalf of the department of national defence.

Major P. D. Crofton received the documents on behalf of the historic sites division. "I hope they don't waste as much time developing it as they did in taking it over," said Lt. Col. Aubrey Kent, chairman of the Fort Rodd Hill committee which fought for preservation of the site.

Col. Kent expressed thanks to all who had worked to this end and in particular Capt. Geoffrey C. D'Arcy, who first pressed for development of the fort after it was declared "surplus" by the federal government.

A woman was robbed of $47 by three young boys as she enjoyed the summer sunshine in Beacon Hill Park Friday evening.

Miss E. M. Garlick, 106 St. Andrews, told city police she was reading a book in the lookout overlooking Horseshoe Bay when three boys playing nearby came over towards her, knocked over her shopping bag and stole her purse.

The purse contained $47 in cash and personal papers. The thieves were aged between 12 and 14, Miss Garlick said.

FALSE CHEQUES CASHED

4 Men Remanded On Fraud Charge

Four Vancouver men appeared in Saanich police court today on a joint charge of obtaining $148.87 by false pretences from the Canada Safe way Store, 3400 Tillicum, on Friday by means of a worthless cheque.

Thomas Gordon, Leslie Miller, Walter Brunelle and Raymond Jones were remanded without plea to Monday afternoon.

Magistrate William Ostler set bail for each of them at $1,000 after prosecutor Angus Smith told him further charges are pending in the case.

The arrests were made after Saanich police received complaints that a number of worthless cheques had been turned in at various supermarkets in the area. A total of eight cheques of about $150 each was involved.

The manager of one of the stores took the licence number of a car and police throughout Victoria area and RCMP at Sidney and Nanaimo were notified.

Shortly after 10 p.m. Nanaimo RCMP spotted the car less than 1,000 feet short of the ferry terminus. Saanich detectives travelled up Island and made the arrests.

Fly Ash Outcry 'Blown Up'

No Real Cause for Alarm Says Victoria Mill Owner

A prominent Victoria millowner said today the smoke and fly ash situation is nothing to get alarmed about.

Stan Moore of Moore-Whittington Lumber Company Ltd. said:

"We feel that this situation has been enlarged upon to too great an extent. The mills have been doing all they can to combat any nuisance, and I don't think the situation is worse than it was five or 10 years ago.

"Our company has installed better fans to aid in combustion in our burner, and we're doing everything in our power to keep things as clean as possible."

He added that "we'd appreciate direction. If anyone can tell us how to improve the situation, we'd be very glad to co-operate."

NO CINDERS

Contending the nuisance had been exaggerated by some persons, he said:

"Come down and take a look at our yards. I'd like to see someone find cinders there, or anywhere near."

"We've talked this over among us and we really can't see any cause for complaint. The mills aren't as guilty as some persons think, he said.

"With a little extra care on the part of one or two plants, I think the situation could be well taken care of."

FOUR-STEP PLAN

Mr. Moore's comments came on the heels of a report from William Jorgenson, new head of the city's planning and inspection division, which recommended a four-step plan to deal with the problem.

Mr. Jorgenson recommends that the following procedure be taken to deal with violations:

First violation—smoke inspector will go directly to the operator of the plant, seek the source of the trouble and recommend how to overcome it.

Second violation—a notice will be sent to the owner of the plant, reporting the offence.

Third violation—a second notice will be sent to the owner of the plant.

Fourth violation—The owner will be informed that evidence has been collected and the matter will be brought to court.

TIME ALLOWED

Plants found emitting too much fly ash will be given time to install equipment to reduce it before another check is conducted.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the smoke advisory board, meanwhile put his finger on two deeper problems—the fact that the bylaw dealing with the matter may not be strong enough, and the fact that the majority of the smoke is channelled by winds over a small area instead of being dispersed.

"People accuse us of not acting on the nuisance," Ald. Edgelow said. "It's not so; we're doing everything we can."

"It's just that the bylaw may not be tough enough to let us do anything. I asked the city smoke inspector how many mills were violating the law and he said that there were none, according to the law."

"Now we've got more men on it, checking them 24 hours a day to make sure they are not breaking the law after hours."

He also pointed out that the problem is aggravated because the smoke passes over only a relatively small area. It makes it seem worse than it should be for the people under that area, he said.

Another factor causing problems for the city, Mr. Edgelow added, is the fact that because of the winds it is very hard to determine just which mill is causing the problem.

"The smoke from one mill gets mixed in with the smoke from another," he said. "We don't know which to prosecute—and we must be certain before we initiate action."

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me when the Americas Cup race first began? G.D.E.

A. It began on Aug. 8, 1870, with the unsuccessful attempt by J. Ashbury's Cambria (Great Britain) to capture the trophy from the Magie owned by F. Osgood (U.S.A.). Since then the American holders have never been defeated.

Q. This may be rather a strange question but has anyone ever recorded how far a flea can jump? M.W.C.

A. In 1910 a California rodent flea took a record leap of 13 inches; the highest altitude attained during flight was seven inches.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve mathematical or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

MONTE ROBERTS

This old dad, as the saying might go, is usually the last to know.

So I guess it was just about par for the course when I happened to notice the telephone number of the Victoria Daily Times, as printed in the top right-hand corner of the front page Friday.

Here I have been stumbling along, making telephone calls and finding people not in, and leaving my office number, thusly:

"Please ask him to call me at Evergreen 23131."

When, as only a cursory glance at the top right-hand corner of the front page of The Times should have revealed to me, long ago, my request should have been:

"Please ask him to call me at 383-3131."

It appears the kindly telephone company, in association with other telephone companies in Canada and the United States, has decided to abandon Evergreen and Granite and MAYfair and FRontier, to throw itself wholeheartedly into the numbers game.

My first reaction, as usual, was predictably reactionary.

I have enough trouble remembering five numbers, without having to remember seven numbers.

In fact, I seriously considered taking the opposite course to those supporting the numbers game, and go completely alphabetical.

If anyone asked me my home telephone number, I intend to say: "Just dial EYJ KUXA."

"EYJ KUXA," I felt, has a nice, continental sound to it, especially if pronounced with a heavy mid-European accent.

This would be especially impressive if you were having trouble reaching me, and could dial operator, asking what in the world is wrong at EYJ KUXA?

Then I came to the office number, which, when alphabetized, comes out "E V A D E R F U M," because there is no letter of the alphabet—not a single one, let alone three—in the hole in the dial assigned to the numeral "1".

It is probably a diabolical plot, designed to prevent me from phoning My Favorite Wife at HER office, which would come out:

"E V I D E R U M."

Or, even worse, how would I get in touch with those polite and efficient ladies who operate the big board at the Legislative Buildings?

I would look mighty silly trying to telephone: "E V C U E R U M E R."

All in all, I have decided to unreactionize myself, and go along with the kindly telephone company.

After all, it shouldn't be too hard to remember that old EV is 38, and long-time friend GR is 47.

Or is it 83 and 74?

Don't call me, I'll call you.

Candidates Locked in Last-Round Election Battles

By FRANK RUTTER

The election campaign is now in its last week, and it's going to be a tough one; and a great deal will depend upon how the candidates work in a large number of borderline B.C. ridings.

It's going to be an election where every seat is important, and a few votes could decide the final outcome.

In fact many observers believe the results may not be known June 18, but will depend upon recounts and the service vote.

Today's advance polls may give some indication of the turnout to be expected on election day. The bigger the turnout, the higher the hopes of the Liberals, NDP and Secreds of taking away Tory seats.

Rutter

When Pearson was in Vancouver he had a "clean" meeting, and Liberal officials counted themselves lucky the goons that wrecked Prime Minister Diefenbaker's rally didn't show up. They don't know how lucky they were. The goons were there, alright, trying to break in the fire doors with crowbars. But they arrived too late; the Queen Elizabeth was full and the doors locked—ask any newsman who tried to get in.

Victoria Liberal Foster Isherwood's campaign has taken a turn for the better since Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane moved in to take charge along with George Gregory and Geoff Ellis. Isherwood has visited all the local hospitals, the service clubs, and now is touring industrial plants such as Yarrow's and VMD.

A 615 trip to a dairy this Wednesday went sour, though. Nobody told him the milkmen didn't arrive that time on Wednesdays.

Esquimalt-Saanich Tory campaigner Russ Simpson nearly flipped last week when he went to meet Trade Minister Hees at Pat Bay. No Hees. Half an hour after the scheduled flight had arrived a man from the control tower ambled over to say "Somebody called; Hees phoned to say he missed the plane." Hees turned up later in a chartered Cessna.

Jimmy Audain, the Victoria Social Credit candidate, says he's sorry for the press—currently getting it in the neck from both Tories and Secreds.

"Even if they don't subscribe to Social Credit principles at least the newspapers haven't blackguarded me. Besides you catch flies with honey not vinegar," he says.

They're here again: those fancy "personal" invitations from Premier Bennett to attend his Sacred "monster rally" at the Royal Theatre Tuesday. "Kindly present this invitation at the door" says the card. What happens if you don't?

Local Secreds were discussing what kind of entertainment to have at the Royal.

"Why don't you do something different—have a magic act?" it was suggested. "Heck no, the main speaker is a magician," said the organizer.

What ever happened to the NDP? Their campaign has gone awfully quiet.

One reason: the local candidates aren't holding public meetings. Another could be they're counting on a last-minute explosion when Tommy Douglas expects to pack the Vancouver Forum next Wednesday.

B.C. leader Bob Strachan will be home again at the end of the week to try and stir things up in Oak Bay and Duncan.

Well, Bennett wanted a 90-cent dollar; now look what's happened. All the prices have gone up in his own cafeteria. Government employees now have to pay 70 cents for lunches that were, formerly 60 cents.

When Trade Minister Hees was here he told us devaluation would only affect the Cadillac class. But price of the cheapest British auto—the Mini-Car—has gone up $90 to $1,585.

Victoria voters list has a gem: listed at 830 Pemberton is Peterson, L. E., occupation "cabinet maker." Evidently it was a compromise between minister and cabinet for Education Minister Les Peterson of the B.C. government.

Returning officer Edmond St. Jorre was furious. "Horseplay," he said. "No disrespect to the premier, but if anyone is the cabinet-maker, it should be him."

Since the election campaign began to get hot, I've received two anonymous "donations"—typewritten envelopes addressed to my home each enclosing a ten-dollar bill. The first, which came May 10 was marked "for honest reporting." The second, on Tuesday, had no message.

While the sentiment may be well-meant, the money is just not acceptable.

As the donor is unknown I have turned the money over to charity. Whoever you are if you have money to give away, I'd much prefer you sent it direct to a charity—no more to me, please.

Victoria Daily Times

SAT., JUNE 9, 1962

Blonde, blue-eyed and a true lover of the sea, Synnove Pettersen (Miss Victoria) wears a hooded sailing jacket in marine blue trimmed with white. When the breeze subsides the hood unbuttons and tucks into one of the large pockets. Synnove has chosen well-tailored deck pants as a complement to the deep blue jacket.

Flatteringly feminine is the softly draped sheath suit worn by fair-haired Sharon Page, at left. The gently rounded neckline, waist bow, and pink-ice shade give a dainty air to this swim suit fashioned in a new miracle fabric called vyrene. Dark-haired Della Irwin, centre, models a striking sharkskin swim suit in peppermint stick red and white. Moulded to the body this is an excellent style for the active swimmer. A model in miniature is Sue Basanta, right, who wears a size 7 or 8. A crisp white pique pop top scattered with dainty summer blossoms is combined with short shorts in sailing navy.

Mad, Mad Colors Come to the Beach

Georgina Britton tests the waters of Gonzales Bay as she models a somewhat new innovation, the beach shift. This breezy beach dress just skims the knees and is worn unbelted for cool comfort.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By Nona Damaske

Fine sunny days have finally found their way to Victoria and a color explosion is taking place on our beaches. Sunwear has never been so brilliant nor have so many vivid shades ever been mated. Tangerine and hot pink, fire red and coral, emerald green and turquoise and strong shades of lime and violet. This shaft of sun colors is interspersed with splashes of black and white, more often combined than alone.

Fabric design of many of these beachcombing separates is mad, mad, mad! Geometric prints, zany stripes and irregular size polka dots make you blink and adjust your sunglasses.

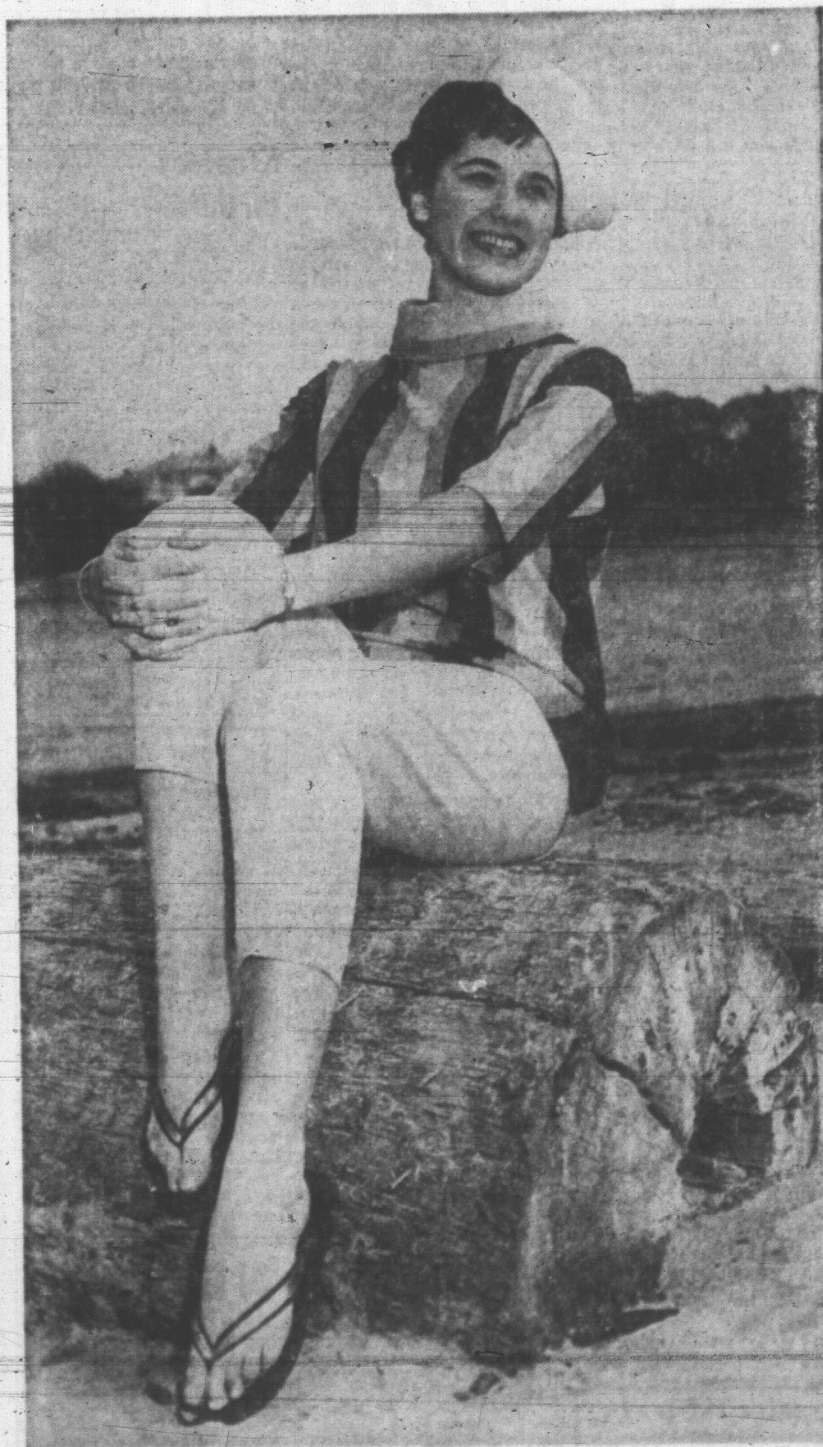

There are cool cover-up items for the fair and tender skinned lass. The beach shift, a sheath of the simplest ease, is fun to wear and a mere nothing to care for.

A loose long-sleeved beach shirt which just comes to the bottom edge of your swim suit will protect the sensitive neck and shoulder areas from too many caresses from old Sol.

For sunworshippers there are swim suits with back necklines plunging to the waist and sleeveless pop tops with low necklines. For the lucky home pool owners or those with secluded patios the bikini is a true shortcut to the sun.

Be ready, at the bounce of a beach ball, for a gambol on the sand as the days grow sunnier and sunnier (I hope).

A striking outfit for the sports-minded girl is this turtle neck "knitabout" in emerald green, turquoise and navy stripe. Designed in a spongy towel-like fabric the top could be worn over a damp swim suit or as shown by brunette Muriel Bertrand, with slender long line pants in shoal blue.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Become a Dollar Saver In Our Centennial Year

By Penny Saver

This is a column that concerns numismatics. Immediately you exclaim, "Ah ha," and are intensely interested. Then I add in a discreet whisper that numismatics is the science of coins, tokens, medals and other such things, and that I am talking about Victoria's Centennial coin. Comprehension lights your eyes as it did Penny's when this mouthful was explained to her.

No doubt you have seen the coins in at least one of the 250 stores which carry them. If you haven't, here are a few details:

Coins are of jeweler's bronze and were struck in Vancouver after being designed by a Victoria artist. Front of coin carries replica of a bastion that was originally part of Fort Victoria. Dogwood on both sides naturally denotes the floral emblem of British Columbia.

Coin is actually redeemable and negotiable for $1 until noon on Oct. 31, 1962—provided you negotiate with a co-operating merchant or redeem with the Kiwanis Club of Victoria which is sponsoring the coins.

As a gift item, coin is suitable to send to relatives all over the world, as many Victorians have been doing. On request, you may buy the coin in its usual vinyl bag which protects it for collecting purposes, but also on a card with some of the data of its creation and with an envelope in which to mail it.

Coin may also be bought set in a gold circle and hung on a gold link chain, perfect as a medallion necklace for the ardent young Victoria miss. Price is $2.98.

There are also brooches, using the coin which sell for $1.95.

Local square dancers will soon be able to "go Centennial" with a western string tie bearing a coin as a tie bar.

Newest thing in presentation gifts is a Centennial coin strikingly set in a blue background and protected by a plastic stand which can be engraved. Price for one about three inches high is $2.50.

If you would like your numismatics as jewelry or trophy, call Penny at EV 2-3131 for name of stores which carry these articles.

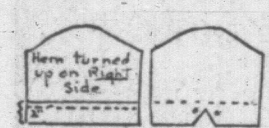

Save a Worn Shirt's Life—Shorten Frayed Sleeves

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"I'm a real novice at sewing but everything I make gives me a little more confidence and experience. Before too long I hope to be 'sewing up a storm.' My husband has many good white shirts that are only worn at the cuffs. Is there any reason I can't cut these off and make the new type short-sleeved shirts? He could still wear them this summer if you will tell me what to do."

Mrs. H. J. F.

Yes, this is one of the simple things you can do, and it will save dollars. Many of the short sleeved shirts you can buy are made of lighter weight fabric. However, I also found many of them in the regular type broadcloth. Measure carefully first so that you don't cut the sleeves too short. Most short-sleeved shirts are finished in one of two ways.

1. The first method is to allow about two inches for a hem. Turn the hem up with the RIGHT sides of the fabric touching. Now machine stitch a "V" about 1" deep and 1" wide at the fold of the hem. This should be in line with the shoulder of the shirt. Trim and turn the edges, turning the hem to the wrong side of the shirt. Turn under 1/4-inch fold of raw edge, machine stitch hem to shirt. A very small pearl button is placed at each side of the "V."

2. A second way to finish the sleeve is to allow 2 inches for a hem and then turn and baste 1/2-inch for the hem. Bring the hem up to the right side of the shirt and machine stitch about 1/4-inch from the fold at the top of the hem. This will give the appearance of a small "tuck."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Should Follow These Ten Commandments for Health

If we were given 10 commandments for health, let's think what they might be.

1. Good nutrition. Learn what the body requires for best health and prolonged youthfulness. Study nutrition. The things nutritionists know and are learning are some of the most exciting in modern life.

2. Try to spend an hour outdoors, walking, swimming, playing tennis or golf or riding horseback. Walking and swimming and golf can be enjoyed at any age if you have normal health.

3. Get enough sleep. Practically everyone needs at least seven hours regularly. Individuals differ. Some feel much better with more.

4. Take special exercises for 15 or 20 minutes daily. These beautify the figure and are good for the health.

5. Drink at least six glasses of fluid daily.

6. If at all possible, plan short rest periods during the day. This will banish fatigue and that "end of the day" feeling. You will get just as much, and likely more, work done in the day. This is not lost time.

7. If constipation is a problem, overcome it. This is possible even with cases of long standing.

8. Deep breathing is extremely relaxing. It calms tension. This will be useful if you are the nervous type.

9. Try not to worry. Do not indulge in negative thoughts, but concentrate on optimistic, positive ones. This is a little fountain of youth in itself.

10. Try to live in a relaxed manner. Plan your life so that you are not rushed and pushed all day long.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Are You Committing Suicide Slowly?" (constipation), send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 23 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY ...

Get Thee Behind Her, Satan!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Three weeks after we were married my husband was sent out of town by his firm and will be gone a year. Before he left he asked his brother to look after me so I wouldn't be lonely. The brother is two years older than my husband and looks and acts enough like him to pass for his twin. I find myself thinking romantically about my brother-in-law. I love my husband and don't want to hurt him. I could close my eyes and think his brother was my husband. What should I do?

ONLY HUMAN.
DEAR ONLY: Keep your eyes open. Wide open.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister, who lives in Germany, sent him a violin in 1914. It belonged to his grandfather, who got it from his father, so we know it has been in the family for over 100 years. When it came it was battered, but we had it refinished and it looks like new. We wrote to different people asking where to take it to have the value assessed and nobody answered. A violinist friend of ours saw it and played it and said it had a marvelous tone. He wanted to buy it but we didn't want it to go out of our family for sentimental reasons. Inside the violin, printed on a piece of paper, not the wood itself, is:

"ANTONIUS STRADIVARIUS CREMONENSIS FACIEBAT ANNO 1732" Is this worth anything?

MRS. M. M.
DEAR MRS. M.: Run, don't walk, to your telephone directory and look in the yellow pages for dealers in antique violins. Take your violin to several and you will soon find out if yours is a genuine Stradivarius. If it is, you have a real treasure. And no fiddling around.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his young wife have a four-month-old son. They also have a female cat. This animal is allowed the freedom of the house. She is on the chairs, sofa, tables and even jumps into the baby's crib and sleeps with him at night. I worry that the cat might suffocate the baby. Is there any truth to that? Both parents have had ringworm from this cat.

WORRIED GRAM.
DEAR WORRIED: Advise your son to ask his doctor about cats sleeping with babies. Especially a cat which has given both him and his wife "ringworm." If your son doesn't follow through, you do it. Your son and his wife appear as though they should be raising cats, not children.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "GENE'S WIFE": Don't try to change the spots on a 66-year-old leopard.

How's the world treating you? For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby care of this paper.

House Guests

Dr. and Mrs. D. W. McCord are here from Winnipeg as the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hammond in their home on Weald Road. Before coming to Victoria the visitors attended a dental convention in Vancouver and saw the Seattle World Fair. Leaving here this weekend, they will visit a son in Edmonton before returning home in late June.

Plan Dance

A cocktail dinner-dance will be held by the 800 Pacific Wing, Royal Canadian Air Force Association in the Urban Centre on Yates Street this evening. Affair is open to all ex-members of the RCAF or Royal Air Force.

Fete Bride-Elect

Miss Nona Butts entertained at a tea and shower in her Glen Lake home recently in honor of bride-elect, Miss Marilyn Birtwistle whose marriage to Mr. Wayne Barwick takes place this evening. Corages were presented to the guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. R. Birtwistle and groom-elect's mother, Mrs. C. Barwick. Also invited were Mrs. J. S. Williams, Mrs. W. Lowery, Mrs. W. J. Butts, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. R. Williams, Mrs. A. Rankin, Mrs. S. Sabell, Mrs. S. Starkey, Mrs. B. Harrison, Mrs. M. J. Creamer, Mrs. R. Fraser, Mrs. W. Sabell, Mrs. month tour of Europe.

Whirl of Parties Before June Ball

Victoria goes to the June Ball in HMCS Naden's gymnasium on Friday, June 15. To begin the evening, many parties have been planned. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stark will entertain in their Prospect Place home. Guests will include Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stepper, Mr. and Mrs. James Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Logan Mayhew, and Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Thompson.

In their home on Upper Terrace, Dr. and Mrs. C. Y. Brown will have as guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Di Castri, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Yuen and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Campton.

At the Weald Road home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Walters, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Whitney, Mr. Cliff Collison, Mrs. Eileen Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Eric Mallett of Vancouver will gather at a pre-ball party.

Guests at the Murray Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gladwell will include Mr. and Mrs. W. Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowbotham and Major and Mrs. David Carmichael.

For a party in their home on Larkdowne Road, Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Elford have invited Major and Mrs. Norman Featherstone, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kolb, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. B. Wrixon, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Kersey.

Dr. and Mrs. Simon Mariner will be hosts at a party in their home on King George Terrace. Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. G. L. Walther, Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Cragg, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sheret, Dr. and Mrs. W. T. W. Nash, Mr.

BACK IN This expert instruction, incidentally, is provided by the organization which produces a well-known line of British sports cars.

Ready ladies? You begin to seat your self, paradoxical as this may sound, by turning away from the seat. (See picture at left.) That's right. You turn away from the seat, backing in slowly.

After pivoting to seat yourself sideways, keep both feet together on the ground. (Picture second from left.) You are now seated, facing the front of the car, with your body twisted at the waist to the right, with both feet, remember, prettily placed together.

About this, point, being a woman, you should turn your head—but mind you, now, your head only—and give your escort behind the wheel a slightly superior "Look, no hands!" sort of smile. (Centre picture.) While he is marvelling at the first woman he has ever known who could get into a sports car, even half-way, without looking something like a calf scrambling through a split-rail fence, you deftly accomplish your coup d'état.

Swing your legs inside the car, stretch them out as you face fully forward (picture second from right) and close the door. You get out—gracefully—the reverse of the way you got in—gracefully.

Coming or going, it's really that simple. Of course, once you're in the car, your escort's approving smile, the will to the wisp ride, the lure of the open road, are all yours (picture at right).

When you're enjoying all three this summer, have fun, but for the love of life—drive safely!

Michael Young Wed In North Vancouver

Miss Penelope Margaret Rose was given in marriage by her father when she exchanged vows this afternoon with Michael Dalway Watson Young in St. Catherine's Anglican Church, Capilano Highlands, North Vancouver.

Rev. N. J. Godkin officiated at the ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Rose of North Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Young, of Victoria.

The bride wore a short-length gown styled with lace bodice and silk chiffon skirt. A white satin petal rose held her shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of blue cornflowers.

Two attendants, Mrs. Anthony Anzulovich and Miss Lois MacPherson, wore short-sleeved dresses of cornflower blue satin with belted skirts. Their satin bow headpieces were in tone.

Best man was Harry A. Young and the usher was Thomas Hodson.

Graham Rose proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held in the Canyon Gardens.

Newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Afternoon branch, Woman's Auxiliary, St. Saviour's Church, home of Mrs. James Addison, 517 Joffre St., Monday at 1:45 p.m.

Florence Nightingale Chapter, IOOE, Monday at 2 p.m., at home of Mrs. K. Mills, 1520 Fairfield Rd.

Married This Afternoon in St. Luke's Church

Wearing a classic floor-length gown of rich ivory brocade that she made herself, Elaine Anita Hirst exchanged vows with Geoffrey Castle in St. Luke's Anglican Church this afternoon.

Gown was styled with a V neckline, dipped waistline and lily point sleeves. Skirt, posed over erinodines, had a straight front panel and soft pleated fullness. A seed pearl coronet held the tiered waist-length tulle veil. She wore a single strand of culture pearls, gift of the groom and for "something old," an amethyst ring that had belonged to her great-grandmother. Trailing ribbons and ivy accented the deep pink roses and stephanotis in her bouquet.

Rev. T. D. B. Ragg officiated. The church was decorated with pink and white snapdragons and stocks, and pews were marked with white ribbon roses and tulle. Organist was Eric V. Edwards, and Mrs. Don Cameron sang "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. H. Godfrey Hirst, 2711 Dufferin Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Castle, 1004 Pemberton Road. Mr. Hirst gave his daughter in marriage.

Identical gowns in ice blue brocade, trimmed with self roses and complemented with headpieces of matching roses and veiling were chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. P. Kimberley, and bridesmaids.

Colorful Ball

Huge scarlet centennial medallions, cluster lights and hanging flower baskets set the scene when hundreds of guests attended the annual Firemen's Ball, held in the Empress Hotel on Friday evening. A backdrop featuring Victoria's original fire hall and the present building added to centennial theme.

Firemen's uniforms and formal attire of male guests were a perfect foil for the colorful gowns of their partners as dancers twirled to the music of Charlie Hunt's orchestra.

Pipers and drummers of the naval technical apprentice pipe band of HMCS Naden provided color and music for the grand march that wound its way through the hotel lobby and back to the ballroom.

Leading the grand march were His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. J. Bayliss, Fire Chief J. Bayliss and Mrs. George R. Peakes, Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell and Mrs. Dowell, Hon. W. D. Black and Mrs. Black, Mr. W. H. Sands and Mrs. Sands, Alderman M. J. Griffin and Mrs. Griffin, Dr. J. L. W. McLean and Mrs. McLean, Alderman A. W. Toone and Mrs. Toone. Punch was served and later in the evening guests gathered in the dining room for a supper that featured a variety of cold meats, salads and pastries.

Tea Hostess

Thirty-five guests will attend when Mrs. Courtney Haddock entertains at a tea in her Crescent Road home next Saturday in honor of her son's fiancée, Miss Joan Lapworth and her mother, Mrs. R. H. Lapworth, both of Vancouver. Presiding at the refreshment table which will be laid with an ecru Chinese lace cloth and decorated with pink—candles and pink snapdragons will be Mrs. W. R. Loudon and Mrs. W. E. Haddock, the groom-elect's grandmother. Servers will be the Misses Shirley Hastings, Linda McClung and Clare Haddock.

Canadian Daughters League, Assembly No. 5, Newstead Hall, Monday at 8 p.m.

Mrs. L. G. Smith and Mrs. George Gurney, the bride's cousin. They wore pink crystal necklets and earrings, gift of the bride, and carried bouquets of deep pink carnations.

Best man was Terry J. Holland and ushering were Don Cameron and Desmond Reed. Douglas Flintoff proposed the toast at a reception in Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Roses and lily of the valley topped the three-tier wedding cake. White candles and flowers completed decor on the bride's table.

Leaving on a honeymoon motoring trip to San Francisco, the bride donned a pure silk sheath in pink and blue tones, crushed strawberry coat, white velvet ribbon hat and white accessories. Newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Dr. Brock Chisholm opens the Elford Occupation Centre for the retarded.

HELP FOR RETARDED

Occupation Centre 'Active Democracy'

The efforts of a few dedicated men and women in Greater Victoria was held up on Friday as a perfect example of "democracy in action" by Dr. Brock Chisholm.

The former director of the World Health Organization was addressing a gathering of over 100 members and guests of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded during ceremonies for the official opening of the Elford Occupation Centre at 1450 Elford Street.

Association members, he said, had pooled their specialized knowledge and experiences to educate the community to the need of the retarded.

"This is the sort of valuable service which is not done from the top down, but by people who know the existing conditions and what is needed in a country," he said.

HUMAN INVESTMENT

Pointing to the house which is an occupational centre for retarded in Victoria of both pre- and post-school age, and which was purchased recently, Dr. Chisholm said "this is an investment, not only in money, but in human interest and devotion on the part of individuals to a need within the community."

"This house is brightening the lives of the mentally handicapped and is changing the pattern of the lives of the families from which they come."

He said this was a cause which should be expanded and receive wider support in Victoria.

"Too many of us are concerned only with ourselves," he said. Concern for the good of others needed to be practiced on the local level before it could be applied to the world scene.

Following the cutting of a ribbon by Dr. Chisholm at the door of the old Elford Street house, guests and members inspected the interior and were served refreshments, including freshly-baked bread, made partly by retarded themselves.

Music was provided during the afternoon by the South Saanich High Schools Band and Dr. Chisholm was introduced by Mrs. B. L. Packford. Lawrence Cottrell, president of the association, welcomed visitors.

No Belly Dance on TV

CAIRO (AP)—The belly dance, long frowned on by President Nasser's government, was barred Friday from Egyptian television. Tourists will still be able to see the dance in almost every Cairo night club.

'HOPELESS TANGLE' NOW, SAYS SOCRED CHIEF

Co-ordinated Defence Backed by Thompson

CALGARY (CP).—National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson Friday advocated creation of a new department of national security and reiterated the party's stand opposing nuclear weapons.

He told 900 persons at a rally that Canada's best defence precaution is helping the United States maintain a high retaliatory potential. If the U.S. deterrent fails, "no amount of defence paraphernalia Canada could afford would turn the trick."

Mr. Thompson said a department of national security would co-ordinate the country's defence program and would handle the activities of nine segments of the present national defence department.

"We must co-ordinate our piecemeal defence fragments into a welded, effective organization. Under the guidance of a minister of national security our forces would be co-ordinated and organized into a number of highly-mobile flying squads and task forces trained for a wide variety of emergencies at home and abroad.

It was Mr. Thompson's first major appearance before an audience here during the election campaign. With him on the platform were Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta and Bob Woodman, Bob Simpson and J. Francis Porter, the three local Social Credit candidates.

He said the argument over whether Canada should accept nuclear weapons is "torn and tattered, futile and ridiculous."

The Canadian defence program is "policy-less, futile, helpless tangle of pretence" which costs $1,700,000,000 a year, said Mr. Thompson. Canada should have a practical defence policy before the Russian "for the parts of our backsides."

MIRROR STARTS FIRE IN HOUSE

TOWSON, Md. (AP).—Mirror, mirror, tell me true: Who set the fire — was it you?

Towson firemen are asking that question after a fire mysteriously broke out in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stiever Thursday.

The only possible cause, the firemen decided, was that the sun's rays struck the mirror, and were reflected onto a bed. They said no one had been in the suburban Baltimore home for eight hours, before the short-lived blaze.

Unseasonal Weather Good For Forests

B.C. Forest Service officials are blessing the poor start of summer because it has prevented the usual early outbreak of fires.

The government has spent only $14,800 on 247 small fires since May 1. By this time last year 493 fires had cost $103,890.

However, things are warming up in the Prince Rupert and Prince George districts, which had 16 of B.C.'s 22 new fires this week.

Almost all the money has been spent in these areas.

Unsettled weather outlook for the coastal regions this weekend will keep fire hazards low, said a forest service spokesman.

There are 28 fires burning across the province, but all are under control.

DIEFENBAKER:

No Plan For Price Controls

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau
MONCTON, N.B.—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated today in an interview that he did not have price controls in mind when he issued a sharp warning to Canadian corporations not to boost prices and blame the devalued dollar.

This correspondent informed the prime minister that Liberal Leader Pearson at Windsor had suggested that the prime minister had price controls in mind to counter the impact of the devalued dollar.

ALL THEY KNOW
"Oh, no, no, you tell Mr. Pearson he is too close to the boys with the shiny controls, Messrs. Lamontagne and Kent. That's all they know is controls," reported the prime minister.

"I was ready. I have something in mind and business knows it. I worked. I was up early Thursday and I worked on this thing. I was ready," he said.

Asked if he had in mind an inquiry by the combine's commissioner under the Combines Act, the prime minister replied:

"I'm not prepared to say what I had in mind."

Major Firms Not Hiking Bread Price

Major bread manufacturers today indicated that they will hold the line on bread prices even though smaller bakeries insist that they will have to raise the price to meet expanded costs of flour.

George C. Metcalf, president of George Weston Limited, announced in the east Friday night that "Weston's will not increase the price of bread, as there is no justification for a price increase."

The Victoria manager of McEwan's Toastmaster Ltd., H. D. Mitchell, said today he has had no discussions with his head office about raising the price of bread.

"I don't know what it (the price) is going to do," he told the Times.

FLOUR PRICE UP

Other Victoria bakers, however, indicated that they might raise the price from one to two cents per loaf, because of the increased price of flour.

They were smaller, local bakeries, whose products retail at about three cents less than the current big-firm price of 19 cents a loaf.

"The price of flour has gone up, even if Diefenbaker does not like it," said a spokesman for Arnold's Bakeries.

"The last batch of flour we bought was quite a bit cheaper than the next one will be, and the price of flour has been creeping up steadily for over a year."

"Whether the price increase will be one or two cents, I don't know."

"The price certainly should go up," said A. & L. Bakeries. "People in the interior are paying 20 cents a loaf, and the flour is cheaper there."

Fulton Warns Bread Firms

VANCOUVER (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Friday night any general increase in the price of bread will result in immediate investigation of bakery companies involved under provisions of the Combines Act.

Anti-U.S. Move Grows

SEOUL (AP)—Anti-American demonstrations spread in South Korea today. The U.S. Army ordered American military personnel in the Seoul area restricted to base except for official business.

A U.S. Army spokesman called the confinement order a "temporary measure to reduce the possibility of incidents" in view of the wave of demonstrations demanding the U.S. government sign a status-of-forces agreement giving South Korea court jurisdiction over American servicemen in some instances.

Fly Spray Drink Kills Boy

KAMLOOPS (CP)—David McTague, 4, who was dramatically revived by his father after his heart stopped beating, died Friday night in hospital.

Helicopter pilot Bill Harvey, working in the Clearwater area, undertook to fly the child to hospital here. The boy's father, Harry McTague, went with him. Harvey landed at Blackpool, about 10 miles from Clearwater, when the boy turned blue. He got a salt solution from a nearby home and gave it to the child. Shortly after the flight resumed, the boy's heart apparently stopped, the pilot reported.

Two Die In Hotel Blaze

FLAN FLON, Man (CP)—Two men died today in a fire that destroyed the 80-room Flan Flon Hotel.

Art Ball, night manager, said earlier 11 of the 32 guests at the hotel were missing. He said later that all have been accounted for.

Both victims were found in the hotel and taken to the town morgue in the adjacent Hudson Bay Mining Employees' hospital immediately behind the burning building.

Cause of the fire has not been determined. Hospital officials were reported considering evacuating the frame hospital.

There were no other reported injuries, although hotel patrons are reported to have escaped by jumping from second storey windows and sliding down sheets to safety.

WIRE BRIEFS

Five Die in Crash

U.S. Nuclear Blast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States detonated a nuclear explosion near Christmas Island today—the 16th announced test in the current Pacific series. The Atomic Energy Commission said the weapon was dropped from an airplane and was of intermediate yield—probably about 100,000 tons of TNT.

Hospital Chiefs Quit

MONTREAL (CP)—The resignations of two top officials of St. Michel Hospital, named in a provincial inquiry commission's report for accepting profitable contracts with the government-subsidized hospital, were announced today.

By HAROLD K. MILKS
MADRID (AP)—Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centres hit by a seven-week siege of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

The strikes—illegal in Spain—dropped off sharply late last month after the government promised some workers pay increases of up to 50 per cent.

Franco's cabinet approved the decree suspending a key clause in Spain's bill of rights a few hours after the second bomb incident in three days rocked the Banco Popular, a big financial institution in the heart of Madrid.

Police blamed the left-wing Popular Liberation Front for the bombings which shattered windows in the bank and caused other damage. They were linked to recent strikes.

Franco has charged that Soviet subversion and "hot-headed separatist" Catholic priests played a major role in the strikes which idled more than 60,000 workers in the provinces of Asturias, Leon, Bilbao, Barcelona and Madrid itself.

Some priests have supported the north Basque region's demands for independence. Others have openly backed the strikes for higher wages. (See page 22.)

Franco said, however, the attitude of some priests did not alter the fundamental harmony between the church and state. Roman Catholicism is the state religion in Spain.

'WASTING OUR TIME'

Sparrows Winning Despite RAF Blitz

DONCASTER, England (AP)—RAF members were locked in battle with hundreds of chattering sparrows over the visit of Princess Margaret to their base at Fylingdale, Nunspeere, next Thursday.

So far the sparrows are winning.

The aim of Operation Sparrow is to drive out the birds nesting in No. 1 and No. 2 hangars—right over the spot where the princess, in summer frock and flowered hat, will present new colors to two of Britain's V-bomber squadrons.

The airman have climbed to the attack with sticks and brooms and torn down scores of nests from the rafters.

"But it looks as if we are wasting our time," said a sergeant. "The sparrows wait a

Despite his tender years, Lance Kerr, 13, has just finished his freshman year at the University of California at Los Angeles. Lance, who is less than five feet tall, figures he'll have a "B" average in his classes in anthropology, physics, maths and Russian.

He plans to become a physicist. (AP Wirephoto).

U.S. Senate Votes Record Arms Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate appropriations committee sided with the United States Air Force against President Kennedy and Defence Secretary McNamara Friday in voting the biggest military money bill in United States peacetime history.

The committee sent to the Senate a bill that would provide the full $491,000,000 requested by air force chief Gen. Curtis LeMay to speed development of the 2,000-mile-an-hour RS-70 reconnaissance strike airplane.

Kennedy's budget called for only $171,000,000 to continue development of a prototype or experimental plane and McNamara turned a deaf ear to LeMay's appeal for more funds to speed up the work.

The total appropriation approved by the Senate committee for the fiscal year starting July 1 was $48,429,221,000.

This is $522,000,000 more than Kennedy requested for the armed services and nearly $2,000,000,000 more than Congress voted last year.

NEEDED HUSBAND

A 25-year-old mother of two said she set fire to her house because she needed her husband, a convicted Freedomite terrorist.

Asked why she had burned her home, a wedding present from her husband five years ago, Mrs. Kay Makortoff replied:

"Because I need my husband with me and my home is no use to me unless we can be together. The government has separated us and they might as well take everything."

Her husband was recently sentenced to 15 years after being convicted of helping to blow up a Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company power pylon. The destruction of the pylon put 1,000 men out of work.

Centennial Flashback...

A special excursion to Nanaimo is planned tomorrow, to enable citizens to have a restful day at sea and to attend the opening of the new church. The steamer Enterprise will leave Victoria at noon, and return to Victoria noon Monday. Fare for the round trip excursion is $3.

The schooner Explorer has been chartered by a group intending to sail around the Island, combining hunting and fishing with prospecting and exploring.

Three Victoria residents indignantly denied they have anything to do with the British Columbia Transit Co. of London (see June 5), although their names are listed as directors. They are K. Gamble, Edward Langley and Thomas Southgate, all of whom are convinced the so-called "transit company" is out to bilk the public.

The section of the incorporation bill requiring the municipal authorities to keep the Esquimalt Road in repair was thrown out by the House of Assembly in committee of the whole.

'House no Use Without Mate'

TRAIL (CP)—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors kindled fires in five more of their homes in the British Columbia Kootenay today, continuing a fire demonstration that started Friday.

Police said furniture was being moved from more of the Sons' homes at Glade, 40 miles north of here, and there apparently would be more burnings.

Friday at the villages of Krestova, Shoreacres and Gilpin, members of the radical sect burned more than 50 of their own homes, then paraded in the nude as the plywood and tarpaper shacks cracked.

Most of the Freedomite children were kept from school Friday, duplicating a past performance by the sect that resulted in the provincial government taking many children from their parents.

NO ARRESTS

Police said there were no arrests because of the burnings but added if children are not back at school Monday action by truant officers will be necessary.

A reporter-photographer team from the Nelson News said some of the women at Krestova tossed buckets of water at police and reporters. About 10 of them stripped then started tossing stones.

"Get out, we're very upset today," they cried. "We can't be responsible for what we do."

"We'll pull your pants off. We'll throw rocks."

The women said "God told us to set their homes on fire." But authorities said the fires were likely in protest against Monday's preliminary hearing in New Westminster of 71 of the sect's fraternal council who are charged with conspiring to intimidate the legislature of B.C. and the Parliament of Canada with acts of violence. T. G. Bowen-Cole, thrust of the attorney-general's department said the hearing will go on as scheduled.

WOMAN KNIFES POLICEMAN

EDMONTON (CP)—An Edmonton policewoman suffered—as on her face and legs in an attack today by a knife-wielding woman in a downtown cafe. Police said a special constable in the cafe apparently offered no assistance.

Sally Krowchynski, 28, was taken to hospital and was reported in good condition. One wound on her left cheek required 14 stitches to close. In all it required 32 stitches to close all the cuts.

Ruby Green, 37, was charged with wounding with intent.

FINAL TOUCHES TO QUEEN IN BRONZE

Bronze bust of Queen Elizabeth, Times' Centennial gift to city, is nearing completion in Ottawa studio of sculptor Arthur Price. Original bust was executed in clay by Peggy Walton Packard of Victoria, who made original bust which was damaged by vandals in Beacon Hill Park. On left Mr. Price is seen assembling mold before pouring bronze.

Lying face up in rough-core which will form inner surface of bronze, while he holds portion of face taken from original by Mrs. Packard. In centre is finished product in bronze, fresh from casting. Burrs on cheek and chin line are caused by joints in mold, which is made in segments to avoid undercuts and simplify taking apart after casting. Careful work by sculptor with cold chisel removes most of burr. Some idea of final appearance is given in picture at right, after initial scrubbing with wire brush. It is hoped to have bust completed by end of this month for placing in Beacon Hill Park, probably in rose garden. (Photos by Dominion-Wide, Ottawa.)

FORT RODD HILL BECOMES MONUMENT

Early Work on Historic Site Urged

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Above the sparkling blue waters of Esquimalt Harbor, Fort Rodd Hill and Fisgard lighthouse today became an historic national park and monument to Canada's past.

From a red, blue and white dais overlooking the harbor, it was opened by George Chatterton, Progressive Conservative MP in the last federal government, and dedicated to "the glory of God" by Capt. Horatio Todd, chaplain to the Royal Canadian Navy at Belmont Park. The ceremony was completed with the formal signing over of the 44-acre site to the historic sites division of the department of northern affairs by Major R. B. Mainprize on behalf of the department of national defence.

"We are only sorry that Capt. D'Arcy could not be with us here today," he said. Col. Kent said the opening of Fort Rodd Hill Park was "the sequel to five years of persistent effort by a number of dedicated people."

DOCUMENTS RECEIVED

Major P. D. Crofton received the documents on behalf of the historic sites division.

"I hope they don't waste as much time developing it as they did in taking it over," said Lt. Col. Aubrey Kent, chairman of the Fort Rodd Hill committee which fought for preservation of the site.

Col. Kent expressed thanks to all who had worked to this end and in particular Capt. Geoffrey C. D'Arcy, who first pressed for development of the fort after it was declared "surplus" by the federal government.

Suspended Driver Sent to Prison

Andrew Jack of Brentwood was sent to prison for three months by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today when he admitted his third offence of driving while under suspension.

Police said Jack was arrested after he was found driving a car involved in a rear-end collision on Government Street Friday night.

VETERAN GUIDE

After the ceremony, guests were taken on a guided tour by William Walker of the Corps of Commissioners who, as a young gunner, fired the original six-inch guns at Fort Rodd 40 years ago.

Mr. Walker, who will be 70 this summer, was assigned to the fort after it was approved as a historic site by the Historical Sites and Monuments Board three years ago.

As a member of the permanent force, he spent many summers between the wars carrying out summer training at Fort Rodd Hill.

He is ready to make appointments to guide visitors who call him at EV 3-3308. The fort will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to one hour before sunset seven days a week.

WOMAN ROBBED OF $47 WHILE SUNNING IN PARK

A woman was robbed of $47 by three young boys as she enjoyed the summer sunshine in Beacon Hill Park Friday evening.

Miss E. M. Garlick, 106 St. Andrews, told city police she was reading a book in the lookout overlooking Horseshoe Bay when three boys playing nearby came over towards her, knocked over her shopping bag and stole her purse.

The purse contained $47 in cash and personal papers. The thieves were aged between 12 and 14, Miss Garlick said.

4 Men Remanded On Fraud Charge

Four Vancouver men appeared in Saanich police court today on a joint charge of obtaining $148.87 by false pretences from the Canada Safeway Store, 3400 Tillikum, on Friday by means of a worthless cheque.

Thomas Gordon, Leslie Miller, Walter Brunelle and Raymond Jones were remanded without plea to Monday afternoon.

Magistrate William Ostler set bail for each of them at $1,000 after prosecutor Angus

Smith told him further charges are pending in the case.

The arrests were made after Saanich police received complaints that a number of worthless cheques had been turned in at various supermarkets in the area. A total of eight cheques of about $150 each was involved.

The manager of one of the stores took the licence number of a car and police throughout Victoria area and RCMP at Saanich and Nanaimo were notified.

Shortly after 10 p.m. Nanaimo RCMP spotted the car less than 1,000 feet short of the ferry terminus. Saanich detectives travelled up Island and made the arrests.

FLOWER SHOW TO BE OPENED BY PRINCESS

Princess Mary the Princess Royal will open the summer flower show of Victoria Horticulture Society in the Curling Rink next Friday at 3:55 p.m.

The show will be open from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Saturday, after which there will be an auction sale.

There will be a demonstration of flowers arranged by Mrs. Theo Wiggan on Friday at 8 p.m. and on Saturday at 3 p.m.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me when the Americas Cup race first began? G.D.E.

A. It began on Aug. 8, 1870, with the unsuccessful attempt by J. Ashbury's Cambria (Great Britain) to capture the trophy from the Magic owned by F. Osmond (U.S.A.). Since then the American holders have never been defeated.

Q. This may be rather a strange question but has anyone ever recorded how far a flea can jump? M.W.C.

A. In 1910 a California rodent flea took a record leap of 13 inches; the highest altitude attained during flight was seven inches.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to "The Times," addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. # Candidates Locked in Last-Round Election Battles

The election campaign is now in its last week, and it's going to be a tough one; and a great deal will depend upon how hard the candidates work in a large number of borderline B.C. ridings.

It's going to be an election where every seat is important, and a few votes could decide the final outcome. In fact many observers believe the results may not be known June 18, but will depend upon recounts and the service vote.

Today's advance polls may give some indication of the turnout to be expected on election day. The bigger the turnout, the higher the hopes of the Liberals, NDP and Secreds of taking away Tory seats.

Rutter

When Pearson was in Vancouver he had a "clean" meeting, and Liberal officials counted themselves lucky the goons that wrecked Prime Minister Diefenbaker's rally didn't show up. They don't know how lucky they were. The goons were there alright, trying to break in the fire doors with crowbars. But they arrived too late; the Queen Elizabeth was full and the doors locked—ask any newsman who tried to get in.

Victoria Liberal Foster Isherwood's campaign has taken a turn for the better since Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane moved in to take charge along with George Gregory and Geoff Ellis. Isherwood has visited all the local hospitals, the service clubs, and now is touring industrial plants such as Yarrow's and VMD.

A 615 trip to a dairy this Wednesday went sour, though. Nobody told him the milkmen didn't arrive that time on Wednesday.

Esquimalt-Saanich Tory campaigner Russ Simpson nearly flipped last week when he went to meet Trade Minister Hees at Pat Bay. No Hees. Half an hour after the scheduled flight had arrived a man from the control tower ambled over to say "Somebody called Hees phoned to say he missed the plane." Hees turned up later in a chartered Cessna.

Jimmy Audain, the Victoria Social Credit candidate, says he's sorry for the press—currently getting it in the neck from both Tories and Secreds.

"Even if they don't subscribe to Social Credit principles at least the newspapers haven't blackguarded me. Besides you catch flies with honey not vinegar," he says.

They're here again: those fancy "personal" invitations from Premier Bennett to attend his Sacred "monster rally" at the Royal Theatre Tuesday. "Kindly present this invitation at the door," says the card. What happens if you don't?

Local Secreds were discussing what kind of entertainment to have at the Royal.

"Why don't you do something different—have a magic act?" it was suggested. "Heck no, the main speaker is a magician," said the organizer.

What ever happened to the NDP? Their campaign has gone awfully quiet.

One reason: the local candidates aren't holding public meetings. Another could be they're counting on a last-minute explosion when Tommy Douglas expects to pack the Vancouver Forum next Wednesday. B.C. leader Bob Strachan will be home again at the end of the week to try and stir things up in Oak Bay and Duncan.

Well, Bennett wanted a 90-cent dollar; now look what's happened. All the prices have gone up in his own cafeteria. Government employees now have to pay 70 cents for lunches that were formerly 60 cents.

When Trade Minister Hees was here he told us devaluation would only affect the Cadillac class. But price of the cheapest British auto—the Mini-Car—has gone up $90 to $1,583.

Victoria voters list has a gem: listed at 830 Pemberton is Peterson, L. R., occupation "cabinet maker." Evidently it was a compromise between minister and cabinet for Education Minister Les Peterson of the B.C. government.

Returning officer Edmond St. Jorre was furious. "Horseplay," he said. "No disrespect to the premier, but if anyone is the cabinet-maker, it should be him."

Since the election campaign began to get hot, I've received two anonymous "donations"—typewritten envelopes addressed to my home each enclosing a ten-dollar bill. The first, which came May 10 was marked "for honest reporting." The second, on Tuesday, had no message. While the sentiment may be well-meant, the money is just not acceptable.

As the donor is unknown I have turned the money over to charity. Whoever you are if you have money to give away, I'd much prefer you sent it direct to a charity—no more to me, please.

U.S. Sets Off Another A-Test Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States nuclear test blast was set off in the Pacific today for the second time in as many days.

Today's blast followed the pattern of one Friday. The Atomic Energy Commission said both were devices dropped from airplanes and were in the intermediate range—having an explosive force equivalent to that of from 20,000 to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

RIGHTS CLAUSE SUSPENDED

Franco Takes Firmer Grip

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP)—Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centres hit by a seven-week siege of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

The strikes—illegal in Spain—dropped off sharply late last month after the government promised some workers pay increases of up to 50 per cent.

Franco's cabinet approved the decree suspending a key clause in Spain's bill of rights a few hours after the second bomb incident in three days rocked the Basque Popular, a big financial institution in the heart of Madrid.

Police blamed the left-wing Popular Liberation Front for the bombings which shattered windows in the bank and caused other damage. They were linked to recent strikes.

Franco has charged that Soviet subversion and "hot-headed separatist" Catholic priests played a major role in the strikes which idled more than 60,000 workers in the provinces of Asturias, Leon, Bilbao, Barcelona and Madrid itself.

Some priests have supported the north Basque region's demands for independence. Others have openly backed the strikes for higher wages. (See page 22.)

Franco said, however, the attitude of some priests did not alter the fundamental harmony between the church and state. Roman Catholicism is the state religion in Spain.

TORY URGES 90c DOLLAR

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)

Liberal Leader Pearson said today that Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton is going to get into a lot of trouble for saying the dollar should be devalued to 90 cents in terms of United States currency.

"How can people have confidence in the present value of the Canadian dollar when a minister of the Crown says that he and some of his colleagues want to reduce further the value of the dollar?" Mr. Pearson asked.

Mr. Hamilton said in Vancouver Friday he favors a further devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 90 cents.

Mr. Hamilton told a press conference that the present level of 92½ cents is in effect a compromise among Conservative government members.

DIEFENBAKER:

No Plan
For Price Controls

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

Times Ottawa Bureau

MONCTON, N.B.—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated here

Friday in an interview that he did not have price controls in mind when he issued a sharp warning to Canadian corporations not to boost prices and blame the devalued dollar.

This correspondent informed the prime minister that Liberal Leader Pearson at Windsor had suggested that the prime minister had price controls in mind to counter the impact of the devalued dollar.

ALL THEY KNOW

"Oh, no, no, you tell Mr. Pearson he is too close to the boys with the shiny controls, Messrs. Lamontagne and Kent. That's all they know is controls," reported the prime minister.

"I was ready. I have something in mind and business knows it. I worked. I was up early Thursday and I worked on this thing. I was ready," he said.

Asked if he had in mind an inquiry by the combines commission under the Combines Act, the prime minister replied: "I'm not prepared to say what I had in mind."

Major Firms
Not Hiking
Bread Price

Major bread manufacturers today indicated that they will hold the line on bread prices even though smaller bakeries insist that they will have to raise the price to meet expanded costs of flour.

George C. Metcalf, president of George Weston Limited, announced in the east Friday night that "Weston's will not increase the price of bread, as there is no justification for a price increase."

The Victoria manager of McGavin's Toastmaster Ltd., H. D. Mitchell, said today he has had no discussions with his head office about raising the price of bread.

"I don't know what it (the price) is going to do," he told the Times.

FLOUR PRICE UP

Other Victoria bakers, however, indicated that they might raise the price from one to two cents per loaf, because of the increased price of flour. They were smaller, local bakeries, whose products retail at about three cents less than the current big-firm price of 19 cents a loaf.

The price of flour has gone up, even if Diefenbaker does not like it," said a spokesman for Arnold's Bakeries.

Fulton Warns
Bread Firms

VANCOUVER (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Friday night any general increase in the price of bread will result in immediate investigation of bakery companies involved under provisions of the Combines Act.

IN SOUTH KOREA

Anti-U.S.
Move Grows

SEOUL (AP)—Anti-American demonstrations spread in South Korea today. The U.S. Army ordered American military personnel in the Seoul area restricted to base except for official business.

A U.S. Army spokesman called the confinement order a "temporary measure to reduce the possibility of incidents" in view of the wave of demonstrations demanding the U.S. government sign a status-of-forces agreement giving South Korea court jurisdiction over American servicemen in some instances.

About 300 university students defying stern new warnings from South Korea's ruling military junta marched out of Taegu University today in a week resulting from the alleged beating of a Korean civilian trespasser by two U.S. Army officers last month.

WILL OF POLICE

A sear wall of police heeled the students about 100 yards from the main gate of the university in South Korea's third largest city, about 200 miles southeast of Seoul.

Refusing to withdraw, the students squatted in the street and turned their protest into a sit-down strike. There were no reports of violence.

The government announced Friday night that the U.S. has agreed in principle to resume negotiations toward a status-of-forces pact. But it said Washington had raised issues which South Korea "finds difficult to accept."

It did not elaborate on these points but said the U.S. has been asked to reconsider them.

New Shadow
Over Laos

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—The right-wing regime of Premier Prince Bouin Oum today accused his neutralist and leftist opposite numbers of raising "new obstacles" to formation of a three-way coalition government.

Prince Bouin's government issued a communique which cast a shadow over efforts to form a rightist-neutralist-leftist regime. It came a day after Neutralist Leader Prince Souvanna Phouma said only a "millimetre of difference" separated the negotiators from agreement.

The communique made no mention of further talks. Following his talks Friday with Bouin and pro-Communist Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphanouvong, Souvanna said another session would be held Monday.

He did not elaborate on these points but said the U.S. has been asked to reconsider them.

Head-and-Head
Duel in Belmont

NEW YORK (AP)—Jaipur with Willie Shoemaker aboard dropped his nose in the front at the finish line and won the 94th running of the $153,300 Belmont Stakes today. Admiral's Voyage was second, Crimson Satan third and Kentucky Derby winner Decidedly fourth.

After trailing Admiral's Voyage for most of the 1½ miles, Jaipur battled his way to the front for a nose decision with a clocking of 2:28.4. Admiral's Voyage finished a length and a quarter in front of Crimson Satan after the first three horses had battled on almost even terms for the last 3/16th of a mile.

Decidedly was another 6½ lengths back. Greek Money, the Preakness winner, was seventh in the field of eight three-year-olds.

Jaipur paid $7.70, $1.40 and $3.40 in earning $109,550. Admiral's Voyage returned $7.10 and $5.20 and Crimson Satan paid $3.70 to show.

Admiral's Voyage, owned by Fred W. Hooper and ridden by Brian Payne, took an early lead and set the pace with Jaipur, bearing George D. Widener's silks, in second place, and Crimson Satan, from the Crimson King Farms never far off the pace.

Shoemaker, riding his fourth winner in as many mounts today, moved Jaipur up with Admiral's Voyage with little more than a quarter of a mile remaining. They hooked up in a duel and were soon joined by Crimson Satan in their torrid stretch drive before a crowd of 50,032.

MORE HOMES BURNED

7 Douk Women
Under Arrest

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Seven Sons of Freedom Douk-hobor women were arrested today as Freedomites continued burning their own homes in the British Columbia Kootenay.

Police said charges of conspiracy to commit arson may be laid Monday.

RCMP said Freedomites kindled fires in five of their shack-type homes today as they continued a fire demonstration that began Friday.

The homes included clusters of tar-paper and plywood buildings and their lean-to additions and two were separate houses and were set ablaze early today in Glade while some women paraded nude in the village.

Police said furniture was being moved from more of the Sons' homes at Glade, 40 miles north of here, and there apparently would be more burnings.

Friday at the villages of Krestova, Shoreacres and Gilpin, members of the radical sect burned more than 50 of their own homes, then paraded in the nude as the plywood and tarpaper shacks crackled.

Most of the Freedomite children were kept from school Friday, duplicating a past performance by the sect that resulted in the provincial government taking many children from their parents.

TOSS STONES

A reporter-photographer team from the Nelson News said some of the women at Krestova tossed buckets of water at police and reporters.

About 10 of them stripped then started tossing stones. "Get out, we're very upset today," they cried. "We can't be responsible for what we do."

"We'll pull your pants off, we'll throw rocks."

The women said "God told us to set their homes on fire."

But authorities said the fires were likely in protest against Monday's preliminary hearing in New Westminster of 71 of the sect's fraternal council who are charged with conspiring to intimidate the legislature of B.C. and the Parliament of Canada with acts of violence. T. G. Bowen-Cole, the attorney-general's department said the hearing will go on as scheduled.

A 25-year-old mother of two said she set fire to her house because she needed her husband, a convicted Freedomite terrorist.

Asked why she had burned her home, a wedding present from her husband five years ago, Mrs. Kay Makortoff replied: "Because I need my husband with me and my home is no use to me unless we can be together. The government has separated us and they might as well take everything."

Fly Spray Drink Kills Boy

KAMLOOPS (CP)—David McTague, 4, who was dramatically revived by his father after his heart stopped beating, died Friday night in hospital from a lethal dose of a poisonous fly spray.

The accident happened at Clearwater, about 80 miles north of here.

Helicopter pilot Bill Harvey, working in the Clearwater area, undertook to fly the child to hospital here. The boy's father, Harry McTague, went with him.

Harvey landed at Blackpool, about 10 miles from Clearwater, when the boy turned blue. He got a salt solution from a nearby home and gave it to the child.

Shortly after the flight resumed, the boy's heart apparently stopped, the pilot reported.

While flying the helicopter, Harvey assisted the father in giving the boy artificial respiration. The boy died in hospital later.

Five Men Die As Cars Crash Head-On

CALGARY (CP)—Five men were killed in a two-car collision south of here today.

It took one hour and 40 minutes to pull the cars apart and remove the bodies. An RCMP constable said "it was a terrible sight."

U.S. Sets Off Another A-Test Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States nuclear test blast was set off in the Pacific today for the second time in as many days.

Today's blast followed the pattern of one Friday. The Atomic Energy Commission said both were devices dropped from airplanes and were in the intermediate range—having an explosive force equivalent to that of from 20,000 to 1,000,000 tons of TNT.

Kamloops Marksman Wins Rifle Prize

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—Sgt. George Farquarson of the Rocky Mountain Rangers in Kamloops defeated two other marksmen in a shoot-off here today to win the Lieutenant-Governor's Cup in the B.C. Rifle Association's annual prize meeting at Blair Range.

Lobster Fishermen Feared Drowned

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (UPI)—Two part-time lobster fishermen, missing since they rowed out to haul traps in rough seas Friday, were presumed drowned today after their 16-foot boat was found swamped on a beach.

Argos Take Dublinski From Ti-Cats

TORONTO (UPI)—The Toronto Argonaut football club announced today it had acquired quarterback Tom Dublinski from the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in a trade for end Ed Ochiena and tackle Dale Klassen. Dublinski will play for the Argonauts as a Canadian.

RIGHTS CLAUSE SUSPENDED

Franco Takes Firmer Grip

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP)—Plagued by bombings and crippling strikes, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime today suspended for two years the Spanish people's constitutional right to choose where they want to live in Spain.

Under the sweeping edict, the government can control the movement of anyone opposed to Franco and keep agitators out of industrial centres hit by a seven-week siege of strikes that paralyzed mines and key factories.

The strikes—illegal in Spain—dropped off sharply late last month after the government promised some workers pay increases of up to 50 per cent.

Franco's cabinet approved the decree suspending a key clause in Spain's bill of rights a few hours after the second bomb incident in three days rocked the Banco Popular, a big financial institution in the heart of Madrid.

Police blamed the left-wing Popular Liberation Front for the bombings which shattered windows in the bank and caused other damage. They were linked to recent strikes.

Franco has charged that Soviet subversion and "hot-headed separatist" Catholic priests played a major role in the strikes which killed more than 60,000 workers in the provinces of Asturias, Leon, Bilbao, Barcelona and Madrid itself.

Some priests have supported the north Basque region's demands for independence. Others have openly backed the strikes for higher wages. (See page 22.)

Franco said, however, the attitude of some priests did not alter the fundamental harmony between the church and state. Roman Catholicism is the state religion in Spain.

TORY URGES 90c DOLLAR

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Liberal Leader Pearson said today that Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton is going to get into a lot of trouble for saying the dollar should be devalued to 90 cents in terms of United States currency.

"How can people have confidence in the present value of the Canadian dollar when a minister of the Crown says that he and some of his colleagues want to reduce further the value of the dollar?" Mr. Pearson asked.

Mr. Hamilton said in Vancouver Friday he favors a further devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 90 cents.

Mr. Hamilton told a press conference that the present level of 92½ cents is in effect a compromise among Conservative government members.

The 90-cent level, he said, is a "natural peg which is defensible with our negative trade balance."

DIEFENBAKER:

No Plan For Price Controls

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

Times Ottawa Bureau

MONCTON, N.B.—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated here Friday in an interview that he did not have price controls in mind when he issued a sharp warning to Canadian corporations not to boost prices and blame the devalued dollar.

This correspondent informed the prime minister that Liberal Leader Pearson at Windsor had suggested that the prime minister had price controls in mind to counter the impact of the devalued dollar.

"Oh, no, no, you tell Mr. Pearson he is too close to the boys with the shiny controls, Messrs. Lamontagne and Kent. That's all they know is controls," reported the prime minister.

"I was ready. I have something in mind and business knows it. I worked. I was up early Thursday and I worked on this thing. I was ready," he said.

Asked if he had in mind an inquiry by the combines commissioner under the Combines Act, the prime minister replied: "I'm not prepared to say what I had in mind."

ALL THEY KNOW

Major bread manufacturers today indicated that they will hold the line on bread prices even though smaller bakeries insist that they will have to raise the price to meet expanded costs of flour.

George C. Metcalf, president of George Weston Limited, announced in the east Friday night that "Weston's will not increase the price of bread, as there is no justification for a price increase."

The Victoria manager of McGavin's Toastmaster Ltd., H. D. Mitchell, said today he has had no discussions with his head office about raising the price of bread.

"I don't know what it (the price) is going to do," he told the Times.

FLOUR PRICE UP

Other Victoria bakers, however, indicated that they might raise the price from one to two cents per loaf, because of the increased price of flour.

They were smaller, local bakeries, whose products retail at about three cents less than the current big-firm price of 19 cents a loaf.

The price of flour has gone up, even if Diefenbaker does not like it," said a spokesman for Arnold's Bakeries.

FULTON WARNS BREAD FIRMS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton said Friday night any general increase in the price of bread will result in immediate investigation of bakery companies involved under provisions of the Combines Act.

Balloting was light at both Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich early today. Voters who will be absent from the city on election day may cast their votes until 8 tonight, and on Monday. (Halkett Photo.)

IN SOUTH KOREA

Anti-U.S. Move Grows

SEOUL (AP)—Anti-American demonstrations spread in South Korea today. The U.S. Army ordered American military personnel in the Seoul area restricted to base except for official business.

A U.S. Army spokesman called the confinement order a "temporary measure to reduce the possibility of incidents" in view of the wave of demonstrations demanding the U.S. government sign a status-of-forces agreement giving South Korea court jurisdiction over American servicemen in some instances.

About 300 university students defying stern new warnings from South Korea's ruling military junta marched out of Taejeu University today in the third demonstration in a week resulting from the alleged beating of a Korean civilian trespasser by two U.S. Army officers last month.

A solid wall of police halted the students about 100 yards from the main gate of the university in the South Korea's largest city, about 200 miles southeast of Seoul.

Refusing to withdraw, the students squatted in the street and turned their protest into a sit-down strike. There were no reports of violence.

The government announced Friday night that the U.S. has agreed in principle to resume negotiations toward a status-of-forces pact. But it said Washington had raised issues which South Korea "finds difficult to accept."

It did not elaborate on these points but said the U.S. has been asked to reconsider them.

WOMAN KNIFES POLICEWOMAN

EDMONTON (CP)—An Edmonton policewoman suffered cuts on her face and legs in an attack today by a knifewielding woman in a downtown cafe. Police said a special constable in the cafe apparently offered no assistance.

Sally Krowchynski, 28, was taken to hospital and was reported in good condition. One wound on her left cheek required 11 stitches to close. In all it required 32 stitches to close all the cuts.

Ruby Green, 37, was charged with wounding with intent.

U.S. Senate Votes Record Arms Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate appropriations committee sided with the United States Air Force against President Kennedy and Defence Secretary McNamara Friday in voting the biggest military money bill in United States peacetime history.

The committee sent to the Senate a bill that would provide the full $491,000,000 requested by air force chief Gen. Curtis LeMay to speed development of the 2,000-mile-an-hour RS-70 reconnaissance strike airplane.

Kennedy's budget called for only $171,000,000 to continue development of a prototype or experimental plane and McNamara turned a deaf ear to LeMay's appeal for more funds to speed up the work.

The total appropriation approved by the Senate committee for the fiscal year starting July 1 was $48,429,221,000.

New Shadow Over Laos

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—The right-wing regime of Premier Prince Boun Oum today accused his neutralist and leftist opposite numbers of raising "new obstacles" to formation of a three-way coalition government.

Prince Boun's government issued a communique which cast a shadow over efforts to form a rightist - neutralist - leftist regime. It came a day after Neutralist Leader Prince Souvanna Phouma said only a "millimetre of difference" separated the negotiators from agreement.

The communique made no mention of further talks. Following his talks Friday with Boun and pro-Communist Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphavong, Souvanna said another session would be held Monday.

Head-and-Head Duel in Belmont

NEW YORK (AP)—Jaipur with Willie Shoemaker aboard dropped his nose in the front at the finish line and won the 94th running of the $153,300 Belmont Stakes today. Admiral's Voyage was second, Crimson Satan third and Kentucky Derby winner Decidedly fourth.

After trailing Admiral's Voyage for most of the 1 1/4 miles, Jaipur battled his way to the front for a nose decision with a clocking of 2:28.4. Admiral's Voyage finished a length and a quarter in front of Crimson Satan after the first three horses had battled on almost even terms for the last 3/16th of a mile.

Decidedly was another 6 1/2 lengths back. Greek Money, the Preakness winner, was seventh in the field of eight three-year-olds. Jaipur paid $7.70, $4.40 and $3.40 in earning $109,550. Admiral's Voyage returned $7.40 for a crowd of 50,032.

Admiral's Voyage, owned by Fred W. Hooper and ridden by Braulio Baeza, took an early lead and set the pace with Jaipur, bearing George D. Widener's silks, in second place, and Crimson Satan, from the Crimson King Farms, never far off the pace.

Shoemaker, riding his fourth winner in as many mounts today, moved Jaipur up with Admiral's Voyage with little more than a quarter of a mile remaining. They hooked up in a duel and were soon joined by Crimson Satan in their torrid stretch drive before a crowd of 50,032.

MORE HOMES BURNED

7 Douk Women Under Arrest

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Seven Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women were arrested today as Freedomites continued burning their own homes in the British Columbia Kootenay.

Police said charges of conspiracy to commit arson may be laid Monday.

RCMP said Freedomites kindled fires in five of their shack-type homes today as they continued a fire demonstration that began Friday.

The homes included clusters of tarpaper and plywood buildings and their lean-to additions and two were separate houses and were set ablaze early today in Glade while some women paraded nude in the village.

Police said furniture was being moved from more of the Sons' homes at Glade, 40 miles north of here, and there apparently would be more burnings.

Friday at the villages of Krestova, Shoreacres and Gilpin, members of the radical sect burned more than 50 of their own homes, then paraded in the nude as the plywood and tarpaper shacks crackled.

Most of the Freedomite children were kept from school Friday, duplicating a past performance by the sect that resulted in the provincial government taking many children from their parents.

A reporter - photographer team from the Nelson News said some of the women at Krestova tossed buckets of water at police and reporters.

About 10 of them stripped then started tossing stones. "Get out, we're very upset today," they cried. "We can't be responsible for what we do."

"We'll pull your pants off, we'll throw rocks," the women said. "God told us to set their homes on fire." But authorities said the fires were likely in protest against Monday's preliminary hearing in New Westminster of 71 of the sect's fraternal council who are charged with conspiring to intimidate the legislature of B.C. and the Parliament of Canada with acts of violence. T. G. Bowen-Collthurst of the attorney-general's department said the hearing will go on as scheduled.

A 25-year-old mother of two said she set fire to her house because she needed her husband, a convicted Freedomite terrorist.

Asked why she had burned her home, a wedding present from her husband five years ago, Mrs. Kay Makortoff replied: "Because I need my husband with me and my home is no use to me unless we can be together. The government has separated us and they might as well take everything."

Her husband was recently sentenced to 15 years after being convicted of helping to blow up a Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company power pylon.

88 Face 'Firing' From Hillcrest

DUNCAN — Rejection of a proposal to end a five-month work stoppage at Hillcrest Lumber Co. Ltd. Mesachie Lake operations may mean that 88 company loggers will be discharged.

A government-supervised vote here Friday on a proposal to reinstitute a free Duncan bus on a temporary basis was rejected by a vote of 51-11.

Peter Stone, a director of the company, said today that rejection of the proposal leaves the company very few courses of action—and one of them is to discharge the men.

"We've gone as far as we can," he said. "If the men don't turn up for work Monday morning we will have to consider terminating our relationship with them."

The company's big sawmill at Mesachie Lake will be forced to shut down Friday because of a log shortage, thus throwing another 200 men out of work.

Deputy Labor Minister William H. Sands, who devised the formula under which the men would work, and which was agreed to by both the company and IWA headquarters in Vancouver, said today there is nothing more the government can do in the dispute.

"I'm at the end of my tether," he said.

Weldon C. Jubenville, president of Local 180, International Woodworkers of America, which represents the men, said today the offer for settlement of the dispute was "completely acceptable" except that it did not provide transportation for 20 Lake Cowichan loggers.

"I advised them only to vote as you please," but obviously they want the Lake Cowichan bus reinstated," Mr. Jubenville said.

'WASTING OUR TIME'

Sparrows Winning Despite RAF Blitz

DONCASTER, England (AP) — RAF members were locked in battle with hundreds of chattering sparrows over the visit of Princess Margaret to their base at Finningley, Nensdger, next Thursday.

So far the sparrows are winning.

The aim of Operation Sparrow is to drive out the birds nesting in No. 1 and No. 2 hangars—right over the spot where the princess, in summer frock and flowered hat, will present new colors to two of Britain's V-bomber squadrons.

The airmen have climbed to the attack with sticks and brooms and torn down scores of nests from the rafters.

"But it looks as if we are wasting our time," said a sergeant. "The sparrows wait a few minutes after each blitz, then return and just sit around and chirp."

Cowichan Holds Training Trials

DUNCAN — D. MacGuire was the only athlete to win three events as the Cowichan Branch 53, Royal Canadian Legion, held district eliminations in the Legion's Junior Olympic training program.

Competing in the midge boys' division, MacGuire won the 220 yards, shot put and discus throw.

Jeremy Long captured the juvenile boys' mile and half-mile events.

Top two finishers in each event will compete in zone competitions on June 16.

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA, 1862

JUNE 9

A special excursion to Nanaimo is planned tomorrow, to enable citizens to have a restful day at sea and to attend the opening of the new church. The steamer Enterprise will leave Victoria at noon, and return to Victoria noon Monday. Fare for the round trip excursion is $3.

The schooner Explorer has been chartered by a group intending to sail around the island, combining hunting and fishing with prospecting and exploring.

Three Victoria residents indignantly denied they have anything to do with the British Columbia Transit Co. of London (see June 5), although their names are listed as directors. They are K. Gamble, Edward Langley and Thomas Southgate, all of whom are convinced the so-called "transit company" is out to bilk the public.

The section of the incorporation bill requiring the municipal authorities to keep the Esquimalt Road in repair was thrown out by the House of Assembly in committee of the whole.

HOLY LOCH, Scotland (AP) — Police moved in quickly today on sit-down demonstrations trying to block supplies to the United States Polaris submarine depot ship Proteus, arresting them by the dozen.

AROUND THE ISLAND

Sky-Jumpers at Strawberry Fair

BRENTWOOD — Three Victoria Flying Club parachute jumpers are scheduled to put on a display at the first annual Brentwood Strawberry Festival June 23.

Director Jerry Walker and jumpers Bob Volkman and Barry Leonard will appear in the sky over the West Saanich Wallace Drive grounds between 2 and 4 p.m.

Brentwood Women's Institute will sponsor an afternoon baby show, and 4-H clubs in the district have arranged displays and demonstrations.

Afternoon program will be from 1 to 6 p.m., and there will be a dance from 9 to midnight. Arrangements now are being made for a 6 to 9 p.m. "sock-hog" for teenagers.

Two separate contests for posters advertising the festival are under way in Mount Newton Junior High School and three Central Saanich elementary schools.

Mrs. Frank Littlewood, telephone GR 4-1308, is convener of the baby show, and will have information for entries.

COLWOOD — A beach fire near Albert Head was extinguished Friday by Colwood volunteer firemen who lowered themselves and their equipment down a 100-foot cliff to the blaze.

It actually started Saturday when an abandoned picnic fire went out of control. Both Colwood and B.C. Forest Service crews worked on it during the week.

COURTENAY — The city's "fresh water" mooring has been invaded by teredos.

Ald. George Hobson reported that pilings in the Courtenay River marina have been badly honeycombed by the salt water worms.

The marina basin, which was thought to be an ideal fresh water mooring, has been found to contain a layer of salt water at the bottom which has harbored the teredos.

The city parks committee will investigate and recommend corrective action.

The Village Commission will purchase three citizens' band shortwave radio units for the fire department at a total cost of $750.

Need for the equipment has been urged by the fire department for some time because of the need for quick communication should a second fire break out while the men are fighting a blaze.

The units will be supplied and installed by Don Robertson, local television, radio repairman who also is a volunteer fireman.
